'TORCH SLAYER' GRILLED IN 2ND DEATH

'Miss X' to 'Tell Truth' on Aimee

Today

Miss Guinan Is Dry.
Leviathan Is Wet.
Teddy in the Tomb.
Following the Fish.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

YOUNG ladies and gentlemen that make "whoopee" and believe they are keeping up with the times, consider Miss Texas Guinan, "Queen of the Night Clubs." As she travels to and fro in the night clubs and goeth up and down therein, a flood of imitation champagne and synthetic gin flows around her.

BUT TEXAS GUINAN NEVER DRINKS A DROP.

THAT'S why she is queen of the night clubs.

Girls that drink will never be queen of anything, except, temporarily, queen of the heart of some young fool, also a drinker.

THE United States ran the Leviathan more or less "dry," at a loss.

Private owners are running the big steamer comfortably "wet," and will make a profit.

NO open bars on the ship, but anything you want to drink, served in dining rooms, cabins, etc.

Earnest prohibitionists will protest against a nationally-owned ship being changed into an alcoholic conveyance. Protesting probably won't do any good.

TEDDY, 15-year-old silver terrier, lies in Union Cemetery, Greensburg, Pa., in a vault with deceased members of the Kettering family. That family wants the dog removed. His loving owner, also a Kettering, says no.

IF a live terrier can dwell among the living, why not a dead terrier among the dead?

If, and when, the Kettering family rise in obedience to the last trumpet, it wouldn't do any harm, in fact, it would be rather homelike, to have Teddy rise also, and frolic around.

NEW JERSEY enforcement agents saw fish stupefied, actually drunk, in Jacob's Creek. Following the line of fish, they found a distillery.

Why not apply this to men? When a drunkard kills another or kills himself, why not follow the trail to the individual that sold the whisky? He is the real criminal.

THE country will sympathize with Arkansas, visited by a deadly tornado, destroying towns and killing many. Science predicts with amazing accuracy tomorrow's weather and the return of a comet 50 years hence, but cannot predict the spot where tornado or earthquake will strike. The only hope is in building to minimize the danger.

WASHINGTON discusses peace on the high seas with Great Britain, limits on the number of ships, to be the foundation of peace.

The way to have peace with Britain and other countries is to build as many ships, and especially as many airships, as we need.

This country announced a building program of 15 fast cruisers, and peace talk came from England, like "Iser rolling rapidly."

NEW YORK STATE begins next Monday, "Kindness to Animals Week."

The greatest kindness to animals is development of motor trucks that save horses, tortured in winter by slippery pavements, in summer by excessive heat and lack of water.

MR. STIMSON refuses to let the State Department enter a foolish squabble about "social precedence."

Ladies and their husbands, brothers and aunts may sit at table where they like for all he cares. He thinks that, in a republic, Mrs. Snooks is as good as Mrs. Jones.

FOREIGN diplomats, who take such things seriously, a majority having nothing else to take seriously, decide the Vice President's sister may go in to dinner ahead of diplomats' wives. If that makes anybody happy, so much the better.

MEXICO Government reveals another unsuccessful attempt to murder Gen. Calles, in charge of the Mexican National forces.

The rebel generals, Escobar, Manzo, Cruz and Caraveo, are said to have employed a man and a woman to blow up the Calles train. Those who believe Calles is the enemy of religion, are surprised at his numerous escapes.

THE mayor of Johnstown, Pa., seems to have been diligent in his business, such as it was. He goes to jail convicted of extortion, perjury, conspiracy, misdemeanor in office, and keeping a gambling house.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 12.—Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Seilaff, woman of mystery in the Aimee Semple McPherson kidnaping case, upon her arrival here from Seattle, declared she was prepared to "tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth about the whole affair."

Brought to Sacramento by members of the board of prosecutors, to testify in the impeachment trial of Judge Carlos S. Hardy, of Los Angeles, the self-styled "Miss X" of McPherson case declared that "I am unafraid of Judge Hardy's cross-examination and I propose to go right down the line and name names.

"TIME FOR SHOWDOWN"

"There is nothing in my past that I am afraid of either prosecution or defense dragging up.

"This is the time for a showdown and I propose to make a clean breast of everything, including the entire Carmel shack indictment.

"Mrs. McPherson was the woman with Ormiston at the Carmel cottage. She herself told me so. Her mother told me so and Dr. S. M. Waters, of Los Angeles, attended her there. Why did Dr. Waters commit suicide when the district attorney's office of Los Angeles was preparing to question him. I will tell the court that too."

ACCUSES JUDGE HARDY

Mrs. Seilaff amplified her affidavit and earlier statements, accusing Judge Hardy of inducing her to pose as the "Miss X" who shared the "love cottage" with Kenneth Ormis-

Harold Lloyd Firm Sued for $2,000,000

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—(INS.)—The Harold Lloyd corporation was defendant today in a $2,000,000 damage suit filed by H. C. Witwer, famous author, who charges the picture concern plagiarized one of his stories in making "The Freshman," said to have netted over $2,000,000 profit.

Officials of the Lloyd Company said the suit was a re-filing of "an old case recently dismissed in the state courts; that no foundation exists for the plagiarism charge."

Port Vue Asks Court to Cite Vanderbilt

A demand that officials of the Pittsburgh, McKeesport and Youghiogheny Railroad—including W. K. Vanderbilt—be held in contempt of court for failing to improve the river road, Port Vue, was made before Judge Elder W. Marshall today.

A petition, bearing the name of John F. Moore, president of Port Vue Council, asked that J. B. Yohe, president, and other officials of the railroad, be haled into court for contempt. Judge Marshall took the petition under advisement.

The railroad has failed to obey a court order of June 2, 1928, calling on it to reconstruct the river road within eight months, the petition sets forth.

Officials and directors named besides Yohe are P. S. Crowley, A. H. Harris, J. L. Burdett, E. Stevenson, H. G. Snelling, W. K. Vanderbilt, F. W. Vanderbilt and A. R. Reymer.

FATE OF POLICE BILL IN DOUBT

Passage of legislation depriving the coal and iron police of their power for evil is by no means assured, Representative M. A. Musmanno, father of the proposed corrective measure, said today, on his return from Harrisburg. Unless favorable action is taken on Monday the bill is doomed, in his opinion.

Musmanno came home to try a case, but said he planned to go back to the capital tonight and devote tomorrow to study of potential obstacles to the passage of his bill.

One of the most formidable, he said, lay in the possibility of a jam in the Legislature's printing shop.

CHANCE FOR SLIP

Even a typographical error may be fatal, he suggested; and if amendments are introduced it is far from impossible that the amended bill will come from the printers too late to receive consideration.

Musmanno was asked who were opposing his bill, and why.

"I have been corrugating my brow, trying to find out," he replied. "It's a mystery. It is easy to guess what influences are opposing the legislation. But I can

U. S. WINS BELL TAX SUIT

Creditors of the bankrupt John A. Bell face a loss of $284,987.62, or whatever part of that sum remains in the estate of the once wealthy banker, by a ruling of the referee in bankruptcy, Watson B. Adair, today.

The referee awarded that amount to the government for income tax. Bell had claimed exemption on the ground of "bad debts."

James N. Jarvis, trustee for the estate, said there was not quite enough money available now to meet the tax. He appealed a part of the decision to Federal Court. A tax of $37,636.41 for 1919 and 1921 was uncontested, but the remainder, for 1923 and 1924, was appealed.

Broken physically and financially, Bell is serving a six-year jail sentence in Allegheny General Hospital.

ASK CLEANUP AT WILMERDING

The United States government has been asked to turn the spotlight of a grand jury investigation on vice in Wilmerding, and to correct what is alleged to be a complete breakdown of law and order in that industrial borough.

Charges that Wilmerding is a "wide-open" town, that bootlegging, gambling, blackmail and terrorism flourish there, and that graft rules the borough's political roost, were laid before United States District Attorney John D. Meyer, yesterday by a Wilmerding councilman, Frank Kukurin.

MEYER UNDECIDED

It was the climax to a score of requests by Kukurin that Meyer take action. Meyer today said he was considering the councilman's charges, but was "not contemplating saying anything about a grand jury investigation."

Kukurin, chairman of the borough police committee, accused borough

M'GOVERN REPENTS BRAWL

Today's calm after his fisticuffs with County Commissioner E. V. Babcock brought a public apology from Commissioner Charles C. McGovern and a promise to make a personal one upon the first opportunity.

Informed of McGovern's statement, issued to the newspapers, Babcock stated he had no comment to make.

CALLED "CHEATER"

The apology follows an attack made upon Babcock after yesterday's commissioners' session, during which the two officials had indulged in a verbal battle. As Babcock was about to leave the office McGovern approached him to question him about his being called a "cheater." As Babcock refused to speak to him, McGovern hit his colleague on the jaw, knocking him to the floor.

McGovern's signed statement, issued this morning, follows:

"With the calm afterthought that follows on the heels of passion, in an incident such as occurred yesterday, after a meeting of the Board of County Commissioners, between myself and a fellow commissioner, I am moved to make a public apology for my part in the whole affair. At the first opportunity, I shall make a personal apology to the board and to Commissioner Babcock, whose personal integrity I have not only always respected, but have publicly and privately maintained.

ATTACK ON GIRL STIRS BOROUGH

The brutal attack upon Miss Gladys Grine, Castle Shannon school teacher, who was struck with a blackjack as she was walking in Brownsville road, has aroused a storm of indignation in Brentwood. Citizens maintain that lack of lights in the borough was to blame for the attack and the assailant's escape.

Investigation today showed there were only three small street lamps for a whole block along Brownsville road where the assailant sprang out from the shadows of an orchard and struck the school teacher.

"This is the latest of a series of similar outrages," declared Mrs. Charles Cowan, of 15 Hillman street, Brentwood.

Meanwhile, with the citizens of the borough urging better lighting and police protection, Miss Grine was confined to the home of Mrs. Cowan suffering from shock. As she was struck with the blackjack she screamed and brought Private Detective H. O. Morse running to her aid. Her assailant took to his heels and vanished in the darkness.

TEXAS CLEARED, THAW LEADS 'WHOOPEE'

NEW YORK, April 12.—It was Harry K. Thaw, that well-known ex-resident of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Winchester, Va., who took the lead in Texas Guinan's "freedom whoopee" party in her Club Intime today, where dawn gurgled noisily over Manhattan.

Texas, Broadway's official sparkplug, was celebrating the triumph of justice or something. Yesterday 12 men, tried and true, also slightly fascinated with Miss Guinan's wisecracks, acquitted her in Federal Court of a public nuisance charge. Texas, specifically, was accused of being a nuisance in the now passe Salon Royale and in connection with the sale of anti-Volsteadian laughing water therein.

SUCH HAPPINESS

So she was happy. So happy that she even lifted the courvert charges

Her appearance in the club was a signal for a tumultous outburst. The band crashed into "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

It was just too much for Thaw.

He jumped up. He jumped down. He shouted. He jumped some more.

Cody and Wife Ill, Meet After 6 Mos.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 12.—(AP.)—Lew Cody and Mabel Normand greeted each other affectionately here yesterday in the first meeting of the motion picture stars in six months.

When Cody became ill in New York several months ago physicians thought it advisable to conceal the fact from Miss Normand, his wife, who was at that time believed near death. Cody came to a sanatorium near here. After the brief meeting yesterday at Miss Normand's home Cody returned to the sanatorium.

BIGAMIST ADMITS KILLING WIFE

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 12.—Two wives cost too much, so he killed one, according to a confession which police today declared had been made by Henry Colen Campbell, 60-year-old mechanical engineer, arrested late yesterday. Questioning of Campbell is proceeding.

The woman he killed, the confession set forth, was Campbell's second wife, the former Mrs. Mildred Mowry, of Greenville, Pa., whose charred and oil-soaked body was found blazing by the roadside near Cranford, N. J., February 23. Mrs. Mowry's bod, was not identified until yesterday.

COMPLETE CONFESSION

When police then confronted Campbell with the identification and accused him of the murder, he made a ready and complete confession, the officers said.

Campbell, who has posed as a doctor, was to be questioned further concerning the victim of another "torch murder"—that of Margaret Brown, a middle-aged governess, whose gasoline-soaked body was found in the ruins of a burning automobile near Bernardsville, N. J., a year ago. Miss Brown had been keeping company with a man who said he was a docter. Campbell is said to have had a medical education.

MANY WOMEN IN LIFE

Many women figured in Campbell's life. He met middle-aged women with money through a matrimonial agency in Detroit. He had his first meeting with Mrs. Mowry that way in Washington.

When arrested last night he was living with his real wife and three children in an apartment not far

With the merger of Aircraft and Airways, Inc., of Pittsburgh and the Reading Airways, Inc., the latter a subsidiary of the $175,000,000 C. M. In the announcement of the $5,000,000 local merger it was revealed that the Curtiss Flying Service, another subsidiary of the Keyes group, would establish one of its flying schools here upon the completion of a $500,000 improvement program at Bettis field.

HARD LABOR FOR SINCLAIR AT WORKHOUSE PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—If Attorney General Mitchell holds it legal, Harry Sinclair, oil magnate, probably will serve his 90-day sentence for contempt of the Senate at the District of Columbia workhouse instead of the city jail.

M. M. Barnard, superintendent of District Penal Institutions, said last night that he would request a ruling within the next few days as to whether prisoners sentenced for contempt can be put at hard labor and that if the Attorney General holds it legal Sinclair will be taken to the prison farm at Occoquan, Va.

"There he will be given hard work to do just like any other laborer," Barnard added.

It is customary to keep prisoners at the jail only 10 days and in view of this the superintendent said he believed the ruling would permit taking the oil man to Occoquan.

The workhouse is located about 25 miles from Washington and is virtually bare of trees for protection in summer time. Mr. Barnard said that bricks were made, roads and buildings constructed, automobile licenses manufactured and general farming done at the institution and that if taken there Sinclair probably would be assigned to one of these tasks.

Miss Grine, 17, of Natrona Heights, and a teacher at Castle Shannon public school, who was slugged twice on the head with a blackjack as she passed a lonely orchard in Brownsville road, near Garden avenue. She was on her way to spend the night with Mrs. Charles Cowan, 15 Hillman street, Brentwood.

TEACHER FREED BY JURY IN WHIPPING OF PUPIL

After deliberating two hours a jury of eight women and four men today acquitted D. J. McLaughlin, manual training instructor of Thaddeus Stevens School, in the alleged beating of a 14-year-old pupil, Edward Mullens.

Costs of the case were divided between McLaughlin and the boy's father, Michael Mullens, 175 Danley street.

The Mullens boy and three of his schoolmates testified McLaughlin had beaten him severely December 12 last, when he refused to give up a punchboard.

McLaughlin testified he had administered a "light paddling." He was charged with aggravated assault and battery.

"He beat him like a horse," Sandy Black, 14, of 2909 West Carson street, testified in describing how McLaughlin tried to take a punchboard from young Mullens.

Edward McNamee, 13, of 215 Princeton place, testified to having seen Mullens paddled and to having wielded a paddle himself, along with about 10 other boys, at McLaughlin's request. He denied on cross-examination, it was an initiation. Richard McConnell, 15, of 807 Crucible street, also testified to having seen the beating.

2 BUS LINES IN GIANT MERGER

Consolidation of the operation of their lines between Pittsburgh and St. Louis has been effected by the Atlantic and Pacific Stages and the Interstate Transit, Inc., Cincinnati, operators of the Colonial Stages, it was announced here today.

The merger involved about $8,000,000 in capital stock and will affect the operation of about 275 coaches. The combined operation will eliminate duplication of stops and make schedules more frequent, it was announced by Thomas L. Tallentire, attorney for the Cincinnati company in that city.

The principal stations along the route will be Wheeling, W. Va., Zanesville, Cambridge, Columbus, Springfield, Dayton, O., and Richmond, Indianapolis and Terre Haute, Ind.

ADMITS KILLING SECOND WIFE

from where had lain unidentified for seven weeks the body of the woman he confesses killing.

WIFE ATTRACTIVE

His real wife is an attractive woman of 33. He said he married her in Chicago 18 years ago. They have three daughters, aged 16, 14 and 5.

"I love my wife, and I'm sorry for my family's sake that all this has come out," said Campbell in his cell, as he nervously smoked one cigaret after another.

The police, investigating the strange, Jekyll-Hyde career of Campbell, learned that when he was working for a cement company in 1924, he was arrested for bigamy.

OTHERS SOUGHT

So many women are mixed up in Campbell's life that the authorities have begun a systematic search to determine what has happened to them.

His arrest came after detectives, after weeks of effort, had traced a pair of patent leather shoes that led to the identification of Mrs. Mowry as she lay, unidentified for weeks, in a morgue in Elizabeth. From the maker in St. Louis they trailed the shoes to Greenville, Pa., then to the purchaser—Mrs. Mowry—and yesterday her body was positively identified by a crooked finger.

"I met Mrs. Mowry in Baltimore last year and married her impulsively on the spur of the moment," the suave, rather refined-looking Campbell confessed. "Immediately afterwards I knew I knew it was all wrong. I could not shake her off then. So I decided the only way was to get rid of her for good and all.

DESCRIBES CRIME

"I met her in Philadelphia the day before Washington's birthday of this year. That night I got her in my car and we drove to Dover, Del. We drop back to Philadelphia the next day, had supper, and then drove into New Jersey. Early in the morning we were near Cranford.

"I shot her once, in the top of the head, when we were right by Willsie's half-acre. There was nobody around at the time. Then I poured gas on her clothing, pulled it up over her head and set a match to it. Then I drove home."

Mrs. Mowry was fairly well-to-do when she married Campbell. She had been a widow for 10 years after the death of her husband in Greenville, and had saved some money. Last August she unexpectedly went to Elkton, Md., and was married to "Dr. Richard M. Campbell," as she told friends upon her return to Greenville. Her husband did not join her, and finally—somewhat chagrined—she left for New York City.

DENIES BROWN MURDER

The manner in which Mrs. Mowry was done away with has aroused the suspicions of the police, and now they are seeking to link the so-called "doctor" with the torch murder of Miss Brown. They recalled that Miss Brown, who had been employed as a nurse, withdrew her life savings of nearly $7,000 when she eloped with a "doctor," just prior to her death.

For four hours after he had confessed to the killing of Mrs. Mowry, Campbell was grilled concerning the slaying of Miss Brown. The prisoner insisted he did not know her. His story regarding her did not check in some respects and the authorities planned to quiz him further.

Mrs. Campbell was heart-broken. Again and again she cried:

"I don't believe it—oh, I know he did not kill anybody. He simply could not do anything like that."

BABCOCK ABED, FOE SORRY

what I believe to be my duty to the electorate and citizens of Allegheny County, the affair of yesterday is still abhorrent to me. I have constantly striven to safeguard the interests of the people, protect them where I felt it necessary and fight for them if the occasion demanded it. But, after all, I deeply regret yesterday's occurrance."

Conflicting versions were told today of yesterday's encounter.

"Babcock threw out his arms and pushed me," is the version McGovern gave to friends, telling them this provoked him to deliver the blow.

"The colonel feels terribly about this, but feels Babcock provoked the encounter by shoving him," McGovern's friends say today.

BABCOCK GIVES VERSION

In a statement yesterday when the smoke of battle had cleared, Babcock gave his version. In his office, shaken from his experience, and just before he was taken to the Carnegie Building for medical attention, he told of McGovern accosting him as he was leaving the commissioner's office.

"I told him I did not want to talk to him and started out," Babcock said. "As I was walking out, McGovern suddenly and unexpectedly struck me on the cheek, a stinging blow. I fell. I was dazed for a few minutes and do not know what happened. When I recovered my senses my jaw was sore and swollen and my head ached. Now the headache is more severe."

ORDERED TO BED

Babcock has not been in the best of health in recent weeks and has been undergoing dental treatment. Ben L. Anderson, his secretary, summoned Dr. William O'Neil Sherman, of the Carnegie Steel Company, to the Babcock office in the Frick building and Babcock was taken to the emergency room in the Carnegie building for examination and treatment. After an hour he was taken to his home and ordered to bed. Inquiry at his home today brought the response that he was resting and had nothing to say.

DEVELOPMENTS AWAITED

Developments in the controversy are awaited with some eagerness. Babcock's friends believe that he may issue a statement when he has completely recovered. McGovern's friends say he is planning some explanation of the incident to place on the records of the next meeting of the Board of Commissioners. Babcock's friends say they are entirely in the dark as to whether Babcock might take any action against McGovern as a result of the attack.

BATTLE LONG EXPECTED

Regular attendants at the meetings of the County Commissioners, enlivened by frequent hot exchanges between Babcock and McGovern, declare they had long expected the climax of yesterday.

The version of witnesses is that the trouble originated in a protest by McGovern against awarding the contract for removal of the morgue to John H. Fetterman, low bidder. The bitterness subsided and was renewed some time later when, at the close of the meeting, McGovern approached Babcock, asking him for an explanation of his accusation and Babcock refused to talk to him.

SCHOOL PUPILS WIN FIGHT FOR RECESS

School authorities have compromised with high school pupils fighting for freedom at lunch hour by granting them the right to leave buildings during the latter half of the lunch period.

As a result of this order, issued by Supt. William M. Davidson, new schedules for each building were being prepared today.

Dr. Ben G. Graham, associate superintendent of public education, summoned to his office today the principals of high schools having lunchrooms and notified them of the board's action in regard to the lunch period.

The ruling follows the action of the Board of Public Education at its meeting yesterday when, upon the request of Dr. Davidson, the order prohibiting leaving the buildings was rescinded.

DISCUSS LONG HOURS

At the same session, the shorter school day fight again came into the limelight, with 22 teachers, members of the Pittsburgh Teachers' Association, appearing to outline their grievances against the longer periods. Their appeal was referred to the committee on finance and administration, after president of the board. Marcus Aaron, took personal exception to the closing remarks of E. R. Carson, newly-elected head of the teachers' group.

Mr. Carson declared that due to the lengthened school day, the teachers are under a greater strain, stressing the inability to provide individual attention needed by many pupils after the closing class hours, and that this condition has resulted in weakening the morale of the teachers.

"PITIFUL, IF TRUE"

Aaron deplored the situation described by Carson as pitiful, if true.

In the presentation of their arguments, individual teachers spoke on the conditions found in their departments. Among the chief objections, it was said, is that many children are unable to find employment after school, due to the short time available, and that some pupils found it necessary to miss classes to indulge in athletics or other activities.

It was stressed that a return to the shorter school period would not shorten the teacher's day, but would provide the opportunity to give individual attention to pupils after the school day.

ton, the Angelus Temple radio operator.

"On the stand, will cite names and places. And I have the facts to back up my testimony. Judge Hardy, Mrs. McPherson, Mrs. Kennedy, Roland Rich Woolley and Jack Woolley—these people all had a part in inducing me to 'frame' the story of the fictitious 'Miss X'."

"THROUGH SHIELDING"

"They can deny it, but I am convinced that the truth about the Aimee case will all come out as a result of this trial. I, for one, am through with shielding people who double-crossed every friend they ever had.

"Judge Hardy can threaten me with all the cross-examination he likes, all that I threaten him with is the whole truth—something which has never yet been told in this case."

The prosecution, declaring that they attached the utmost significance to Mrs. Seiaff as a witness, declared that she would be placed on the stand this afternoon.

Defense attorneys, through Rex Hardy, son of the accused jurist, indicated that "we, too, have a surprise, when Mrs. Seiaff takes the stand.

"The woman has been thoroughly discredited," asserted young Hardy. "She is unreliable in the extreme and has told so many different stories that no intelligent person can put much credence in what she has to say."

KLINE AND AIDS HOLD CONFAB

Mayor Charles H. Kline conferred in his office for more than two hours today with Congressman P. J. Sullivan, State Senator James J. Coyne, Roy D. Schooley, member of the county tax board, and Peter P. Walsh, superintendent of police.

The assumption that the fall campaign was the general subject discussed could not be verified.

It was explained following the meeting that the conference had not been planned but was simply a coincidental meeting of the group, each of whom had matters to discuss with the Mayor.

Supt. Walsh explained his presence as being in connection with police affairs. Congressman Sullivan said his mission was personal. The others made no comment.

While it is generally considered too early for talk of candidates, the situation is a little abnormal, due to announcement last week by James F. Malone, president of Council, as a candidate for Mayor. The Malone candidacy has been endorsed by Henry O. Evans, city controller; Joseph N. Mackrell, county register of deeds, and Councilmen R. J. Alderdice and Harry A. Little.

officials of protecting bootlegging and gambling dives and sharing their profits. He asked Meyer why the mysterious murder of Constable Harry Davenport two years ago never had been solved.

That his demand was prompted by the clash Wednesday of borough Patrolman Moody Champ with raiding prohibition agents, Kukurin would not admit, but it was indicated that such was the case.

TELLS OF WILD PARTY

The councilman charged that two weeks ago public officials and employes had attended a party where the prohibition law was flouted copiously.

One employe died after drinking too much moonshine, served hot from a still, Kukurin charged.

Meanwhile government stenographers are transcribing the story of the gentle art of blackjack wielding as admitted by local prohibition agents. It was told by Prohibition agents D. L. Swick and Otto Kopp, testifying before the United States commissioner in the case of Patrolman Moody Champ, of the Wilmerding police force.

Champ is charged with interfering with government agents in the performance of their duties in connection with a raid made Wednesday on the grocery store of Theodore Uzelac, 148 Watkins avenue, Wilmerding. The case has been continued until the transcribing is finished.

"JUST A THUMP"

"I usually hit on the back of the head, not wishing to scar a man's face," Agent Swick testified. "I just gave him a small thump so he would release his gun. After I tapped him with a blackjack, Agent Ross tapped him. I don't know which tap brought the blood."

Constable Shoots And Kills Attorney

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 12.—Austin Sweet, 57, Terre Haute attorney, was shot and fatally wounded late yesterday by John Van Hook, constable of a justice of the peace court, who had gone to Sweet's office to arrest him on a charge of fishing without a license. Van Hook surrendered himself to police after the shooting. Believing the lawyer intended to draw a weapon, Van Hook said, he fired, the bullet passing through Sweet's head.

LINDY PASSES WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed at Bolling Field, Va., early this afternoon. He came from Greensboro, N. C., and took off at once for New York.

Col. Lindbergh left for Mitchell Field without getting out of his plane. He taxied around to avoid the crowd gathered to watch his landing. Maj. Thomas J. Lanphier, former commandant of Selfridge Field, hung on to the plane's fuselage and chatted, while Lindbergh taxied it about the field.

Lindbergh is en route to New York to meet the body of the late Ambassador to France, Myron T. Herrick, which is expected to arrive on a French cruiser Saturday. Ambassador Herrick befriended Lindbergh when the flier landed in Paris after his memorable flight from New York to Paris.

Lindbergh flew from Atlanta to Greensboro, N. C., yesterday, where he remained over night. He started from Mexico City early this week.

CANTON, China, April 12.—(AP.)—More than a thousand alleged radical agitators are estimated to have been executed by machine guns during the past week in a campaign by Canton authorities to stamp out radicalism.

Accused of instigating communist agitation, 30 students of the Nationalist Sun Yat Sen University were arrested, courtmartialed and shot. The Sun Yat Sen University, a co-educational institution, has long been declared a hotbed of radicalism.

RALLY TO VOICE COAL POLICE PROTESTS

Leaders in business, church and civic affairs have called a mass meeting for tomorrow night in North Side Carnegie Hall to insist upon reform of the coal and iron police system in Pennsylvania.

Specifically, the meeting will voice the demand of Western Pennsylvania that the Musmanno industrial police bill, shelved once by political bosses, be made law.

DR. FARMER TO PRESIDE

Many of these organizations will be represented at the mass meeting tomorrow night. Among them are the American Civil Liberties Union, the Civic Club of Allegheny County and the Constitutional Rights Committee.

W. L. Nunn, instructor of economics, University of Pittsburgh, announced that Dr. William R. Farmer, of the Western Theological Seminary, would be chairman of the meeting. The list of speakers, while not complete, will include the Rev. Dr. A. E. Day, Christ M. E. Church; Father James R. Cox, Old St. Patrick's Catholic Church, and Dean Percy Kamerer, of Trinity Episcopal Cathedral, who will represent the Constitutional Rights Committee.

Representative M. A. Musmanno, father of the coal and iron police bill which has just been reported out of committee, has been invited, and efforts are being made to engage men prominent in the labor movement. Mr. Musmanno will attend if his duties in Harrisburg do not interfere.

CATHOLIC SOCIETY ACTS

Twenty-five thousand members of the Catholic Central Society in Pennsylvania have been circularized with a plea that they add their weight to the effort to keep the Musmanno bill moving forward in the Legislature.

Attorney Leonard M. Boehm, chairman of the society's legislative committee, declared the coal and iron police system had "disgraced our state in the minds of decent people," in the circular to the society's members.

WALKS OUT ON QUERY

"All he would say when I asked him why the bill was to be killed by his committee, notwithstanding that the Governor favored it, was that when Senator Mansfield made a motion to report the bill out there was no second to it. When I pressed him further, he walked away from me."

The bill was subsequently reported out, after a great clamor had been raised, and has passed second reading in the Senate. It had previously passed the House finally by a vote of 184 to 0.

There is another bill, not acceptable to Musmanno, which was passed finally by the Senate and has passed second reading in the House.

It is theoretically possible that both measures will be enacted. Then it will be up to the Governor to choose between them.

30 IN CAVERNS AFTER STORM RESCUED

BATESVILLE, Ark., April 12.—(AP.)—Thirty persons, who had been without food or water for more than 48 hours, were discovered hiding in caverns near Guion today by national guardsmen searching the regions for bodies of those killed in the tornado late Wednesday.

The Red Cross and various local agencies today were speeding relief work among the injured and homeless victims of the twin tornadoes which swept through northeastern Arkansas, snuffing out 57 lives and leaving untold suffering and property damage in their wake.

The death-dealing twisters cut a gigantic semi-circle through five northeastern and north central counties. They originated near the Arkansas-Missouri line and headed in a southwesterly direction. One of the first places struck was Guion, where every building in the village was demolished. Out of the population of 400, three were killed and 69 injured.

Relief crews and rescue parties are still searching in the debris of leveled communities for the bodies of victims reported as "missing." With the known death list standing at 57, it is believed this number may be increased before all residents of the stricken area are accounted for.

LONG INQUIRY RUSHED

BATON ROUGE, La., April 12.—Further impeachment evidence was heard by the House today against Gov. Huey P. Long in an attempt to rush the completion of the hearing before April 22.

To date a vote has been taken by the House on only two of the 19 charges against the 36-year-old Governor. They were an alleged attempt to intimidate a local publisher and a combined count to bribe two legislators to vote for his oil tax bill.

One of the remaining 17 charges against the Governor alleges that he plotted to murder a state representative.

The Senate got down to work early today, and after receiving the second impeachment charge from the House, which was voted on by the lower body yesterday, took up a discussion of 40 rules of procedure.

Undated resignations addressed to Gov. Long were requested of members of the Orleans parish levee board by John P. Sullivan, who was politically close to the administration at that time, Abe Shusman, vice president of that body, testified today.

Singing Barber Of Senators Dead at 70

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—The Capitol's singing barber, Prince Robinson, 70, is dead.

For 17 years, the aging Negro, brought to Washington from Alabama by the late Oscar Underwood, has wielded a beautifully keen razor and soothed the nerves of many a Senator and Representative with the crooning songs he learned in the old south long ago.

An ardent Democrat, Prince was taken to several national conventions. At Baltimore, he roused the delegates with the "Houn' Dawg" song that Champ Clark's campaigners liked so well.

Sometimes, when a Congress was passing into history on a March 4, and the members were giving vent to their emotions with old-fashioned oratory and singing, Prince was mounted on a table in the well of the House chamber and sang the spirituals, plantation melodies and other old songs they wanted to hear.

DRIVE TO AID WORKERS PRAISED

By unanimous vote of its board of directors, the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce yesterday indorsed the movement sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph for the downward revision of taxes on earned incomes.

The resolution of indorsement was presented by Lloyd W. Smith, president of the Union National Bank, chairman of the chamber's committee on taxation and finance. The committee's report was prepared at meetings presided over by La Salle Girts, vice chairman. It was pointed out in the report that the committee had given careful consideration to the question of the downward revision of taxation on earned incomes and other features of federal taxation for revenue purposes.

PRAISE MOVEMENT

Following the reading of Chairman Smith's report, several directors spoke in praise of the movement as a popular measure. The following resolution was recommended and adopted:

"Resolved, that with due consideration to its relationship to the entire practice of federal income taxation, part exemption on earned incomes is regarded with favor by the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh, which principle is already recognized by the Federal Government in the present income tax law."

The report was framed by the following committee: George D. Edwards, J. W. Bamford, Carroll C. Robertson, A. S. Beymer, W. C. Short, John L. Glenn, D. J. Hennessy, Frank C. Demmler, W. H. Freizell and L. H. Gethoefer.

ANNOUNCE REPORT

The matter was brought before the Chamber of Commerce several weeks ago by Frank L. Duggan, manager of the Consolidated Ice Company. His letter was referred by President T. P. Gaylord to the committee on taxation and finance. President Gaylord presided at yesterday's meeting and announced its affirmative report.

Individual directors of the chamber joined in expressions praising the work of the Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers in the nation-wide support given to the movement for lightening the tax burdens on those dependent on earned incomes. J. B. Shea and Thomas A. Dunn, vice presidents of the Chamber of Commerce, have given hearty indorsement to the tax reduction plan. Mr. Dunn declares that the entire question could be solved by raising the exemption on single persons to $2,500 and to $5,000 for heads of families.

Did you ever pause to count the dimes and quarters—or even dollars—spent needlessly in a single day?

Do you keep track of these expenditures, consider the total at the end of the week, and ask yourself what you have to show for them?

NICK CARTERI

Do you put part of your income aside regularly each week on receiving it, or do you wait until next pay day to see if you have anything "left over"?

Do you ever have anything "left over"?

Have you any idea what you are doing with your money?

Have you a savings bank account?

Do you keep it "alive"?

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph asks these questions as part of its plan to promote thrift. To arouse interest in the subject, it is giving away hundreds of dollars every week as rewards to savings bank depositors, to encourage them and others to save. The numbers of the bank books of those who are to receive the money are published daily.

Nick Carteri, of 5010 Liberty avenue, has received a $10 award as holder of passbook No. 19,913 in the M. Berardini State Bank. He is a bank clerk and the son of a banker, Aristide Carteri, formerly of Braddock, now of Italy; so he needs no one to tell him how advantageous it is to have a bank account.

Heinrich Wagerer, of 6715 Atwell street, has also received $10. He has passbook No. 1,068, in the McGililck Savings & Trust Company. Mr. Wagerer, a sausage maker, has made it his practice for years to lay aside part of his wages for a rainy day.

UNCOVER JOKER IN FORNEY REWARD

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, presiding imperturbably at many acrimonious meetings of the board of commissioners, is credited with having "put over a fast one" yesterday. Presiding Judge James B. Drew, of Criminal Court, between rounds, asked the board to authorize a reward of $5,000 to accelerate the capture and return of the elusive Alfred W. Forney, wanted for trial on 16 charges of slot machine operation. Armstrong offered the motion, which was unanimously adopted, and phrased it so that $500 was offered for the arrest of Forney and $4,500 for his "return."

Various interpretations of the offer are resolved into one point of agreement—that a reward of $500 is offered. That would go to the informer or captor, or both, of the missing defendant. And there the matter rests—in the opinion of many legal authorities. They hold that extradition on a gambling charge, a misdemeanor, will not be honored by any state executive, certainly not by any other nation.

Some opinion leans to the possibility of extradition on the ground that Forney is a fugitive from justice. But—the joker—assuming Forney should be arrested and extradition granted, who receives the reward for his "return?"

"Then, if you give the $4,500 to anybody, you must give it to the county detectives, for they bring Forney back, unless you give it to the governor who honors the extradition," vouchsafed one legal authority, adding, "Patronize home industries."

Back to See Wife, Revolt Head Jailed

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 12.—(AP.)—Lieut. Joao Cabanas, leader of the "column of death" in the 1924 revolution, has entered prison for five years because he insisted on seeing his former wife, Olga Navarro. The police said last night they did not know Cabanas had been in the city until the actress asked for protection against him.

When arrested at her door, Cabanas said: "This is the last wrong you will do me, Olga. I will not last long in prison on account of my health."

Man Sentenced To Kiss Wife Every Day

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—John McCabe, of Brooklyn, who admitted that he beat his wife, was directed by Magistrate Ellperin yesterday to kiss her every morning for six months or serve that period in the workhouse. And there must not be any more beatings, the magistrate said, or McCabe will have to go to the workhouse anyway, with no time off for the kisses already served.

McCabe executed the first day's sentence in court and the couple returned to their home.

SHIFT OF DRY RULE SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—Legislation transferring the prohibition enforcement unit from the Treasury to the Justice Department may be added to the constantly growing agenda of the special session of the Seventy-first Congress, which begins Monday.

President Hoover has discussed this matter with some congressional leaders, including Representative Cramton (Rep.), of Michigan, an outstanding spokesman for the drys, and Attorney General Mitchell has expressed the hope that the transfer will be authorized in the near future.

The position of the attorney general is that since his department is to take over this huge new function the sooner it is done the better. The department now is in the process of more or less reorganization incident to the change of administrations and the prohibition unit could be more readily absorbed in the midst of this process than at some later time.

President Hoover proposed the transfer in his inaugural address as the first step in a general move for better law enforcement. Anti-Saloon League and other dry organization leaders at first were inclined to oppose this step, but the understanding now is that they are content to give the plan a trial, especially since they desire that the chief executive have a free hand for carrying forward his plan for enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment.

FIGHT RENEWED ON COAL RATES

The Pittsburgh district's fight against allegedly unfair lake cargo coal rates will be renewed, despite adverse action of the Supreme Court.

This was indicated today in the announcement that a new association of operators to replace the Northern operators' lake rate committee had been formed.

Designated as the Western Pennsylvania Coal Traffic Bureau, the organization includes J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, as chairman, and these directors: George M. Frances, Keystone Coal and Coke Company; R. Templeton Smith, Poland Coal Company; B. H. Canon, Fort Pitt Coal and Coke Company and McClane Coal Mining Company, and H. T. Wilson, president of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation.

It was indicated that the bureau, before May 15, would reopen the battle to obtain a 45-cent differential over Southern shippers on lake cargo coal. The differential now is 35 cents.

Girl Found Guilty On Robbery Charge

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—Patricia Barrett, an 18-year-old telephone operator, was convicted yesterday of first-degree robbery. She was the first woman to be convicted of such an offense here since the passage of the Baumes laws, under which she may receive as much as 15 years in prison.

Russell Shaw was convicted with her, and the jury disagreed as to Shaw's brother-in-law, John Golden, who will be tried again.

The charge was that Miss Barrett pointed a pistol at an apartment house superintendent while her two companions took $7 and a watch from him.

Mother Dies, 'Girl' Of 71 Now Free To Marry

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—(AP.)—Romance was a long way on the road for Isabella C. Oliver and Frank H. Thomas, but their marriage was just around the corner today.

Mr. Thomas, who is 72, led his 71-year-old bride-to-be before the marriage license clerk in City Hall. After they had obtained the license a bit of tragedy was unfolded. Yesterday Miss Oliver buried her mother, Mrs. Ermeline Oliver, who was 90.

"Mother forbade my marrying until after she died," said Miss Oliver. "She always maintained I would have plenty of time after that. But mother lived to a ripe old age."

The date of the wedding was not disclosed.

NEED COLLEGE MEN—HOOVER

NEW HAVEN, April 12.—(AP.)—President Hoover, in an article entitled, "The Need for College Graduates in National and State Politics," which appeared in the Yale Daily News today, points out that the complex structure of society requires more and more the technical skill and background of the college graduate.

The article appears as one of a series, written by the outstanding leaders of American political life for the "oldest college daily." The text of President Hoover's article follows:

"The need for college graduates in state and national politics is simply the need for trained minds and formed characters that exists in all departments of modern life. The increasingly complex structure of society requires more and more of the technical skill and of the cultural background than the colleges undertake to provide. As politics is but one aspect of the social order, its need of men of special educational equipment is obvious as this need is now in business or the professions."

U. S. ARTILLERY TRAINED ON MEXICO

NACO, Ariz., April 12.—(AP.)—American artillery was on its way to Naco today to defend the American border against the menace of Mexican rebel field pieces trained upon the loyal garrison of Naco, Sonora.

A battery of field artillery was en route from Fort Bliss, El Paso, Tex., and two three-inch field pieces were on the way from Camp Jones, Douglas, Ariz.

Reports that American soil might again be subjected to Mexican rebel fire were heard this morning as advices came from the rebel stronghold at Nogales, Sonora, that revolutionary forces possibly would attack Naco, Sonora, today

The affairs of the revolution were believed to be approaching a crisis in Sonora. A war council was held at Cananea, south of here, yesterday by Gen. J. Gonzalo Escobar, revolutionary commander-in-chief, and five of his aides.

Whether they would make a supreme effort to take the Naco garrison by storm or whether they would attempt to make a southward drive leaving the border garrison in the hands of the enemy remained undetermined on this side of the international line. The Nogales report that the rebels would again attack Naco gained wide circulation.

Military authorities believe that it would be difficult for the rebel forces to attack Naco without running the risk of sending bullets across into Naco, Ariz. Four 77-millimeter rebel guns have been trained on the Mexican Federal garrison from the hills to the south.

Eighteen American fighting planes and a detachment of United States cavalry remained on the alert for any immediate attack that would subject American territory to gunfire.

Plane Pilot Killed, Brother Injured

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 12.—(AP.)—Herbert I. Simon, of Greenville, was killed and his brother, Charles Simon, was seriously injured late yesterday in an airplane crash. Charles was piloting the plane, a new machine, which he had just sold. It went into a tail spin at a few hundred feet altitude, as it was gliding toward the municipal airport field.

Demonstrator Plane Crashes; Pilot Hurt

DETROIT, April 12.—(AP.)—W. E. Lucey, Cleveland airplane pilot, was injured seriously today when the airplane he was demonstrating here nosedived and crashed at the edge of the Ford airport.

Lucey was taken to Henry Ford Hospital with both legs broken and possible internal injuries.

PLANE FOUND STRANDED IN WILDS

SYDNEY, Australia, April 12.—(INS.)—Capt. Charles E. Kingsford-Smith and his three companions, who disappeared more than 12 days ago after starting out from here on a flight to England in the airplane Southern Cross, were safe and sound today, but stranded in the Australian bush 30 miles from the Port George Mission.

The search plane Canberra located the Southern Cross on a mud flat 30 miles from Port George. Capt. Holden, pilot of the Canberra, sent word that the men looked famished and that he had dropped food for them.

MISSING 13 DAYS

Holden circled the Southern Cross for an hour and 15 minutes, seeking a landing place, but was unable to descend owing to the rough and swampy condition of the country. He then returned to Wyndham, flying by way of Port George, where he gave word of his discovery.

The Southern Cross had been missing 13 days, having been forced down on the night of March 30.

According to word from Port George, arrangements there were under way to send supplies to the missing airmen, including gasoline, to enable them to continue their flight if the Southern Cross is not damaged.

BOAT TO GO TO AID

A steamer was to leave Broome, Western Australia, this afternoon for the mouth of the Glenelg River to pick up the stranded Southern Cross fliers, about 250 miles distant by sea.

Anderson, who was said to be on bad terms with Kingsford-Smith and recently started litigation against him in connection with the trans-Pacific flight of the Southern Cross, was one of the first to join the search. He has not been heard from in almost two days and it is now feared he also was forced down.

Two Royal Air Force planes left Melbourne, Victoria, today to search for Anderson and Robert Hitchcock, his companion.

NEWS RADIOED HERE

Word that the Southern Cross had been found came 13,000 miles through the ether last night, to be picked up by Westinghouse Station KDKA at East Pittsburgh. It came while Operator W. H. Irving was carrying on a two-way test with Station 2ME at Sydney, Australia.

DETROIT BLAST FATAL TO 8

DETROIT, Mich., April 12.—At least eight lives were believed lost in an explosion of undetermined origin which leveled two four-story buildings in the river-front section here late yesterday.

Fire broke out immediately in the wreckage which was blown out into the street, blocking traffic and sending hundreds of homebound workers screaming about the streets in a frenzy of panic. Windows were blown out along the street for three or four blocks in each direction.

Those killed were clerks employed in a wholesale dry goods store housed in the buildings.

One man was blown through a window and 100 feet diagonally across the street. He was dead when picked up.

The whole front of the building crumpled down into the street in front of a passing bus. Scores of pedestrians received minor injuries. Many were cut by flying glass.

Attempts by firemen to dig into the ruins for bodies believed buried there were hampered by the intense heat of the burning ruins.

60 Students Held In Croatian Revolt

ZAGREB, Jugoslavia, April 12.—(AP.)—Sixty Croatian students were arrested yesterday charged with printing and distributing seditious pamphlets attacking the present regime and signed "The Revolutionary Organization of Croatian Youth."

The government telegraphed its minister at Prague to seek permission of the Czechoslovakia government to search the rooms of many Croatian students there in the belief that they had formed a branch of the revolutionary body whose premises were raided here.

"MEDICINE BALL CABINET" JOLTED BY STONE'S VIGOR

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—The judicial temperament of Associate Justice Stone, of the Supreme Court, is unimpeachable, but at times he displays a physical violence which literally knocks the wind out of those about him.

The former Amherst football center is a member of President Hoover's "Medicine Ball Cabinet" and the speed and force he puts behind the ball at times is reported to be a little severe on the receiving power of some other members of this cabinet.

The President himself, while never knocked down by one of the justice's powerful throws, is said to have had the wind knocked out of him on occasion, and Hugh Gibson, ambassador to Belgium, who joined in the early morning games while a guest at the White House recently, bore for several days a mark on his nose as a result of getting in the way of one of Mr. Stone's throws.

GUNS TO BOOM HONORS AS HERRICK'S BODY ARRIVES

NEW YORK, April 12.—(INS.)—Solemn tribute to the memory of Ambassador Myron T. Herrick will be paid by New York City tomorrow when the body of the famous statesman, who died recently in Paris, arrives on the French cruiser Tourville.

As the ship bearing the body passes Governor's Island, probably about 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, a 21-gun salute will be fired.

City, state and national officials will go out to meet the funeral ship on the U. S. naval cruisers Marblehead and Cincinnati and the municipal steamer Macom and escort it to its pier.

When the gray French cruiser docks about noon, Mayor James J. Walker, French Consulate General Maxim Morgendre, and Postmaster General Walter Brown, representing President Hoover, will be at the pier.

The flag-draped casket will be brought off the pier and placed on a gun caisson, while a 19-gun salute, at intervals of a minute, will be fired from Governor's Island. The casket will be taken under Army, Navy and Marine guard up Fifth avenue to Forty-fifth street, thence to Grand Central terminal where the body will be put on the Lake Shore Limited bound for the Herrick home in Cleveland.

OPPONENTS OF SUNDAY BLUE LAWS TO CONTINUE FIGHT

MODIFICATION TO BE ASKED IN 1931

The fight to modify the blue laws in Pennsylvania will be continued with the formation of a state-wide organization in preparation for a battle before the 1931 Legislature.

This is the decision of business and civic leaders in answer to the refusal of the House Law and Order Committee of the State Legislature to permit at this session a public discussion of the Wettach bill, framed to modernize Sunday observance in the state.

The Association for the Modification of the Blue Laws today issued this statement from its headquarters here:

WILL STAY ON JOB

"We regard the presentation of the Wettach bill and its fate at the hands of the Law and Order Committee at Harrisburg as merely the beginning of a serious, permanent movement to change the blue laws. Our organization has determined to stay on the job until this has been accomplished.

The pickling of the Wettach bill, according to those seeking blue law modification, was due to the fact that their organization did not have sufficient time to crystallize public sentiment.

FAIL TO GET HEARING

The organization's statement follows:

"We desire to announce for the benefit of those interested in promoting wholesome recreation and non-commercial entertainment on Sunday, that the Wettach bill introduced in the General Assembly at our request, to bring about a modification of the Blue Laws of 1794, cannot be brought to an issue at the present session. Instead, it will remain buried in the Law and Order Committee of the House of Representatives, to which it was referred.

"We made repeated efforts to secure a public hearing upon the measure so that the members of the committee and the public at large would learn what it was all about. A majority of the committee declined us this courtesy. It is gratifying to be able to state that more than a majority of the members from Allegheny County openly advocated the passage of the Wettach bill.

SEEK TO MASS SENTIMENT

"We regard the presentation of the Wettach bill and its fate at the hands of the Law and Order Committee as merely the beginning of a serious, permanent movement to change the blue laws. Our organization has determined to stay right on the job until this has been accomplished. We have learned much by our recent experience and will begin our campaign for favorable action in the General Assembly of 1931 much earlier. It will be more comprehensive and it will seek to perfect an organization in each of the 67 counties of the state.

"Our campaign will be partly educational, but largely for the purpose of cementing into a compact organization those citizens of Pennsylvania who really believe that non-commercial recreation and entertainment may be indulged in on Sunday to the benefit of the people as a whole and without interference with religious worship. Such persons are unquestionably in the majority and when they get themselves into a position to speak in unison, their representatives in the Legislature will act accordingly. At the present time, the minority, which is so much better organized than we are, seems to control the situation."

The statement was issued by the officers and members of the executive committee of the organization, who are: A. W. Wyckoff, president; Mrs. George P. Bassett, Jr., Wilson S. McClintock and William B. Rodgers, vice presidents; Frank I. Livingston, secretary; L. H. Burnett, J. W. Cree, Jr., Miss H. Marie Dermitt, George R. Dorman, J. H. Hillman, Jr., A. L. Humphrey, Wilmer M. Jacoby, T. Clifton Jenkins, George W. McCandless, Stewart C. McFarland, Frank Wilbur Main, Mrs. George S. Oliver, Mrs. W. B. Schiller, Lloyd W. Smith and John B. Tonkin, members of the executive committee.

Texas Composes Little Ditty 'Honoring' Mrs. Willebrandt

International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Here's an impromptu ditty that Texas Guinan composed as she chanted it to her guests this morning as the first crimson streaks of the sun would have shown themselves over the horizon if it hadn't been raining at sunup time:

By TEXAS GUINAN.

Now Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt lives down in Washington,
If she doesn't stop her kidding and spoiling people's fun,
I, for one, will stand right out and make a little bet,
That Miss Liberty soon will be the girl that men forget.

I was carried down to court accused of selling liquor,
I got a hand upon the stand that made the lawyers snicker.
Judge Thomas said, "Tex, so you sell booze."
I said, "Please don't be silly;
"I swear to you my cellar's filled with chocolate and vanilly."

THAW LEADS IN CHEERS AS TEXAS CELEBRATES

fended "little children"—and, brandishing a $1 ginger ale bottle aloft—drew the spotlight long enough to shout:

"Thank God, Texas is saved to us poor, unfortunate nighthawks!"

Then turning to the girls he led them in a cheer for Texas, freedom, life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. It was a good cheer, earnest if ragged.

What the girls lacked, Thaw had.

THAT'S ALL, HARRY!

The cheer ended. The spotlight moved on and for Harry another moment was over.

Texas held open house in the sun-worshiping joint where generally even the tobacco smoke has an economic status.

"EVERYBODY'S SUCKER"

Texas licked the government again and was strutting hospitality.

"They said I was a nuisance and I showed I was a lady," shouted Texas. "I'm everybody's sucker tonight and I want the waiters to sit down with the guests and if they don't act happy I'll give 'em a bill."

Texas was in a gloating mood. Although the 10 other defendants in the alleged liquor nuisance charge against the Salon Royale had pleaded guilty, she chose to battle for freedom—and she won, even against the stiff charge to the jury by Federal Judge Edwin Thomas, the "tough judge" from Connecticut.

THAW TURNS CHEERLEADER

Texas' liberty party sounded like Congress. Everybody made speeches and joined in the cheers for their own oratory.

All the Guinan alumni were gathered in the two-by-four velveted, canopied tent which one pays for by the yard. The doors were thrown apart and, preceded by a gay-tuniced band playing "The Prisoner's Song," Texas appeared in a triumphal procession of one.

This living link between the moon and the sun was dressed in a tomato-colored evening dress and a gold sequin skull-cap. A poppy as red as her mischievous lips perked on her shoulder strap.

EVEN BOUNCER CHEERS

Everybody cheered—but most of all the waiters, checkers, bouncers and unlisted retinue.

"Hello, gang," greeted Texas, home once again and looking tenderly homesick. "Your little angel flew over the prison walls."

Texas kissed everybody within the flash of her diamonds.

Texas mounted her crimson-covered preaching stool.

"I think the verdict of those 12 men was live and let live," shouted Texas. "The day is coming, and we are close to it, when we will not be compelled to do things against our own better judgment."

Some banker or bookkeeper bellowed out:

Representative Fiorello La Guardia, one of the leaders of the anti-prohibition forces, sent the following telegram to Miss Guinan:

"We all give the little girl a hand."

Texas sat on her throne by the orchestra, catching imitation snowballs and throwing them back into the storm of her acclamation.

Kitty O'Reilly, whom Prohibition Agent James White tried to "date up," according to Texas, did an impromptu shadow-boxing contest with a prominent Brooklyn lawyer in the center of the dance floor.

Texas led the boys and girls in a bit of a community sing—

"—In the land of the brave and the home of the free."

The jury was out only one hour and two minutes.

"Whoopee!" exclaimed Texas, as she heard the verdict."

The crowd in the court room shattered a precedent by breaking into wild cheering.

"LOVE TO MABEL"

Al Kernan, boy friend of Texas, leaned over and kissed her when the jury reported "not guilty." Texas then invited the jurors and newspaper men to a party to celebrate her release.

"Send my love to Mabel," said Texas, referring to Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney in charge of prohibition. "Tell her this is the land of the brave and the free and I am still free."

She posed for photographers, kissing her lawyer. She declared she had been confident that she would be acquitted.

"Only the charge of the judge was worse than my couvert charge," she said, with a giggle.

All in all, the three days' trial proved just a little extra advertising for the "Queen of the Night Clubs" and she gave everybody, including herself, a good time. A record crowd jammed the courtroom as Miss Guinan appeared in court yesterday morning. She tripped willingly to the witness stand, smiled benignly upon Morrison, who had a hard time dodging Texas' "my dears," a sarcastic endearment which she showered upon him at the conclusion of every sentence.

LOSES $50,000

Her only regret, Texas said, was that by her acquittal she lost $50,000 offered her by a newspaper syndicate to write a series of articles on life in jail.

To Norman J. Morrison, special deputy United States attorney general who prosecuted her, she said:

"I want to thank you. You were a perfect gentleman."

"Miss Guinan," said the prosecutor, "you were the toughest customer I ever had."

She then issued an invitation to all present, lawyers, jurors and spectators, to pass the evening at her new night club.

And what a "coming out" party, as Texas termed it, it was!

Helen Morgan Next On U. S. Court Bill

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—Helen Morgan, singer of plaintive melodies and the only woman ever to threaten the laurels of Texas Guinan as the most popular night club hostess on Broadway, will on Monday stand trial on the same charge of which Texas was acquitted.

Miss Morgan, musical comedy actress, is charged with maintaining a nuisance through sale of liquor at the Helen Morgan club at which she was hostess.

It is hard for "those in the know" to figure how the government can hope for convictions in the cases of the other defendants, held on identical charges, with the precedent of Miss Guinan's acquittal staring them in the face.

$250,000 ASKED FOR I'M ALONE

OTTAWA, Ontario, April 12.—(INS.)—The owners of the Canadian schooner I'm Alone, sunk by a coast guard vessel, will demand $250,000 reparations from the United States government, it was authoritatively learned here yesterday.

While the Canadian government is interested only in the principle involved by the sinking of a Canadian vessel with loss of life, the owners of the schooner and the liquor cargo aboard are preparing to fight for a cash renumeration.

They estimate the liquor cargo was worth $150,000 and the vessel $100,000.

OPERA LOVERS POUR CASH IN MILK FUND FOR BABIES

NEW YORK, April 12.—Treasure—figurative and material treasure—poured from the Metropolitan Opera house yesterday afternoon when "Mignon" was sung for the benefit of the Free Milk Fund and Babies, Inc.

Mayor Walker attended and celebrities from the world of business, fashion, society and the arts paid homage to music and charity as well.

The material treasure was the several thousands of dollars realized from the sale of seats, every cent of which goes to supply ailing and undernourished children with free, fresh milk.

The work of the Free Milk Fund for Babies, Inc., of which Mrs. William Randolph Hearst is president, goes on all through the year, opening up cool milk booths in the hot months of the year where little ones in the congested districts are cared for. Hospitals and families in which there are ailing children are supplied with daily quarts of milk.

The figurative treasure was the double happiness that the more than 3,000 patrons of yesterday's opera enjoyed. Happiness enjoyed, both from the exquisite rendering of the "Mignon" score, and the knowledge of a worthy charity sustained by the money paid to enjoy the performance.

He severed his connection with the Tipton Advocate last Wednesday.

7 Rules for $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

CRIME FINANCED BY DRY FAILURE, ATTORNEY SAYS

Ineffectual enforcement of the Federal liquor laws is promoting vicious crimes in almost every large city of the country, asserts Attorney J. G. Crookston, of Pittsburgh, and a captain of infantry in the Sixth Division of the overseas Army during the war.

Mr. Crookston has also submitted a plan for the constructive solution of the prohibition problem and elimination of the evils that have sprung up from the Eighteenth Amendment, in the Hearst $25,000 prize temperance contest.

Failure to enforce the liquor laws, he asserts, is enabling the viciously criminal elements of the larger cities to finance their ventures in all kinds of criminal enterprises, and in defiance of the efforts of police officials to cope with it.

MOST GRAVE PROBLEM

He maintains that the formation of great liquor smuggling and distributing combines, drawing together the criminal elements, has created the most grave problem in law enforcement that the country has faced.

Referring to the sale of liquor to minors in Chicago, exposed recently by the Hearst newspapers, Mr. Crookston said:

"Within the last 30 days, nine stores of shops were raided by the authorities in a single district, charged with selling bootleg liquor to both boys and girls in one of the nation's finest high schools. And that city is no better or worse than other cities in respect to high moral attainment."

Taking up the crime waves in the larger cities of the country, with criminal bands provided with money and weapons to carry out the most desperate schemes, he continued:

MURDER, CORRUPTION

"Wholesale murder, bribery and corruption, with disregard and contempt of law, is one of the results. There is death, misery and suffering from poison. There is congestion of the courts and failure of justice. And on top of it all is the enormous expense of futile enforcement."

Mr. Crookston did not advocate a return to the old condition of the corner grog-shop, and the basement saloon that was a hangout of criminals and a hatching place for crime. That is an extreme which he believes is gone fovever from the country.

It is his contention, however, that the solution of the matter does not lie in the other extreme of attempt at a complete ban on the sale of any beverage containing alcohol beyond a certain minute degree. He said:

MUST LOOK TO PEOPLE

"Midway between these two elements stand the American people, intelligent, calm, moderate and temperate. They value the right to freely exercise, with moderation, their own judgment and opinions in purely personal matters. They are the strength and backbone of the nation. It is to the American people, therefore, that we must look for intelligent constructive action to correct the proven abuses."

Too many people, said Mr. Crookston, are associating intoxicating beverages solely with those who drink to excess. This view, he says, carries too much weight. There is a middle ground for the temperate use of beverages, which means also the removal of the vicious and sinister conditions that have come in the trail of the bootlegger, the poison liquors, the speakeasies, and the big criminal combines that are using the sale of illicit liquor to finance more serious and desperate crimes against the people.

ABSTAIN FROM CHOICE

He said further:

"It is perfectly clear that any man who is a total abstainer is so of choice and not of necessity. The man today who wants a drink can get it almost as easily as he ever did. But what he gets is another question.

"On the other hand, it follows that if liquor were legally available under conditions of temperance, he would still be either a total abstainer or obtain beverages that were not made under the deplorable conditions of today."

MRS. HOOVER PLANS LEAFY BOWER NEAR WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—A touch reminiscent of the Palo Alto home of President Hoover is being planned by Mrs. Hoover for the rear grounds of the White House.

Just west of the rear portico of the Executive Mansion is a group of immense magnolia trees, and in the bower formed by these she has directed the placing of a flagstone flooring. Benches and chairs will be arranged in the leafy alcove, and here on pleasant afternoons she will find a nook to chat with her friends, work on her correspondence, and also serve tea.

The First Lady also is expected to devote part of her mornings to the cultivation of an old-fashioned flower garden in the grounds. Mrs. Hoover spent much time at her S street home in developing the floral beauty of the lawns and she will probably pursue her bent for horticulture in the White House.

Chicago Women Fight Decree On Hair Cuts

CHICAGO, April 12.—(AP.)—Fifty thousand Chicago women are bound they're going to get their hair cuts where they want them, and whether that place is a beauty parlor or a candy store is, they contend, nobody' business.

They have signed a petition protesting against the ruling of Attorney General Carlstrom that beauty parlors can not cut hair unless the operators are licensed as barbers.

Another 50,000 will have signed the petition within another week, predicted Columbus D. Behan, business manager of the Chicago and Illinois Hair Dressers' Association.

GIRL BELIEVED SLAIN IS SAFE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 12.—(AP.)—Mystery veiling the identity of a girl's torso found in the Los Angeles River last week deepened today after the last major theory of the police had been dissipated by the reappearance of Miss Laura Belle Davis, of Denver.

Police believed the torso to be that of Miss Davis after they had learned she had disappeared from a rooming house here. Articles of clothing from Miss Davis' wardrobe had been examined by scientists, and they "positively identified" the torso as that of the Denver girl.

Shortly afterward Miss Davis was located here.

BOYS IN STOLEN MACHINE NUDGED POLICEMAN'S CAR

Harold Huff, 18, of 134 North Winebiddle avenue, in a stolen auto, made the mistake of crowding the car of a police captain. Huff admitted in Morals Court today that he had stolen the car of Herbert Walace, of Swissvale, had forced Capt. Andrew Charles, driving his own car, onto the sidewalk at Craig and Forbes streets, and had then crashed against another auto.

Huff and his companion, Walton Warman, 19, of 5155 Coral street, fled on foot, and Charles followed. He caught Warman and located Huff early today at his home.

Huff also confessed to rifling the car of L. D. Tracey, of Forbes Terrace, which was parked outside Masonic Temple, and charging gasoline on Tracey's credit card.

Both boys were held for court, charged with larceny and misdemeanor.

KDKA Gets Four Foreign Stations

Station KDKA performed a remarkable achievement by communicating with four foreign countries last night. At 7 o'clock the signals of 5SW, England, were picked up and the music and striking of "Big Ben" rebroadcast, and at 7:23 the program was rebroadcast from PCJ, Eindhoven, Holland.

At 8:15 the broadcasting of ABG, Germany, was picked up in sufficient volume for rebroadcasting, but on account of a prearranged program the local station was unable to rebroadcast. After midnight the signals from 2ME at Sydney, Australia, were picked up sufficiently strong for rebroadcasting.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that was central over Eastern Iowa yesterday morning, moved rather slowly north-northeastward, and is now central over upper Lake Michigan. Lowest barometer reported was 29.56 inches at Green Bay. The disturbance is producing cloudy weather over the lake region, the Ohio Valley states and eastward to the coast, and snow or rain over most of that area.

The western high developed southeastward. It now covers the lower Mississippi Valley states, attended by clear skies generally, and moderately cold weather. Frost occurred as far south as Arkansas and Tennessee. Cold weather continues over the Plains states and the entire West.

River Conditions.

The rivers are now falling slowly everywhere in the Pittsburgh district. Stage at Franklin is 6.9 feet; Lock No. 7, 14.4; Pittsburgh, 17.5; Dam No. 2, 10.0; Dam No. 6, 17.9; Dam No. 9, 18.0; Dam No. 12, 17.0. The highest stage reached at Pittsburgh was 17.9 feet, early last night.

Finds $1,000,000, Gets Sea Job He Sought

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—An Indianapolis youth who hitch hiked here to look for a job on a ship sailing to foreign ports, found his opportunity in the form of a $1,000,000 check lying in the street. James Dickett, 22, who had found the big city cold Wednesday night and the Bowery Mission nothing like home, set out this morning in an effort to land the job. At Broadway and Cedar street he saw the check, made payable by Pynchon and Company to the Hanover National Bank, lying in the dust.

He took it to the Hanover National; from there he was escorted to Pynchon and Company and soon was the recipient of a $20 reward and the congratulations of financiers. More than that an adjuster of the National Surety Company took him to the United Fruit Line office to see about that job.

The Pittsburgh Polyphonic Choir under the direction of the Rev. Carlo Rossini gave its Easter-Tide concert in Carnegie Music Hall last night. The large audience not only enjoyed some very fine choral singing, but must have been interested in the excellent historical information read before the classical music. It was a most instructive performance.

In all music there is nothing more glorious than the madrigals and motets that came from the Sixteenth Century composers. Father Rossini's program gave us seven good examples of the sacred music of that day, and his choir sang with a brilliance of tone and spirit that we never before associated with this body of singers. There was also a group of secular songs, and then to close more sacred music from the pen of Perosi, the musical dictator of the Vatican, and a fine chorus by Father Rossini himself.

James Philip Johnston opened the concert with a very musical reading of the March Pontificale. Ralph Federer was piano accompanist.

VETERAN OF TWO WARS KONJOLA'S LIFE-LONG FRIEND

Since 1908 He Suffered From Stomach Trouble—Made Well Again by New Medicine.

Day by day grows the stream of indorsements that pours in, telling of new and glorious victories won by the new medicine, Konjola, in cases that have well-nigh come to be considered hopeless.

MR. H. H. MOSHER

Many ask: "What is it about Konjola that makes it such a wonderful medicine?" A perfectly natural question in view of the fact that Konjola is achieving triumph after triumph in most obstinate cases, and it is being answered by the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, daily, meeting all who come to inquire about Konjola and its works. The outstanding secret of Konjola's amazing success is probably this: its 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs, all work together, yet each has its own mission to perform in cleansing and invigorating the ailing organs. Results are quick; one does not have to wait long to prove the surprising merits of this supercompound. Take, for instance, the experience of Mr. H. H. Mosher, veteran of the Spanish-American War and the World War, living at Allison Park, a short distance from Pittsburgh, who made this statement to the Konjola Man just a few days ago:

"I found Konjola just in time, for I was ready to give up. Nothing relieved the stomach and bowel troubles from which I suffered. It was in the year 1908 that I first started to suffer and from that time on I rapidly grew worse. I never had a minute's rest with my stomach for every bite of food caused intense suffering for hours after each meal. Of course the constipation made matters a great deal worse and although I tried everything that was recommended, I continued to suffer and get worse.

"Konjola was strongly recommended to me, but my faith in all medicines and treatments was exhausted long ago. However, my friends insisted that Konjola was the very medicine I needed; that it was at its best in such stubborn cases as mine. Well, I decided to make the trial. The change that has come over me is almost beyond belief. In fact, I would not believe it myself did I not know it to be a fact. Konjola's 32 ingredients worked wonders and now my stomach is in wonderful condition. My digestion has been restored and I can eat an enormous meal without the slightest suffering afterward. I feel like my old self again after many years of agony. I owe everything to Konjola and shall never cease to sing the praises of this medicine."

Konjola may be taken by the aged or given to the infant. It is a remedy such as Nature herself might have compounded. It is all health-giving, body-building medicine, every drop and every drop works.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

DESPONDENT MOTHER KILLS SELF WITH POISON

Despondent over ill health and her daughter's unemployment, Mrs. Ellen Kelly, 65, a widow, swallowed poison in her room at 1100 Forbes street, and died five minutes after being removed to Mercy Hospital, late yesterday, according to the coroner's report.

The daughter, Mrs. Margaret Newman, found her mother unconscious, with an empty bottle, that had contained a disinfectant, nearby.

The mother and daughter came to Pittsburgh six months ago from Detroit. Mrs. Kelly, suffering from rheumatism, was supported by her daughter, morgue attaches said. Mrs. Kelly, an hour before she was found, asked Mrs. Newman to leave the house for a while. When Mrs. Newman returned she discovered her mother unconscious.

MOTHERS' FUND INCREASE REFUSED

Ignoring the appeals in behalf of widowed mothers and orphan children entitled to receive aid under the Pennsylvania mothers' assistance act, the State Legislature has refused any increase in the appropriation for mothers' pensions.

Action by the House in amending the Harris Senate bill is declared to have shut the door of relief in the faces of 1,900 mothers and more than 6,000 children waiting, in many instances, two years in the hope of receiving help in their efforts to keep their homes intact.

As a result, families will be scattered, children will be taken from their mothers and placed in institutions, homes will be broken up and mothers will be thrown upon the world to shift for themselves, it is pointed out by welfare workers who have been in touch with the struggling families.

COUNTY GETS LESS

Allegheny County, with a waiting list of nearly 1,000 children, will receive $18,000 less this year, according to Mrs. Marcus Spiro, president of the Mothers' Assistance Fund trustees. This reduction is brought about through the operation of the law affecting returns from the counties in the state in which there is no organized mothers' assistance.

It was pointed out by Mrs. Spiro that the families which cannot be cared for through the mothers' assistance boards must be thrown upon public charity of counties or cities, or turned over to the care of philanthropic organizations.

The Harris bill, sponsored by the State Department of Welfare and the Mothers' Pension League of Allegheny County, proposes a change in the system of allocating the funds between the various counties and appropriated $3,497,522 for the next biennium.

CUT DOWN IN HOUSE

This amount was declared necessary to care for the growing waiting lists in all the larger counties. After passing the Senate the bill was amended in the House shearing it down to $2,750,000, which in the last two years has been inadequate, according to the figures of the Welfare Department and the county boards of trustees.

"We are still hopeful that Gov. Fisher and other state leaders will see the necessity for an appropriation sufficient to care for the mothers and little children who have been waiting so long and patiently," said Mrs. Spiro.

How's This? Corns Lift Out With Fingers—No Pain!

Thanks to a new discovery made from a Japanese product your foot troubles can be quickly ended.

Ice-Mint, as this new preparation is called, is said to shrivel up hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes so that they can be lifted out easily with the fingers. It's wonderful. Think of it: only a touch or two of Ice-Mint and real foot-joy is yours.

There is not one bit of pain or soreness when applying it or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

If your feet are inclined to swell or puff, or if you have cracked or bleeding toes, it will draw the inflammation right out and quickly heal the sore and tender places. It is the real Japanese secret of fine healthy little feet and is greatly appreciated by women who wear high heel shoes and by men who have to stand on their feet all day. Try it. Just ask in any Drug store for Ice-Mint and learn for yourself what solid foot comfort really is. There is nothing better.

THIEVES' GUNS HALT PURSUIT

Two automobile thieves who abandoned a machine after a chase in which they fired repeatedly at a man who detected them while they were attempting to steal a tire from an automobile, were being sought by police today. The stolen car, property of T. F. Matuszewski, of 270 Fisk street, which was taken from in front of his home last night, was recovered by police at Howley and Friendship avenues several hours later.

The thugs, after stealing Matuszewski's machine, attempted to steal a tire from the automobile of Thomas Dolan, of 238 South Winbiddle avenue, parked in front of Dolan's home. Edward McNally, a brother-in-law, observed the robbers, but they leaped into the stolen car as he neared them. Jumping into Dolan's machine and pursuing the pair to the Bloomfield Bridge, McNally was forced to give up the chase by the robbers' gunfire.

GARDENER HURT RESCUING MAN DENIED COMPENSATION

HARRISBURG, April 12.—(AP.)—A gardener who went to the rescue of a man pinned under a tractor, and himself was injured, today was denied compensation by the Workmen's Compensation Board.

The board, in an opinion by Chairman Houck, held that C. G. Wingert, of this city, the gardener, was not regularly employed by his employer, a physician, at the time of the accident. The doctor was building a house next door, and a workman operating a tractor was thrown underneath it. Wingert went to his assistance. While helping to lift the machine, he was injured.

The character of his employment, the board ruled, was not changed by his act of assisting the helpless man under the tractor.

The usual duty of a fireman is to run to a fire, the board decided in another case involving the death of Fireman Bird, Lawrence Park, Erie. Bird, on a semi-paid basis, heard the fire bell ringing in his home, took up his equipment and ran 900 feet before he was picked up by a motorist and rushed to the fire. Just after he entered the burning building he dropped dead.

The award of compensation to Bird's widow was contested on the grounds that he was not accidentally injured, but died from a weak heart.

Woman Will Study Wife Trading Case

LINCOLN, Neb., April 12.—(AP.)—District Judge J. H. Broady temporarily washed his hands yesterday of the case of Otto Slade and Horace Reed, residents of Bennet, who traded wives last Easter. The Judge referred the case to Mrs. Grace Morning, of the Juvenile Court, for an inquiry, especially as to the effects the case may have on the wives and children. Slade and Reed, penitent after their pleas of guilty, were still in the county jail.

FARM WAGES SHOW GAIN

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—Agriculture is reported by the Department of Agriculture to have entered the spring season with a farm labor supply slightly in excess of the demand in all parts of the country. Farm wages April 1 were a fraction higher than on that date during the last three years.

The index of the Bureau of Economics of the department showed the supply of labor approximately 4 per cent larger than the demand, compared with 7½ per cent last year. This difference was attributed to the higher volume of industrial employment.

SIX TRAPPED IN CAVE-IN

LANSING, Mich., April 12.—(AP.)—Six men were believed to have been killed in a cofferdam collapse at the South Logan street viaduct at 9:45 o'clock this morning.

Eight men were working about 30 feet under the level of the river on the footings of the viaduct on the south side of the river when without warning there was a crash and the workers were buried under an avalanche of crashing timbers and water.

An emergency call was broadcast by police who rushed to the scene. Shortly after they arrived ambulances were on the scene.

Two of the eight men were rescued but the other six were believed to have perished.

The tremendous weight of the swollen river crushed in the sides of the dam with such force that one man was thrown clear of the wreckage into the river. He was one of the two rescued.

BLOT OUT TRAFFIC CIRCLE, EXTEND BOULEVARD, PLAN

The Department of Public Works and the city planning commission today was to receive from Council a request to reconsider plans for extending the Boulevard of the Allies to Schenley Park by omitting a proposed traffic circle at Bates and Wilmot streets. The project was estimated to cost $298,000.

The plans were discussed yesterday at a hearing granted by Council to city engineers, city planners and members of the Oakland Board of Trade.

The project included the widening of Wilmot street from the present eastern terminus of the boulevard to the bridge leading into Schenley Park. An alternate plan provided an overhead artery crossing the hollow in which Bates street is located, to the hillside further east.

Oakland merchants termed the traffic circle "a joke" and designed "to help only a few selfish interests." They doubted if the bond issue funds voted by the people to finance the project could be used legally for the traffic circle as it was not in the original schedule.

City engineers said the traffic circle was proposed as the logical method of controlling the anticipated large volume of traffic passing through the intersection from many directions.

Objectors to the plan included Senator James J. Coyne, John Dimling, Attorney Harry H. Negley and W. J. Moore.

Dress Afire, "Gas" Used for Water Kills Woman

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., April 12.—(AP.)—A woman died of burns suffered when a boarder threw gasoline instead of water on her burning clothing here yesterday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Superak, 37, of Richeyville, was cleaning clothes with gasoline when they became ignited and the flames spread to her own clothing. A boarder who heard her screams threw a pan of gasoline upon her, thinking it was water, and the woman was enveloped in a sheet of flames.

A small son was burned when he went to his mother's assistance.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned, respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services.

We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed and they seldom have a new opportunity which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers, salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income as distinguished from earnings on capital, and since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on earned incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor, Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation to our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

Give Land to City Rather Than Pave

SHARON, April 12.—Because the cost of paving assessed against a triangular plot between South Main avenue and the Erie Railroad was more than the value of the property, the American Exchange National Bank, executor for the Williamson heirs, deeded the land to the city to settle the account.

Bandits Get $1,945, $1,800 Gem in Holdup

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 12.—Two masked bandits yesterday took $1,945 in cash and a diamond valued at $1,800 from Herman Schwartz, proprietor of a bakery, in a roadside holdup. Schwartz was accosted by two men in a car as he was traveling from Youngstown to Lowellsville.

CURTIS SHINES AT ARID CAPITAL SOCIETY DINNER

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(INS.)—Mrs. Edward Everett Gann's social sun shone brightly in Washington today.

She went to a dinner given by the Chilean ambassador, Senor Don Carlos Davila, at the Pan-American Union last night and ranked all the other ladies present, thus establishing one of those precedents that are so dear to capital society. Mr. Gann was seated far down the table.

It was a dry dinner, too, although the cellar of the Chilean embassy, like other diplomatic cellars in Washington, contains some very rare stuff. Nothing but water was served.

The aridity of the dinner was not explained. However, it was said to be due to a number of causes. For one thing it was given in the Pan-American Union Building, which is not hallowed ground so far as liquor is concerned.

For another, there were a great many dry legislators present, in addition to cabinet members and the vice president. Senor Davila is said to have considered it would be "more appropriate" to refrain from serving intoxicants. Also, the guests numbered several hundred.

Vice president Curtis was the ranking guest. Others included Senator Jones (Rep.), of Washington, author of the "five-and-ten" law, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Attorney General Mitchell, Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, and many members of the diplomatic corps.

The dinner was given in honor of Senor Pablo Ramirez, Chilean minister of finance, who is visiting in this country.

AERIAL SURVEYS GETS CHARTER

HARRISBURG, April 12.—The State Department has issued a charter to the Aerial Surveys of Pittsburgh, Inc., which is organized to operate an aerial survey, map-making, advertising and general aircraft service. The company has a stated capital of $2,000 and also 1,200 shares of no par stock.

R. E. Lake, 1355 Cordova road, Pittsburgh, is the treasurer. His associates are Russell P. Hay, 2319 Forbes street, and Helen J. Hay, of the same address.

A charter also has been approved for the Taylor Brothers Aircraft Corporation, Bradford. The company has a capital stock of $100,000 and will manufacture and operate aircraft. L. S. Bannister, Bradford, is the treasurer.

Hit by Auto, Weds Driver, Sues For Hurts

MILWAUKEE, April 12.—(AP.)—Mrs. Cletus Prasch holds that the driver of an automobile in which you are injured is liable for damages, even though you marry him. She has sued her husband for $10,000 because of an accident on December 13, 1927, six months before their marriage.

German Cabinet Bars Trotzky from Nation

BERLIN, April 12.—(AP.)—The German cabinet, after considering the matter since the middle of February, decided that Leon Trotzky, former Soviet war commisar, would not be a desirable resident within the republic, even in the status of an invalid, as he had described himself. It, therefore, decided to refuse his request for a visa which would permit him to seek the advice of German physicians.

STILL, SUPPLY CAR SEIZED

An automobile hauling supplies to an alleged moonshine plant at 625 Butler street, Etna, was seized as the driver, Mike Zagorski, 26, of 1024 Bingham street, South Side, was about to enter the building which housed a 50-gallon still, Etna police said. Chief J. J. Frye, who seized the car and the still turned the contraband over to federal prohibition agents, along with Zagorski. The car, police said, contained 1,000 pounds of corn sugar and 50 pounds of yeast.

A saloon at 1424 Fifth avenue, was visited by federal raiders and a large quantity of whisky seized, it was reported. Joe Alton, 46, was arrested and released on bond, the agents asserted.

CHAPMAN SEEKS U. S. AIRPLANE CARRIERS

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—The New York World today says that Joseph E. Sheedy, operator of the United States Lines, Inc., for P. W. Chapman & Co., went to Washington yesterday to seek to acquire ownership for the line of the naval airplane carriers Lexington and Saratoga.

Although no definite action has been taken on the project, officials of the line, which recently purchased the Leviathan and several other Shipping Board liners, for several days have been considering the idea to acquire the carriers and use them as express passenger liners.

Under the terms of the sale of the passenger liners to P. W. Chapman & Co., two large, fast liners must be added within three years to operate with the Leviathan. It is to meet this requirement that the acquisition of the Lexington and Saratoga has been discussed.

U. S. Declines Offer For Canada Search

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—Treasury Department officials said yesterday that an offer by the Canadian government to permit this government to station customs inspectors on Canadian public docks would be declined, as had been an identical offer during the anti-smuggling conference in Canada last winter. The offer was declined at that conference, officials said, because this government believed it could derive no benefit from stationing inspectors on the Canadian docks.

The victim's overcoat was covered with tar and his shoe fitted a footprint found in tar surrounding the tar plant of the Lewis Manufacturing Company's plant, Dover, where it is believed he floundered before walking into the stream. A meal ticket was missing from the victim's pockets and his nose was broken.

BILLY IS AN IMPERSONATOR WHEN NANNYGOATS FAIL AS FILM EMOTERS

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 12.

BELIEVE it or not, lady goats can't act. This information may come as something of a shock, but on excellent authority (always a good line) it is stated as accurate. Out at Pathe, umpty ump lady goats were movie-toned for the vital role of Lily in the Wildcat coloredseries. They flopped. Whereupon the powers-that-be, Monte Brice and Paul Powell, in this instance, decided to engage a billygoat for the role. Said B. G. may be logically spotlighted as the first female impersonator to cinematize the bleat family. And, by way of wistfulness, this male Lily receives $75 a week for his services! Showing the power of ba-a-a—and the silliness of it all.

'Tother morn at the awesome hour of 8:30, a group of celebs mosied to the Carthay Circle Theater, there, amid quietitude and in a yawnily empty house, they saw and listened to a singing test of Gloria Swanson, Mary Pickford, Doug Fairbanks, Joseph Schenck, Norma and Connie Talmadge, Mr. and Mrs. Buster Keaton, Paul Stein, Gloria herself—all present. Emanating opinions from those present hit a sincere C of bravo. La Swanson has a firm, high soprano and when it comes to reaching for a note, she reaches and holds it. It's a good trick. She will warble a tune or two in "Queen Kelly," providing this outloud will take production seriously.

Gloria Swanson

Vilma Banky.

Swanson Film Films Slowly

IT hasn't gone into its second production schedule as yet. Gloria appears in no way perturbed. She's tennis-ing gaily these springsome days. She is terribly enthused over the vocal end of the film, but even in this age of voice culture, it requires more than do-re-me-la-te-do to bottle celluloid.

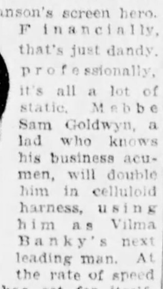
And as for Walter Byron, the leading man in the flick. Well, Walter was imported from England aboard a Samuel Goldwyn contract. He has emoted in one cinema since settling in the Hollywood colony. For nigh eight months now, he has been Gloria Swanson's screen hero.

Financially, that's just dandy, professionally, it's all a lot of static. Mebbe Sam Goldwyn, a lad who knows his business acumen, will double him in celluloid harness, using him as Vilma Banky's next leading man. At the rate of speed "Queen Kelly" has set for itself, this is logical.

Europe Calls Emil and Frau

SCREENALITIES:

Frances Marion has sold the beautiful mansion where she and her husband, Fred Thomson, enjoyed their years of married life. Miss Marion disposed of it to a Texas oil man, I understand, for half a million dollars. Hear tell that in the not too distant future she will gratify her yearn to live in Europe. .....Speaking of this fem, she chucked a sort of farewell buffet breakfast ter hum 'tother morn. Nearly everybody there: Jack Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Rathbun, Polly Moran, Hedda Hopper, George Fitzmaurice, Gloria Swanson, James Forbes and Clarence Brown, the director, visiting in an airplane. Swooping down and swooping up again. By way of how-de-do..... Greta Garbo continues to make seclusion the better part of valor. Spotted her hitting the road spots in her Ford motor bus one afternoon.....Lew Cody has taken up recuperative headquarters on the beach: Playa Del Rey, to be specific.....Nils Asther is going in for English with a calculating eye on the outlouds. An instructor from the University of Southern California is teaching him how to shed a Swedish accent.....Phyllis Haver telling Norma Shearer that she chugs the permanent trail to New York in eight days. She's keeping the exact date of her marriage to William Seamen, supervision of Mayor Jimmy Walker, to herself... ...Understand Emil Jannings and his frau depart for Europe in a couple of weeks. Mebbe he'll return. Mebbe not.....Gus Edwards, the Christopher Columbus of youthful celluloid talent, dedicates a theme song to MGM sound stage. Um, goes like this: "Interlocking papa, you can't blow my vale."..... And—that's all.



Clarence Brown

NO U. S. ENVOY FOR VATICAN

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(INS.)—Diplomatic recognition of the Vatican state will not be extended by the United States government, it was disclosed today.

The State Department has committed itself in replies being sent out to the writers of hundreds of letters received both at the White House and the Department since the creation of the new papal state. The letters were all protests against the sending of an American minister to the new state.

Not one letter has been received favoring recognition, officials said. The Department's reply declared that the question of recognition "had not arisen."

Apartments to Make Mayor Walker Move

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—An invasion by apartment houses is likely to drive Mayor Walker out of Greenwich Village. He says he may have to sell for $50,000 or so the old homestead his father bought 30 years ago for $18,000, as much as he hates to leave the neighborhood.

KINLOCH HEADS ABSOLVED

The blast which claimed 46 lives in the Valley Camp Coal Company's Kinloch mine, near Parnassus, March 21, was laid to defective machinery last night by a coroner's jury, which absolved owners and officials of criminal negligence. The verdict was returned at an inquest held in Greensburg, Westmoreland County seat.

It was found that the blast was brought about by the explosion of coal dust following the breaking of a conveyor chain which hoisted coal to the surface up a 329-foot slope at an angle of 30 degrees.

The conveyor was described in the verdict as being of a "defective and ineffective type," and it was recommended that the defect in the machinery be remedied and "so arranged and constructed that should a break of similar character take place again it would automatically adjust itself in place on the slope of the passageway and not slide down in a heap at the bottom of the slope."

At the inquest, conducted by Coroner James Harkins, of Westmoreland County, and John R. Thomas, chief inspector of the State Department of Mines in the bituminous fields, some 20 witnesses were examined.

WINS ONE TRIAL, LOSES SECOND

The penalty for an alleged liquor violation, which Mrs. Pearl Kanaracek, of 1925 Preble avenue, escaped in Morals Court Monday, was meted out to her in Criminal Court yesterday when Judge James B. Drew sentenced her to 60 days in jail for violating parole on a similar offense.

In Morals Court, Judge A. D. Brandon discharged the woman on the grounds that police had not proven sale of liquor. Police Inspector Charles Faulkner disagreed and took the case to the probation officer. Yesterday the arresting officers were called to testify against the woman, who admitted that she had liquor in her store when it was raided.

Methodists Making Books in Ex-Brewery

MELROSE, Mass., April 12.—(INS.)—The Methodist Church purchased a brewery in New York, tore it down, erected a publishing plant and is turning out 20 tons of religious literature a year, Rev. George C. Douglas, of Cincinnati, told the one hundred and thirty-third annual New England Methodist Episcopal Church conference here yesterday in his report for the Methodist Book Publishing Company.

As the conference's share of the publishing company's profits he presented a check for $3,316.

Congressmen Invited To W. Va. Apple Fete

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—The attendance of the entire West Virginia congressional delegation at the Shenandoah apple blossom festival at Winchester, Va., for which a West Virginia girl has been chosen queen, is being urged by Representative Shott (Rep.), of West Virginia.

Shott said that upon the convening of Congress he would request the members of the delegation to attend this festival, which will be held April 18 and 19.

NARCOTIC BODY SCORED BY WHEELER

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(INS.)—A sharp attack on the system employed by the Federal Narcotics Control Board in fixing opium imports was launched yesterday by Senator Wheeler (D.), of Montana.

He criticized the board, composed of representatives of the State, Treasury and Commerce departments, for permitting large quantities of opium to enter legally without determining exactly the medical needs of the country for drugs.

"The board's aim should be to reduce imports to the barest minimum to prevent any possibility of leakage to illicit channels," said Wheeler.

According to the records, the board has increased the imports from approximately 43 tons in 1924 to 70 tons last year.

TOPS POPULATION RATIO

This increase exceeds the ratio of the population increase for the same period.

"The board claims that the legitimate requirements of the nation are reflected by the yearly sales of drug manufacturers, and it is apparently on this basis that the import allotments are determined.

"Ravages of drug addiction cannot be eliminated through any such policy.

"Is the Narcotics Board controlled by the manufacturers, whose chief interest is greater profit? If that is true, the board is guilty of negligence and incompetence.

"Great care and vigilance should be exercised in fixing imports. They should be so curtailed that there will be no opportunity of obtaining a supply in excess of medical requirements."

WANTS ONE HEAD

Wheeler favors the plan to reorganize the narcotic enforcement agencies under a single responsible head.

The board candidly admits it feels that manufacturers' records are influencing factors in revealing the country's medical needs for dope, for in the last official report it says:

"Because of restriction, there can be no object in making excessive purchases from manufacturers, for generally there can be no administering or dispensing in a given case without a proven medicinal need, which need is confirmed, claimed and authorized by the action of the attending physician, surgeon or dentist.

"Manufacturers' reports, therefore, reflect the legitimate requirements."

However, the government has no control over the amount of drugs a physician or other registered person may buy or prescribe.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Think Before You Defy Health Rules

ONCE in a while you read something that gives you a funny feeling. Just now I saw a sentence of this sort in a newspaper. How does it strike you?

"Game laws are better enforced than laws for the protection of human life."

Man is regarded as a free moral agent. That is, he is so regarded in respect to most things. Of course, many laws are enacted to control his conduct, but in most of his doings and not-doings he is left to himself. But the laws for the protection of wild game are enforced strictly. It is not safe to shoot deer out of season, or to take home the undersized fish.

But many laws intended to protect human life are too frequently more honored in the breach than the observance. This is a pity.

Nothing can be more precious than human life. It makes me sad when I observe the many and serious violations of the laws intended to guard health.

In enlightened communities the officials make pretty consistent [illegible] to enforce the laws and [illegible]nces enacted to protect human life. Too often, however, [illegible]s at enforcement are spas[illegible] and half hearted. This is a mistake.

As regards health there are many laws that existed long before men thought in terms of legislation. I refer, of course, to the laws of nature. These are the first of the "unwritten laws." They always have been and always will be.

Nature is kind and patient. She will forgive a good deal. But just as sure as you are born she will call you to account for continued misdeeds, for habitual violations of the health rules.

Many a bootlegger is never caught. Thousands of murderers are never discovered. Burglars ply their trade and are never found by the police. Man-made laws are broken every day and in a percentage of cases nothing happens.

But that isn't the way with nature's laws. She is more unfailing than the most perfect adding machine. She records every failure of yours to observe her demands.

We forget this fact sometimes. We take a chance of getting pneumonia, of having a fatal accident, of poisoning the blood. We wouldn't think of catching trout out of season, but we do not hesitate a minute about catching cold.

The sign, "Do not trespass," is likely to be observed. "No hunting allowed," is an admonition that is heeded. But what about the sanitary law. "Never cough or sneeze without covering the face?"

We should help to enforce the sanitary laws and certainly should obey them. We owe that to society and to ourselves. It helps to lower the death rate.

To know and keep nature's law will add to our years and happiness. Let us be as good to ourselves as we are to the wild game.

Answers to Health Queries

A.—Superfluous hair can be successfully removed with the electric needle, but must be employed by an expert. A bleach is something helpful.

A.—About 125.

A. B. C. Q.—What causes dizzy spells?

A.—Dizziness may be due to a circulatory disturbance, to an eye or ear condition, or to some intestinal disturbance. An examination will determine the exact cause and then definite treatment can be prescribed.

At Her Feet -:- By Paul Aslan

WORSHIPERS, kneeling in adoration at the feet of their goddess. Praying her favor, asking her grace, begging that the prayers be heard and answered—and each secretly hoping that HIS will be the only prayer heard.

And high on her pedestal the goddess sits, supremely indifferent to them all, that is, until the right one petitions her. Then gone is the indifference, the coldness, the aloofness and the goddess becomes just Woman—made for love and loving, and she in turn erects her own little pedestal and enshrines therein the one who has caused her to descend from her shrine.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Despite Madge's Overtures Katie Continues to Sulk

KATHERINE'S prediction of Katie's forgetting her grievance against me and becoming talkative again within a few days, did not materialize. She sulked gloomily during the entire time of preparation for the Brixton visit, although, to do her justice, she did not let her gloom affect her work. She went through her tasks in whirlwind fashion and so thoroughly as to satisfy even Mother Graham. My mother-in-law who, drawn by the lure of overseeing the house-cleaning—her favorite diversion—decided to forgive me magnificently for my stand against her upon the day of Katie's trip to Quogue and came out of her self-imposed seclusion in her room in time to exercise a superb supervision over every detail.

I made but one cautious attempt to placate my little maid whose ego had been offended by my ignoring her attempts to tell me of her trip. After dinner, following Mary's description of the freakishly dressed woman in mourning who had so amused Prince Georges, I went into the kitchen and after directions for breakfast, put a casual question.

"Did you get to the funeral in time, Katie?"

My little maid stiffened and looked at a point a foot or two above my head.

"Oh! yah, I get dere," she said sullenly.

"Was it a large funeral?" I persisted, trying to give the effect of being interested in anything which concerned her, "and were there many flowers?"

"Yah! it beeg," Katie answered laconically, "and heap flowers. You say you want melon for breakfast?"

I took the hint, also my departure, after assuring her that melons were to be served for breakfast, but I stopped just inside the dining room door at the sound of a mumble which I guessed she intended me to hear, but whose sentiment she did not dare to voice directly.

"Some folks so darn smart," my little maid muttered vindictively, "dey no listen ven I vant talk dey shoost kin vait vun goot long vile till I get ready to tell sometings."

I took the report of my futile mission back to Katherine and Lillian, but neither then nor during the next day which preceded Lillian's departure, could we hit upon any plan for opening Katie's obdurate lips. Yet we all felt that my sullen little maid perhaps held the key to the mysterious Janet Rawdon to whom Mary was checking out the greater part of her allowance each week.

I worried over the thing inordinately during Lillian's absence, and when she returned with Marion from their mountain trip, browned, rosy and with an air of tranquillity which spoke of soothed nerves, her first question when we were alone told me that she, too, had been concerned over Katie's obstinate silence.

"Has Katie spilled anything yet?" she asked.

"Not a word," I told her.

"Is her grouch lessening, do you think? It isn't like Katie to hold a grudge so long."

"She isn't quite as sullen as she was" I said. "But it's her self-importance that is wounded, and ——"

"That's the most deadly injury in the world, you know. However, I'll bet I know a remedy. Samuel Brixton, among his other faults, is the most reckless tipper in the world. But it will stand us in good stead. When he leaves Katie will be in such high good humor that holding a grouch will be impossible to her. Let's see, when's he coming, day after tomorrow, isn't it?"

"That's the date he named," I said.

"And leaves the next day, praise be," she went on. "I prophesy Katie will come down from her high horse shortly afterward, so let's forget all about it until the Brixtons have come and gone. By the way, what did your father say? Will he give Samuel the once and twice for me?"

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Our Potential Husbands

SOMETIMES, marriage turns a man into a diplomat—and sometimes it turns him into a door-mat.

The man with a single-track mind and the woman with a single-track heart make the best matrimonial bets.

* * *

"If a man tries to be romantic," writes a discouraged swain, "the modern girl regards him as a "nut." Yea, peradventure, my Son—but if this be true, then nine girls out of ten are squirrels at heart!

HELEN ROWLAND

When a man feels low and all run down, he consults a physician or a nerve specialist; but nothing can pull a woman out of the depths and pep up her spirits like a few hours under the soothing hands of a beauty specialist.

"The old-fashioned saloon will never come back." No, and if it did it would be so doiled up with finger-bowls, doilies and feminine touches that no man would recognize it. There will never, again, be any such thing as a he-man's retreat from WOMEN, in this denatured old world!

* * *

Any man with so little conceit as to think that the women love him only for his money or his motor car has all the makings of a fine husband.

* * *

A bachelor is most in danger of matrimony, when he feels so sure of himself that he flings every woman a rope and defies her to catch him.

* * *

Somehow, a man who has been thrown over always lands in another woman's arms.

The modern bachelor stops to take his temperature and looks around for an antidote, the moment he discovers that a woman has stirred his pulse.

* * *

When a man has confessed all his little faults and weaknesses, pick out the one he never mentioned, and you'll find his besetting sin.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, April 13

THE astral influences for this day lay stress on the unforeseen and the unexpected. This may manifest in some sudden opportunity, involving change, and while the promise is for fair returns this new venture may not be considered as of prime importance. But mediocre forces rule on this day, and these in the main will bring commensurate returns, although there may be a disposition to energy and initiative. There should be caution in employment.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of fair activity, with an unforeseen opening for an advantageous change or possibly travel. But it is advised that care be used not to run counter to those in authority. There may be minor personal inharmonies or friction.

A child born on this day may be skillful and enterprising, and may attain a fairly favorable station in life.

Favors unexpected doubly please. —Congreve.

CORRECT MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Public Reading

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Please let me know if it is customary to address the chairman and the audience when giving a reading, the same as you do when giving a speech at some public gathering? F. H. A.

IT would not be necessary to address the chairman and audience, unless you were making some introductory remarks about what you were going to read. However, in any case, you would, before you begin to read, bow—not low, but a gracious nod—to the chairman, who probably had introduced you, and take a rather inclusive glance over the audience. This will establish your friendliness and poise, and will serve as a gracious greeting to the audience.

Appreciation

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I received a box of flowers from the mother of a girl friend of my son's. The girl comes to our house very often for week-ends and I suppose her mother wants to show her appreciation. How shall I thank her for the flowers?

2. How shall I sign my name, Caroline Winters or Mrs. P. B. Winters? READER.

SUCH a charming and gracious gesture of appreciation deserves the very best note of thanks that you can write. This kind of thoughtfulness shows fine breeding. Maybe something like this will suggest a form to you:

Dear Mrs. Warren:

How very charming and friendly of you to have such a beautiful thought for my happiness, and to express this thought in such a glorious box of Spring flowers. They were most lovely, and I enjoyed them with a special enjoyment. Such radiant jonquils I have never seen—they made the house sunny and happy for days.

I hope that I am to have the great pleasure of knowing you very soon. Marion has told us such beautiful things of you, and we have enjoyed her so much, and her love of you.

Best wishes from us all, and again my gratitude for your kind thought.

Cordially yours,
CAROLINE WINTERS.

2. Never, never, never should a letter be signed with the Mrs. in the direct signature. You sign your name Caroline Winters, or Caroline Smith Winters. Under this name, if you wish to indicate your formal name, you write your formal name in parentheses:

Cordially yours,
CAROLINE WINTERS.
(Mrs. Peter B. Winters.)

Bridge Prizes

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When I have a guest at a bridge party is it or is it not proper to give her a prize along with the guest prize if she happens to win one? I think she should get all the prizes that are coming to her, but some of the other ladies think the prize should be given to the next highest.

MRS. —

INDEED the guest should receive the prize, if she wins it. You are right in saying that "she should get all the prizes that are coming to her."

Hotel Registry

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. At an evening wedding, do the bride's attendants wear hats or some other covering for the head?

2. Does a bride wear her veil and carry her bouquet during the reception?

3. What is the proper way for a man and wife to sign in the hotel register:

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Jones, or Mr. B. C. Jones and wife? E. H.

USUALLY at an evening wedding the bride's attendants do not wear hats. They wear some interesting grouping of flowers in the hair, a wreath, perhaps, or a band of silver or gold leaves.

2. Yes, her hour of glory is so short that she makes the most of it by wearing all her finery until she goes to change to her traveling dress.

3. Mr. and Mrs. Bernard C. Jones, of Chicago. (It is extremely bad taste to sign "Mr. B. C. Jones and wife.")

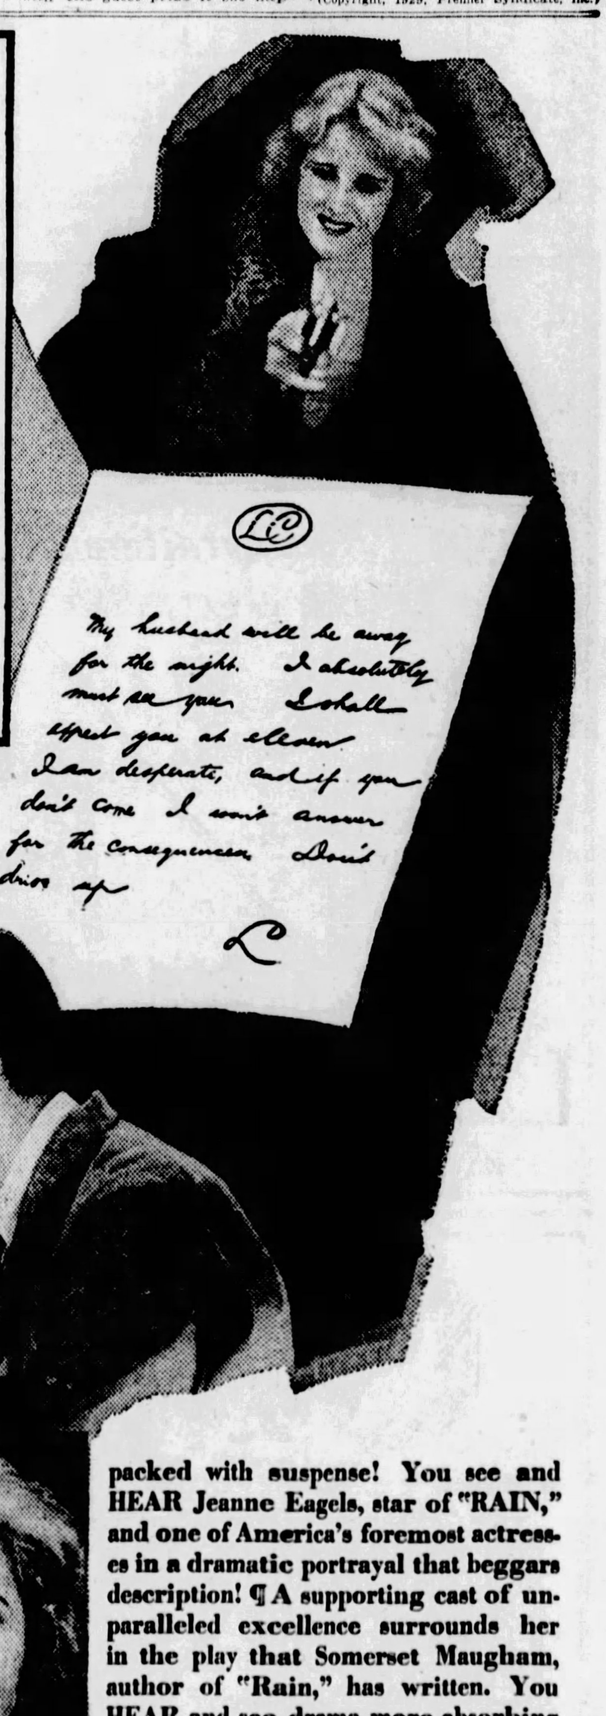
I wrote that letter, that desperate, fatal letter—that sent to death the man I loved!



ALMOST unanimously critics everywhere have agreed that this is THE GREATEST ALL-TALKING PICTURE yet produced. For the first time the screen portrays Life with its vicissitudes, its triumph in its full intensity, in a magnificent and thrilling drama of a lying, erring wife caught in the toils of tropic heat and clandestine love. Every word is fraught with emotion! Every moment packed with suspense! You see and HEAR Jeanne Eagels, star of "RAIN," and one of America's foremost actresses in a dramatic portrayal that beggars description! ¶ A supporting cast of unparalleled excellence surrounds her in the play that Somerset Maugham, author of "Rain," has written. You HEAR and see drama more absorbing than you can possibly imagine.... and at the end a terrific climax leaves you breathless in your seat. You must see and HEAR

WIFE SAYS MAN STRUCK HER

That her husband struck her in the mouth while on the street, knocking a front tooth out, was one of the charges made by Mrs. Esther W. Fultz, of 1312 Juniata street, North Side, today in asking a divorce in Judge Josiah Cohen's court on grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment.

She told the court her husband, Fred W. Fultz, was a gambler and drunkard most of their married life. She further charged that she was compelled to settle many of his debts. He also pawned two of her diamond rings, she said.

They were married August 19, 1922, and separated two years ago. At the time of their marriage Mrs. Fultz was 19 and he was 21.

Leopold Leaves $50,000 to Son, Boy Slayer

CHICAGO, April 12.—(AP.)—A trust fund of $50,000 "for the care and maintenance" of his son, Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., who, with Richard Loeb is serving a life sentence in Joliet prison for the murder of Bobby Franks, is provided in the will of the late Nathan F. Leopold, filed for probate here.

The document specifies that the fund may be dissolved at any time by Foreman and Samuel Leopold, elder brothers of Nathan, Jr. The remainder of the $500,000 estate is divided equally between Foreman and Samuel.

The will mentions that no provision is made for Mr. Leopold's second wife, whom he married in 1927, as she was provided for in a prenuptial agreement.

Traffic on the Pennsylvania Lines was tied up for more than 12 hours between here and Uniontown.

TRIES TO SLAY SISTER, SELF

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—Distracted by poverty and failing health, police were informed, Frederick Robinson, 52, struck his 51-year-old sister, Mrs. Emily Lowe, on the head with an ax today and then tried to hack his own head off in their Brooklyn home.

A neighbor who broke down the door at first thought Mrs. Lowe dead, but it later developed that she was still living, though in a critical condition. Brother and sister were taken to Kings County Hospital with fractured skulls.

Steubenville Builders Get Five-Day Week

STEUBENVILLE, O., April 12.—A five-day week for building crafts of the Steubenville district has been agreed upon between locals and building contractors and will become effective May 1, it was announced yesterday. Watch his head check dandruff

Youngsters usually get dandruff at school; promiscuous use of combs, towels, etc., brings it on. At the first sign of it, go after it with Listerine, the safe antiseptic, for dandruff is a germ disease and Listerine attacks germs.

To combat dandruff you simply douse it on full strength and massage the scalp vigorously. Keep the treatment up systematically. Unless the case is a very serious one, requiring the attention of a physician, you will note improvement within ten days.

Laboratory tests show that Listerine destroys even the stubborn Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) germs—200,000,000 of them in 15 seconds.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

WIFE BLAMES AUTO FOR MARITAL TROUBLES

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

BY HAVEY J. BOYLE

VILLAGE GOSSIP: Earl Carroll, the well-known theatrical producer, was in town the other day. . . . He is a native Pittsburgher, and started his career in the theatrical realm by handing out programs at the Alvin Theater. . . . Gossip is that he has sold his Earl Carroll Theater in New York and plans building a new one. . . . In the newest building in town elevator riders will never see a car pass them. . . . When they press the button gadgets begin working that makes the elevator stop on that floor, willy-nilly. . . . Many downtown poles are being adorned with traffic lights and a plan is on foot to remove the cornermen from danger by having them stand on the sidewalks. . . . The evening

rush to the movies and theaters brings traffic tangles rivaling those of the daytime. . . . Harry Little, city councilman, is one of the few men who belong to a country club but who doesn't play golf. . . . He started to play one day and after he hit the ball 200 yards his partner said: "Now we walk out there and take another swing." "Don't be ridiculous," said Mr. Little. "Give me another ball and I'll get the same effect without so much walking." . . . Never to his face but behind his back Inspector Jimmy Hoey, of the First District, is known as the "umpire." . . . A strict disciplinarian, Inspector Hoey is ever on the alert for the fast ones and curves. . . . The busiest telephone in the city is the pay station in a cell of No. 1 station. . . . Here gentlemen who are temporarily detained drop nickel after nickel calling on their friends to get them out. . . . A button rings a bell and a door, with a covered hole, allows the proprietor of the giggling place to inspect his prospective guest. . . . There are difficulties coming from wits who, upon ringing the bell, place their hands over the hole in the door. . . . Even this has been overcome largely by the joking proprietors who put their cigarets through the hole and burn the jokesters' hands. . . . Trustworthy reports say that Soho is utterly indifferent to the great stir over where Mrs. Gann will sit at the diplomatic functions in Washington. . . . In other sections of town, however, there are pro-Gann and anti-Gann factions. . . . The concensus among the gentlemen who loiter at Second avenue and Grant street is that it is a tempest in an afternoon teapot. . . . Elmer Layden, one of the famed Four Horsemen of Notre Dame, is in town, watching spring practice at Duquesne University. . . . Evenings he attends boxing shows. . . . A surprising development of the last week or so in current sports was the fact that a soccer game was held in Curry and only three skulls were fractured in the little pleasantries indulged in after the game. . . . This is a new low record for Curry and is expected to stand for some months. . . . Ushers in the movie palaces favor the silent films. . . . With the silent ones the ushers could forget about the picture by not watching it, but now they are forced to listen to the same story four and five times a day. . . . A varitable flying squadron of ushers is used at one cinema place in town to guard against a jam when the ropes are pulled down for the second show of the night. . . . The action has all the appearance of a football huddle. . . . Without much publicity an usher in a local burlesque house rose to the ranks of the chorus. . . . The broad humor of the burlesque shows appeals to the Europeans in our midst, quite a few of the foreign-born who work in the mills dallying thusly with Thespis. . . . It is a place where you can still see a judge whack a red-whigged

Irishman over the head with a bladder as he pronounces sentences. . . . There are other things, too, some of them almost approaching the subtleties achieved in the higher priced houses. . . . There is still a vendor of dishes in town who makes his route through the neighborhood sections, selling cups, saucers and plates. . . . An artist anxious to get interesting subjects might with profit loiter around the steps of the Old City Hall. . . . In that building is housed an agency giving doles to needy mothers. . . . Old women and young ones, with children, make visits asking for assistance. . . . Their stories would be of interest to a new Charles Dickens. . . . The best "shot" of the town may be obtained from Mr. McArdle's Mt. Washington roadway.

HEARING BRINGS OUT FACTIONAL FIGHT

Mandatory orders have virtually been given to the commissioners of Shaler Township to sewer the Glenshaw district and also the Bowerstown district in the interest of public health.

This developed at the hearing going on before Judge James H. Gray on the petition of the residents of Undercliffe, Glenshaw and Elfenwild to separate those communities from Shaler Township into a borough to be known as Glenshaw borough.

Judge Gray asked one witness in particular whether he would be willing to vote for the improvements the residents of the district planning to separate from the township want. The man, William A. Bisk, would not commit himself, saying that if the commissioners advised it he might. Judge Gray contended he did not think that angle was for the commissioners to decide.

C. E. Cathers, president of the township board told the court that estimates of the cost of providing sewers and water for the entire township was presented to the commissioners and that the estimate was in excess of $1,000,000 or more money than they have the power to borrow. He admitted to the court that the residents of the district should have some relief.

The court thought that it might be a good idea to have the township redistricted, but no application has ever been made to have it done.

ELOPING PAIR THROWN UPON BREAKERS

Another runaway marriage to Wellsburg, W. Va., ended in divorce court yesterday, when Sarah Roberts Hill, 45 North Linwood avenue, Crafton, asked Judge Josiah Cohen in Common Pleas Court to divorce her from Herbert David Hill, whom she charges with cruel and barbarous treatment.

When the husband reached his majority, Mrs. Hill testified, Hill's parents gave him a roadster and then their troubles became more involved. She was working for $65 a month and her husband for $100 a month and they were living at home, but burning up a lot of gasoline.

Finally they budgeted their living expenses and after the earnings had been pooled she claims that the husband spent his and most of her earnings. She wanted him to sell the car, but he refused. She said her husband also took other girls out in it, but that when she paid $3.65 for a pair of shoes he kicked. Finally she told him he had better leave.

She then says he slapped her in the face and on another occasion threatened to strike her with a shotgun. The couple were married June 27, 1927. The wife claims that her husband nearly made a nervous wreck out of her. They were both under age when wed.

Bloom and a choir of 18 voices, will conduct the services. The celebration will continue until April 20.

PICNIC CLASH KILLS CLUB

The Lemington Picnic Association, which has sponsored the Lemington public school, picnics for the last 15 years, was dissolved at a public meeting at the school house last night, and arrangements made for the formation of a new organization under whose auspices a picnic not only for the public school but also the two parochial schools of the district will be held.

This action was taken by a vote of 44 to 8 after an address by Brook N. Edmonston, secretary of the Lincoln District Board of Trade, in which he set forth that jealousy and bigotry were injuring the growth of the district and appealed for harmony and co-operation between the conflicting elements.

Edmonston was named temporary chairman of a committee to form the new association, abate ill-feeling and arrange for the picnic, which will be held this spring.

Jurors Mistake Recess, Start For Home

Two jurors, Isidore Plotkins, shop keeper Scott Township, and R. E. S. Ward, retired, 7725 Brashear street, Wilkinsburg, nearly disrupted Judge Elder W. Marshall's court yesterday. The jury was excused for five minutes and these two jurors sitting on the case thought they were through. They were found a half hour later in the assignment room and told to hustle back to their box in court.

Of this sum the widow is to receive $32,081, the remainder to be allotted to Marshall's creditors in payment of notes, physicians' bills and claims in general.

The account shows that Mrs. Marshall's share consists of $22,599 in cash, together with 75 shares of preferred stock in the Bellefield Land Company, together with some mortgages.

3 Murder Chairs Serve Police as 'Furniture'

Three odd chairs and a small writing desk, unclaimed evidence used in murder trials, are part of the office equipment five councilmen found amidst the facilities used by police heads to furnish their departments.

The discovery was made today when President James Malone, Daniel Winters, Peter McArdle, William English and John Herron inspected the detective bureau, bertillion room and homicide squad to ascertain if a request before council for new equipment estimated to cost $8,000 was justified. It was in the latter department the unclaimed evidence was found.

The tour was sufficient to cause the city fathers to promise support for the request at the council meeting next week.

Today's Flagism

The bombardment of Fort Sumpter, one of the opening demonstrations of the Civil War, took place April 12, 1861. Old Glory was hauled down from the ramparts temporarily when the fortress fell, but was back again before many years had passed. The Stars and Stripes occasionally YIELDS ground in an emergency, but never LOSES it. Henry Clay, distinguished American statesman, was born April 12, 1777.

JURIST PRAISES PLAN TO PUT RADIO IN SCHOOLS

In a statement issued to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Judge George V. Moore of the Common Pleas Court, heartily indorses the use of radio in the schoolroom, saying that it is just as important to maintain educational methods at a peak as it is to maintain an efficient fighting force or adequate hospital facilities.

The statement, as issued to the Sun-Telegraph, says:

IMPORTANCE SEEN

"It appears to me to be just as imperative to bring the educational methods of today to the highest attainable peak, by enhancing present-day teaching efforts with the aid of a first-class radio receiving set in every class room, as it is for us to equip our present-day military forces with the most modern implements of warfare and to provide our hospitals with equipment which constitute the 'last word' in combating disease and physical ailments.

"Bringing the voice and utterances of the President of the United States and the splendid men in high official positions of national importance, the vocal offerings of outstanding soloists, the presentations of outstanding musical organizations and the enlightening declarations of leaders of science, letters and the legitimate stage to the hearing of children in our schools would constitute an educational force of such potency that the advisability of installing a first-class radio receiving set in every class room shou'd be apparent to all who are in any way interested in the school life of the nation."

ADDS HIS PRAISE

Judge Moore thus joins with many other prominent men and women in many walks of life who have praised the radio in the school room.

The plan to install at $138.50 eight-tube No. 53 Atwater Kent radio receiving set with electro-dynamic speaker in every school and school room of the Pittsburgh district is meeting instant commendation from many Pittsburghers. Schools and school children are finding it comparatively easy to obtain the necessary 125 new subscriptions for 13-week carrier delivery of the Sun-Telegraph.

The speaker whom the Sun-Telegraph sends on request to visit groups of school children and explain the campaign is finding an increasing demand for his services. Order blanks may now be obtained at the Stanley theaters, from many school children, or may be clipped from the Sun-Telegraph, in which it will appear every day.

Watch this column for daily details.

Indorsement

GEORGE V. MOORE

Judge Moore, Common Pleas Court, joins with educators, business men, parents, teachers and officials of the Pittsburgh district in indorsing the use of radio in schoolrooms.

Gil Roy Says

NEW YORK, April 12.

Al Smith has been made director in a second insurance firm. Saw Calvin one and raised him one. See where Mr. Coolidge is to get transportation to and from his home to the head office. He ought to have joined the Prudential. They meet on the Rock of Gibraltar.

With all our prominent men hooking up with insurance companies, it looks like they figure prohibition will remain.

Had all this social stir in Washington over a sister. Suppose it was a mother-in-law? That's not improbable. There are some queer people elected.

Leviathan sailed with seven hundred bottles of "medicinal whoopee."

Yours, WILL.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR: LAMBERT MURPHY TO SING

COMIC OPERA SELECTIONS FEATURE RADIO PROGRAMS

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

WE WERE both surprised and disappointed at our radio last night, Teddy Joyce and David Wark Griffith furnished the surprises.

Teddy's hopping about on a board platform four feet square in the WJAS studio provided a real novelty. The microphone was held near the boards by Francis Owen and Teddy remarked that Owen was doing the announcing out of the left side of his ear, while lying prone on the studio floor.

A new number, "He's a Popular Man About Town," sung by Teddy, struck us as a ditty worth remembering.

We were charmed by Mr. Griffith's austere, but pleasing voice. Especially did he delight with a tale or two of Mary Pickford before her meteoric rise to movie stardom. But Mr. Griffith disappointed us by not telling—"as advertised"—something of Joan Lowell, author of "The Cradle of the Deep," who, we understand, will appear in one of his pictures soon.

LOIS BENNETT

But that's all over and we have another good radio night to look forward to with Lambert Murphy, tenor, singing hits from "Rose Marie" over WJAS at 10 o'clock and other attractions.

Lois Bennett, soprano, who sang leading roles in several of Winthrop Ames' revivals of Gilbert and Sullivan operettas, will repeat a selection which brought her fame on the stage during the 8:20 concert over KDKA. "Poor Wandering One" from "The Pirates of Penzance," is the song which Miss Bennett will sing.

The "Evening in Paris" program from WCAE at 9 p. m. looks very inviting and at 10 o'clock this station will present the Red Arrow Quartet.

ULTRA-VIOLET SUN RAY BATHS

THE theory of the Ultra-Violet Ray Solarium rests on the solid rock of scientific fact. Give it a fair trial and you'll always be grateful for what it accomplishes for you. Strip off your clothes, put on a pair of goggles to protect your eyes, and stretch out on a cot under the flood of Ultra-Violet rays. The exposures are so short at first, you can't believe there will be any effect, but you'll notice the difference in the way you feel. The tonic effect on the sympathetic nervous system is evident after a couple of exposures.

You know how a week in glorious sunny weather stimulates you—gives you a real appetite, clears your eyes, steadies your nerves. Give Ultra-Violet light its chance to do as much—in five minutes every day.

Beginning Tuesday, April 16, and every Tuesday thereafter, the Turkish Bath will be open for Women until 10 P. M.

MARION TALLEY, RICH AT 23, TO QUIT OPERA FOR FARM

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—Marion Talley, youthful Metropolitan Opera star, whose phenomenal career brought her a fortune in three years, has decided to retire to a farm. Estimates are that her golden voice has made $500,000.

Since she is only 23 years old and presumably in years to come would earn hundreds of thousands more, she has amazed her concert manager and friends with the statement:

TO FARM IN WEST

"I have made up my mind to retire from the professional stage. By this I mean all operatic appearances as well. My retirement will be permanent.

"I am going west with my family. The farm might be in California and it might be in Colorado, but I am going to look first in the Middle West. I am going to be just like all other farmers."

Her last appearance will be at Cleveland, where she will sing in "Lucia" May 4. Her engagement with the Metropolitan expires with that appearance.

NOTABLE DEBUT

Miss Talley came from Kansas City, Mo., to make a $100,000 debut at the Metropolitan February 17, 1926. A trainload of her fellow-townsmen came to augment the thousands who stormed the opera house that night and accord her thunderous acclaim for her Gilda in "Rigoletto."

Born in Nevada, Mo., Miss Talley gave promise of musical talent at an early age. She sang popular songs at 2, began the study of the piano at 5 and the violin when she was 7.

In 1922 she had her first audition before officials of the Metropolitan. Her lyric soprano was favorably received and on advice of Gatti-Casazza, general manager of the Metropolitan, she continued her studies in New York and Europe.

ACTION UNPRECEDENTED

A retirement of a singer so early in a stellar career is unprecedented. Geraldine Farrar left the Metropolitan after attaining success comparatively young, but she was then older than Miss Talley is now, and she has continued in concert since then. Other noted singers have made public appearances well into middle life.

The New York World said today in regard to Miss Talley:

"Numerous rumors became current as to possible causes of her decision. One report had it she was to appear in the talkies. Another was that the singer, despite the continued enthusiasm of her public, was herself dissatisfied with the progress she had made in her singing—an explanation that would conform with opinions of her voice often expressed by some of the critics, who asserted her voice was cold and unflexible. Still another report was that the announcement was a publicity stunt, designed to obtain for Miss Talley more and fatter contracts."

'Sunken Bell' Opera Presented in Rome

ROME, April 12.—(AP.)—The opera "La Compana Sommersa" (The Sunken Bell), which had its world premiere at the Metropolitan Opera in New York, was heard at its first public performance in Italy at the Royal Theater Opera last night.

In the audience were the Queen, Crown Prince, Princess Maria, Gen. De Pinedo, Feodor Challapin and Gerhardt Hauptmann, from whose work the opera was taken. Giovanni Martinelli and Elisabeth Rethberg, who took the leading roles in New York, were roundly applauded.

TO PROTECT HOSIERY and Lingerie from "Soap Eat" or Fade

Stops Fade and "Soap Eat" Even When Ordinary Laundry Soap Is Used

Fragile hosiery and delicate-tinted French lingerie can now be washed frequently; but still protected from soap eat or fading color, even when ordinary laundry soap or powders are used.

Under the new method described here, even faintest pastel colors in fine lingerie or delicately tinted hosiery hold fast, according to recent tests, for as many as 50 washings, without noticeable fade or wear.

The method is very simple: To each tubful of water (or washer filled to the water line) you merely add 2 tablespoons of a preparation called CLIMALENE and use just ONE-FOURTH the quantity of soap you ordinarily use. Then proceed with washing as usual. (For small wash basins, use 1 teaspoonful of CLIMALENE.)

This preparation is used by experts to stop fade and "soap eat." It acts by converting hard, or semi-hard water to rain water softness and to dissolve grease and dirt. White clothes, washed this way, never grow yellow—but wash pure white. Delicate colors hold fast. You can easily get it at any grocery store. Two sizes, 10c and 25c. Just ask your grocer for CLIMALENE.

Menu for Sunday Dinner—By Prudence Penny

Sardine Cocktail.
Chicken Pot Pie.
Asparagus Ring with Peas and Cauliflower.
Grape Fruit and Orange Salad.
Prune Pudding.

WE'LL start the Sunday dinner with a sardine cocktail. Skin the contents of a small can of sardines and cut in small pieces. Mix with ¼ cup tomato catsup, 1 tablespoon grated horseradish, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, the juice of one leman, and salt.

Serve ice cold in cocktail glasses. And now for chicken in my favorite form. Seems to me I could have chicken pot pie several times a week! Clean, singe and cut up the chicken. Place in a pot and nearly cover with water. Cover the pot and simmer gently. A young chicken requires 1½ hours. Remove cover during last half-hour of cooking to reduce gravy to about 1½ pints when done.

THREE-FOURTHS of an hour before time to serve, make dumplings, in this way. Sift together 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Rub in ½ tablespoon fat. Add enough milk to moisten flour. Roll out dough on board, making it about 1 inch thick and cut with biscuit cutter.

* * *

Put the embryo dumplings on plate in steamer and steam 20 to 30 minutes. When they are done and ready to serve, add salt and pepper to the chicken and make gravy by adding to the liquor in the kettle three tablespoons of flour stirred to a paste in one cup of milk. Skim out the chicken, lay it on a platter, place the dumplings on top, and pour over them the gravy.

The asparagus ring is delicious. Cut the asparagus into inch pieces. Heat three tablespoons butter, add three tablespoons flour, salt and pepper, stir until well blended. Add one-third cup milk or cream and the remainder of the cup of milk gradually, stirring until smooth. Pour this sauce onto the beaten yolks of three eggs. Cool, fold in the stiffly beaten whites and lastly, the asparagus pieces.

Place in a well greased ring mould, set in a pan of boiling water and bake in moderate oven one-half hour or until set. Remove to hot platter, place cooked peas or cauliflower in the center and serve with a cream sauce.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Guild of Calvary Church Busy Working on Fall Bazar

SPRING seems to have left us, temporarily, and these chilly winds and rains of the last few days have apparently been making folks think about fall and its events. We've had a good bit of social activity here during the last couple of weeks—weddings, a few teas, the Stage and Play Society performance, and so forth—and now, during that lull that always makes itself felt sometime during a busy season, plans are being formulated for that time when summer vacations will be over.

I hear that St. Ann's Guild of Calvary Episcopal Church is among the groups arranging their annual benefits. This guild, you remember, holds a bazar every fall, and while the exact date of the next one hasn't been named yet, the members are busily at work on their plans to make it the most successful one ever given. Mrs. Scott Nesbitt is the chairman this year, and she is organizing her committees so that no detail will be overlooked.

Always one of the popular features of this bazar is the doll table, and this year a new idea has been instituted. Mrs. J. Reynolds Pierpoint is chairman for this department, and she is asking all those generous folks who want to contribute toward the bazar and who have any old dolls in their possession to send these toys in to her committee. Mrs. Pierpoint and her aides on the committee are planning to spend many busy hours rejuvenating these dolls for the bazar.

THERE are debutant plans, too, and among them is the date for one of the June coming-out parties. This is Saturday, June 22, which has been taken by the William Jackson Crittendens, of "Sucasa," Shields, for a tea at which they will present their daughter, Caroline.

Caroline came home from school for her Easter vacation and has decided not to return. Instead, she is planning to sail for Italy early in May with her grandmother, Mrs. James B. Oliver, of Shilds, to attend the wedding of her cousin, Fanny Dusmet, daughter of the Marchesa Dusmet de Smours, the former Edith Oliver.

ANOTHER of the coming season's debutante's, Mary Louise Bickford, has gone back to school after spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren I. Bickford. Mary Louise is a pupil at Miss Porter's School in Farmington, you know. Mrs. Bickford went East with her daughter and is planning to spend a week in New York before returning home.

NOW that news from Palm Beach and the far-South resorts has dwindled to almost nothing, we are hearing from the Virginia and Carolina resorts, where many of the wanderers have stopped on their way home from Florida.

Miss Adlyn Foster will sing.

Mrs. Woolfolk will leave Wednesday night to join Mr. Woolfolk in New York and on Saturday, April 20, they will sail on the Adriatic for a tour through England, France, Italy and Spain. Marjorie will remain with Mrs. Barrett until Mr. and Mrs. Woolfolk return in June.

NEW JERSEY MAN, ONLY 26, "BABY" OF 71ST CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, April 12.—(AP.)—The House in the Seventy-first Congress has its "baby" member, a New Jersey representative who qualified at its 25-year age limit just eight months before his election. He is Fred A. Hartley, Jr., of Kearney, who became 26 years old last February 22.

Mr. Hartley, who is believed by House attaches to be the youngest representative ever to serve in the House, succeeds as the "baby" of the Seventieth Congress Representative George H. Combs, of Missouri. Combs, who was 27 years old when elected, did not seek re-election.

The young New Jersey representative started his political career four years before he came of legal voting age of 21. At 17 he stumped his state for the Republican ticket, and three years later he was appointed to the Library Commission of Kearney. After reaching voting age he was elected to the Kearney City Council in charge of the police and fire departments, serving in that post until he ran for Congress. In his race for the House he defeated Paul J. Moore, Democratic incumbent.

The rise of Mr. Hartley might be described as "from choir boy to congressman," for as a boy he was a soprano soloist in several Newark, N. J., churches. Entering Rutgers College at the age of 16, he continued his musical career, organizing what is credited with being the first college "jazz" orchestra.

It was as director of this orchestra in a tour of the state that he met his wife, then Miss Hazel Roemer, of Kearney. He left college almost immediately, while he was 18 and a junior, and married. They have two sons and a daughter.

The "baby" representative is 5 feet 10 inches tall and is stockily built. He has blonde hair and wears shell-rimmed glasses.

The BROADWAY MELODY by Jack LAIT

(From a Scenario by Edmund Goulding.)

Warry Professes His Love For Queenie at Her Birthday Party

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Eddie Kerns, song plugger, has written the music for "The Broadway Melody," a big revue to be produced by the famous Zanfield. For two years Eddie has been engaged to "Hank" Mahoney and now he sees his way clear to marry her. She and her younger sister, Queene, are playing in vaudeville and Eddie summons them to New York and tells them he has managed to place them in the revue. They are overjoyed, but Eddie suddenly discovers that he's lost his heart to Queenie who has developed into a startling beauty in the two years since he saw her last. He keeps his secret from "Hank" and the girls turn down a long vaudeville contract for a chance to make good in the revue. Zannie, after seeing the "Mahoney Sisters" perform, decides that he could only use Queenie. She, however, appeals to him to also give her sister a chance in the show. He consents. "Hank" believes that she put it over. During a dress rehearsal Eddie shows the sisters the big ad in the newspaper announcing their coming to Broadway. When Hank kisses Eddie, Queenie cries. Zannie gives Queenie a place in the revue. She makes an impression and the two "angels" of the revue invite her out to dine after the show. Dore, one of the show girls, tells Queenie to watch her step with Worthington. Eddie questions Queenie about "Warry" and tells her to keep away from him. Ignoring Eddie's protest she goes out with Warriner. When "Hank" arrives home with Eddie she discovers Queenie in. The two "angels" are disappointed when Queenie wouldn't play their game. However, "Warry" sends the other half of the $1,000 bill to Queenie. Just as she is talking to him over the telephone, "Hank" returns and finds the torn $1,000 bill. She is worried about Queenie, who hides her sudden riches. "Warry" makes another attempt to get Queenie to go out with him. Meantime, Eddie comes in and tries to persuade Queenie to have nothing to do with "Warry." He is holding her in his arms when "Hank" comes in. She asks if they have been fighting and Queenie then leaves the room. "Hank" tells Eddie the plans for the birthday party.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE living room of the Mahoney suite in the Princeton was lit up like a Christmas tree and decked out in the same scheme.

The table was draped with a Spanish shawl in the center of which was Queenie's birthday cake, with the 19 little skinny candles. Plates of sandwiches and glasses were scattered at random. Some pathetic flowers lay limply with disgusted air here and there, in contrast with a basket of orchids and American beauties standing off in a corner, sent by Warriner.

Sitting and standing about, munching and sipping, were a dozen people, all branded with the unmistakable earmarks of ham. Some were helping Hank tie bundles. One woman had a cheap teddy bear which she exhibited before she wrapped it. Every time the elevator was heard to stop everything stopped, to be resumed after some other guest entered or no one came. A portable radio was booming a syncope on the window sill.

Uncle Bernie stuck his bald, fat head out of the bathroom and called to Eddie Kerns. He showed Eddie the stacked up bottles of beer and others floating in the bathtub with cracked ice strewn about them.

The elevator stopped again. There was a hush. A key was heard in the lock. Eddie whispered sotto voice, "Here they are! Now everybody set—remember—'SURPRISE!' when I raise my hand . . . sh-sh-h-h."

The door opened and in walked Hank. They waited a moment—but she shut the door. Eddie's hand had not been raised.

She looked at him and then cast down her eyes.

"W-where's Queenie?" he blubbered.

"She—there was another party—she couldn't cancel—she didn't know, you see, about this one, it being a surprise, an' so—"

"Where's Queen?" asked Uncle Bernie, who hadn't heard.

Hank put her hand wearily to her head. Hank explained again, even more lamely. Uncle Bernie looked ruefully at the beer in the tub.

"Tell you what," he suggested. "Let's have the party anyhow—for Hank—for me—I don' care—but we can't kill off such a good party—"

"This is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party," wheezed a small-timer as he choked laughing at his own wit.

Much enthusiasm greeted the motion, which was carried unanimously.

Eddie sneaked close to Hank, and in her ear he breathed:

"Who threw the party—Warriner?"

She nodded her head. He gritted his teeth and turned away. He viewed the brash merrymakers. Then he spoke up—

"I think you'd all better move this truck down to my room—Hank's got a fierce headache an' she's got to get to bed."

Eddie led the way to the door while the good-natured guests picked up plates and sandwiches, and Uncle Bernie, with a sigh, began hoisting the beer and putting the ice into a tablecloth. He opened one and offered it to Hank.

"That's the finest stuff there is for headaches—it makes 'em an' it cures 'em," he chuckled.

Hank tried to smile, but it was no go. She slunk into the bedroom. She drew down the blind after she had quietly closed the door. Her desperate little face looked harrowed. She dropped to her knees beside the bed, clasped her hands and dropped her forehead on them, and with a profound moan she prayed:

"Dear God—save—Queenie—"

Uncle Bernie was returning for the rest of his beer. All had left the room. Eddie came in after him. The agent shooshed him with his tablecloth, saying:

"Hey—get back to the frolic—no cheatin'. You're the host, ain't you? Whose birthday is this, anyhow?"

Eddie touched him on the arm and said he'd be down—in a moment—something he had to say to Hank—

Uncle Bernie regretfully left. Eddie went to the bedroom door and tapped lightly. A broken voice called him to come in. He hesitated a second. Within him a doubt, a hesitancy struggled. With an effort he drew himself up and turned the knob.

Eddie stopped dead when he saw Hank on her knees, in prayer.

She dropped her hands from the bed and went through a clumsy effort to appear as though searching for something on the floor. He came to her and lifted the quivering little figure to her feet. Her arms stole around his neck and she dropped her head on his shoulder.

"Oh, Eddie, darling, I'd want to die tonight if I didn't have you," she sobbed.

His determination melted in her tears. Despair and agony possessed his features.

He stroked her hair and through a choke he answered:

"Good night, Hank—dear—you're the best pal I ever had—the only pal I have—now—good night."

She followed him to the door and kissed him silently. He went and left her alone.

High above the roar of the streets, on the roof of a mighty apartment building east of Central Park, Francis Warriner was flinging a birthday party. Baby electric lights of many hues were woven and festooned about the natural shrubbery of the garden surrounding the magnificent skyscraper bungalow. String music floated out of the ballroom, swelling into a wicked jazz as the brass took up the tune, "Broadway Melody."

Within the flower-laden table, in horseshoe formation, with the dancing space within, sparkled back from its silver and its crystal champagne goblets the low and mellow incandescences of concealed fixtures. The band was at the far end, concealed behind an avenue of potted palms. The music stopped with the sax player doing his "That's all now" on his instrument, and the couples drifted to their seats.

Queenie Mahoney, her lovely face flushed with the dancing, the wine, the excitement of the surroundings and the role of queen in such an assemblage of beauty and millions, took a seat at the head of the table. Beside her Warriner glided into his chair. His handsome face was pink even in the subdued lighting. He was more recklessly, urbanely charming than in his suave moods. Warriner, who never became drunk, was just a feather-edge tipsy. Queenie and the Piper Heidsieck had gone a bit to his head.

A flunky wheeled in a tremendous birthday cake in the shape of a barge, reproducing the love boat in the revue which had raised her in a moment, even before the opening, from the lowly cast of an unwanted half of a minor sister team to—well, at least this—the admired star guest at a function in the home of a man of wealth and station, surrounded by the bloods and the beauties of the metropolis.

Several waiters, with a captain giving orders, busied themselves. The 19 candles blazed up simultaneously as a connection was plugged into an unseen box under the rug on which it stood. An entertainer came into view. The orchestra hit up "Love Boat," and he sang it. When he had finished and the applause died out, Warriner rose to his feet. He lifted Queenie up in his athletic arms and held her aloft over the heads of all.

"Happy birthday to Queenie — Queen of New York's loveliest girls," he cried.

He kissed her, and let her down.

The men crowded about her and congratulated her. The girls threw confetti and high wishes. Then all raised their glasses as they stood, and drank a toast to the new queen.

A butler's hand went up and all lights dimmed down, except the flaming whites of the little bulbs in the electric candles of the cake. They threw garish shadows on the walls. The band struck into a swaying syncope, and the couples were off to the insinuation of the tune, dancing.

Warriner swung Queenie with abandon. She had dreamily closed her eyes. It was all so wonderful.

The hidden leader whispered to his men:

"Segue into that new number Eddie Kerns gave us t'day."

Its introductory strains, blended with the concluding ones of the other song, made a clean elision with never the loss of a beat.

Warriner was whispering to Queenie—

"You are so beautiful—you are so sweet—Queenie—my Queenie—be my Queenie—I love you—I want you so—my Queenie—my—"

He noticed a sudden stiffening of her little form in his arms.

What was this?

The orchestra was playing "Two-Lips," the pleading, haunting love song Eddie had written for her—to her—that he had sung the night before to melt her heart.

It was the chorus now.

The words, the crude doggerel he had phrased, repeated themselves to her. The chorus was going and was up to the "catchline" now—

So I beg—I beg your pardon,
But the two-lips in your garden,
Raise them just for me.

Her head swam. She stopped dancing and Warriner stood, puzzled, wondering what he had done—or said—or—Had he been too impulsive in his declaration to her? Had he worked too fast?

She put her hand on her forehead.

"What's wrong, honey?" he asked.

"Please—please ask the musicians to—to play something else."

"Oh—don't you like it?"

She shook her head slowly.

"I can't dance to it," she said.

"My dear, I'm so MAD I could GARgle BUTtermilk! I mean I'm ACtually SEETHing with SPLEEN at this point, no less, because you know, my dear, I SUDdenly conceived the SCINtillating idea of giving a TEA dance for this poisonous FEmale who inveigled BULL to getting enGAGED to her, because I mean I'd HEARD she wasn't a BIT POPular with MEN, my dear, and I had the vague Notion that if she had a WHIRL for once in her life with a few attractive BIMbos twirling her round on their waistcoats, she might decide to see LIFE for a while before making a situation of it with BULL, you see. Well, my dear, I was SIMply LIVid because when ARab and I suddenly appeared on the SCENE at this party, after a little light sitting OUT and whatnot, WHAT did we discover but this SEPtic shimmy-fluffer comPLETELY surROUNDed by inFATuated-looking STAGS, my dear, and COYly GURGling at them in one of those FOUL Southern ACcents that she didn't think it was FAIR to the OTHer girls if all the men wanted to dance with HER—cah you BEAR it, my dear? I mean I was comPLETEly BAFfled and nonPLUSSED, my dear, because she honestly LOOKS like nothing HUman—I mean I ACtually DO!"

Mother Love

By JOSEPH KLEIN

Daily Short Story

INTENSE activity marked the day in the Kaplan home. Preparations were underway for the celebration of Ethel's sixteenth birthday. In the small, smoky three-room apartment there reigned a confusion unprecedented in the humble household. Their faces ferociously crimson, both Mrs. Kaplan and Ethel were moving around at a pace amounting to downright running. The mother was actually shivering from happiness as she hopped around dragging her lame foot.

The stove was filled with time-worn tinware and five ornamented tarts were on the white kitchen table. For the past week Mrs. Kaplan worked day and night to make this party possible. But, tonight, she felt, the reward would come upon seeing her daughter acclaimed.

"Well, I hope, he is a nice boy," Mrs. Kaplan declared.

"Tonight, ma, when you'll see him at the party you'll be convinced that he is a nice boy. He is one of those regular fellows, you know; collegiate, tall, dark and handsome."

Her hands clasping a dishrag, Mrs. Kaplan sank into a chair and scrutinized her daughter with pleasing eyes. What a pretty girl, this Ethel! Already how much taller than her mother. Apparently she had not taken after her mother, Mrs. Kaplan mused with altruistic pessimism.

"I would have never believed that the time would come when I would feel as I do today," she said. "Ethel, dear, will you believe me if I tell you that I am happy. Happy after all I have gone ..."

"Aw, ma, you're not going to spoil my birthday. I know it's all very sad, but why force yourself to thinking about it."

Into the current moment surged the black memories of her life. She wondered naively why of the five children she bore, only one lived to be 16. She remembered the fire which burned two of them to death; the pale, little 3-year-old girl who was choked by diphtheria and the rosy-cheeked boy whom scarlet fever robbed from her. It's all very sad, as Ethel said. It was sad when seven years ago her husband was cremated in a factory explosion.

But today she was happy, and it felt strange to be happy—it almost hurt. Even the lameness of the left foot was now a soothing memory since she acquired it on that glittering day in June, when Ethel, of the pale blue eyes, was born. Ethel was the recompense for all her sufferings. She had seen her through high school, and now that the creole-skinned girl was working in a bank she was able to supplement the income which Mrs. Kaplan created with her homecooking which attracted seven patrons each evening.

"Oh, I forgot something," she muttered inaudibly. "Ethel, I am going to the grocery."

On the street corner she halted and placed a ring on her finger. Thirty years ago, she recalled, a rough hand slipped it on the same finger. And now she was to get rid of it. It hurt. For a moment she thought she couldn't do it—to deprive herself of her youth's and love's only legacy. But, then, there was Ethel—a youth and a love which meant more to her than her own youth and love. She had been eyeing for weeks that bracelet in the jewelry shop window. An expensive affair, it was indeed—fifty dollars—but she was sold on it.

Her eyes were glued on the ring again. It was like parting with an eye.

"I'll not sell it; I'll pawn it," she decided.

"How much on this ring?"

The bald headed pawn broker examined it.

Fifteen dollars is the best I can do."

"No more?"

"Not unless you wish to sell."

"Well, how much for it?"

"Sixty dollars."

"All right, let's have the money."

The bracelet was purchased in a few minutes.

"Here they come," Ethel murmured, as boisterous steps approached.

"Happy birthday, happy birthday," the group of boys and girls, who entered, screamed, pouncing upon Ethel.

Mrs. Kaplan looked hard for Ethel's sweetie, but she had no means of identification and Ethel did not take the trouble to introduce him.

Someone wound up the phonograph and five couples swung into dance.

The words of the song were taken up by the group.

Mrs. Kaplan, still seated in the kitchen, listened fondly. Curiosity gripped her. She wanted to see the "sweetie." She wanted to see it all. She proceeded to walk into the dining room, where the festivities were raging.

Ethel, as if appearing from nowhere, blocked the door to her.

"Mama, you know how it is, nowadays young people don't like to mix with the old ones." She tenderly pushed the astonished woman out into the kitchen, while an invisible hand softly closed the door.

For the first time that week Mrs. Kaplan felt tired. Crumbling into a chair near the window, she lifted her eyes to the starlit sky, and she saw the moon as a great golden splash because there were tears in her eyes.

When a Child is FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade-Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

GRIMES TO FACE CUBS IN OPENER

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Cronin's Bat May Win.
Old Question Up Again.
When Meadows Started.
Pirate Slab Strength.
Heavy Jockey Crusade.
Chocolate Looks Victor.

TITLE TO NEGRO, SOONER OR LATER

WHETHER the management of the Washington club can be convinced that a batting punch is more valuable than fielding steadiness in a second baseman is the question upon which will depend the chances of Joe Cronin, former Pirate, of winning a regular place in the Senatorial lineup for the season that will open next Tuesday. Manager Walter Johnson said recently that he expected to start the race with the infield he was then using, but suddenly Cronin began to hammer the ball all over the Southland, and he has since been hitting at such a clip that Johnson now admits he may change his mind and use Joe at second base instead of Jack Hayes on account of the ex-Pirate's superior clouting.

Joe Cronin

Before he arrives at a decision, Walter and the other bosses of the Washington club are going to weigh Cronin's stronger hitting against Hayes' smoother fielding. The verdict will be reached from that point. It is not a new problem, by any means. Major league managers have wrestled with it for years, and it is a question still often debated whether offensive power or fielding skill means the more in a second baseman, provided a club can't find the ideal player who can both hit and field.

THE biggest deal of the recent winter would appear to indicate that the punch is in greater favor than defensive skill, as the Cubs traded one of the best fielding second sackers in the game in the person of Freddie Maguire, along with four other players and six figures in money, for Rogers Hornsby. That means weakening the club defensively, as Hornsby, with all due credit to his batting ability, is one of the poorest second basemen in the big leagues, particularly on short flies to right field.

But Hornsby is not merely a good hitter. He is a great one, and it was his exceptional ability in that department that induced the Cub's chiefs to part with a better fielder to get him. They would not have made the change for the sake of getting an average good hitter. George Grantham is needed on the Pittsburgh club because he can hit, but his swatting prowess could not win a job for him at second base. He would have offset his offensive value by gumming up plays around the keystone, so he had to go to the outfield and let second base be handled by a weaker hitter but a more dependable fielder in Dick Bartell. You will see the same policy followed on many other clubs. A leaky spot at the midway, particular weakness on double plays, will cost a team more than the player in the case, unless he is a swatting marvel like Hornsby, can pay back with his bat.

IF you haven't noted how times flies in baseball, just run your eye over the following paragraph, which was published in the St. Louis Sporting News, April 8, 1915:

"Lee Meadows, a young pitcher with the Cardinals, who has attracted attention because he wears spectacles while pitching, was professor of botany at the Horner Military Academy in Oxford, N. C. If he decides to quit baseball, the old job will be open to him."

Lee Meadows

THAT doesn't seem so long ago, yet here we find Meadows credited with such a long period of service in the big show that last season he retired because he thought he was done, and his actlvities this spring are looked upon as an attempted comeback. Needless to say, Meadows never went back to the Horner Academy to teach botany. He made good in the majors from the start and stuck with St. Louis until July 14, 1919, when he was traded to the Phillies with First Baseman Gene Paulette for Pitchers Elmer Jacobs and Frank Woodward and Infielder Douglas Baird. The Phils kept him until May 23, 1923, when the Pirates stepped in and obtained him, along with Infielder Johnny Rawlings, for Infielder Cotton Tierney, Pitcher Whitey Glasner and $25,000 in cash.

IN his major league career Lee has won 188 games and lost 180, a splendid record in view of the fact that during much of the 14-year period he was with weak clubs in St. Louis and Philadelphia. In no season since he joined the Pirates in 1923 has he lost more games than he won. It remains to be seen whether or not Meadows is going to be of any great value to the Buccaneers this year.

Manager Bush's action in retaining him while letting Walter Tauscher and other younger hurlers get away, seems to indicate that Donie believes the bespectacled veteran will be serviceable in relief roles at least. It's all a qustion of arm fitness with Meadows. He is as smart a pitcher as either league boasts, but while he still "knows how" it is a question whether his venerable wing will do his bidding without developing troublesome kinks.

FORTUNATELY, the uncertainty about Meadows crops out in a year when the Pittsburgh club will not be seriously crippled if

Six of the outstanding contestants in the C. C. Pyle cross-country marathon, which spent two days in Western Pennsylvania and now is wending its way through Ohio, headed for Los Angeles. Gavuzzi, the English-Italian veteran, who hails from Southampton, England, is one of the favorites to win. He was leading by 10 hours last year up to the time an ulcerated tooth forced him out of the race. Gardner, the only Negro in this year's grind, was a star in last year's Pyle derby. He runs with a smooth stride that indicates he will be in there at the finish. His home is in Seattle. Trimble, who resides in Bakersfield, Cal., finished second in the run from Uniontown to Waynesburg and is up among the leaders in elapsed time. Richman, a New York entrant, is backed by his American Legion post and attended by a flock of trainers who are confident he will win. Simpson, who hails from Burlington, N. C., finished in the money last year and is going strong again. He won the lap from Uniontown to Waynesburg. Wanttien, the Finn, weighs less than 100 pounds, but is a veteran runner who figures to give all of his competitors a fight for the big prize.

WILSON FACES OAKMONTER TODAY

PINEHURST, N. C., April 12.—Two collegians and a pair of veterans play today in the semi-final round of the North and South amateur golf tournament.

Richard Wilson, of Pinehurst and Georgetown University; Phillips Finlay, of Belmont, Mass., and Harvard; W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburgh, former national champion, and George Voigt, of New York, defending North and South champions, survived the quarter final matches.

Fownes advanced yesterday with a notable victory over John W. Dawson, medalist, by a 3 and 2 score. Dawson was runner-up last year and a favorite to win this year.

Voigt eliminated Finlay's Harvard teammate, C. S. Eaton, of Boston, 7 and 6. Finlay won, 5 and 3, from John D. Chapman, of Greenwich, Conn., and Wilson defeated B. P. Merriman, of Waterbury, Conn., by 5 and 4.

Wilson and Fownes will meet in one bracket and Voigt and Finlay in the other.

Gavuzzi Leads Pyle Derby To Wheeling

WHEELING, W. Va., April 21.—(AP.)—Peter Gavuzzi of England did 52 miles in 8 hours 2 minutes and 45 seconds yesterday to win the twelfth lap of C. C. Pyle's bunion derby. The lead in elapsed time was retained by Ed Gardner, Seatle, Wash., Negro stepper, who was tied for third place. Gardner who supplanted Johny Salo, Passaic, N. J., policeman, as leader of the race last Monday during the Hancock, Md.-Cumberland, Md., run, now has a total elapsed time of 77 hours 53 minutes and 40 seconds.

TOMMY MILTON, RODGERS BOX TONIGHT

Local boxing fans tonight will give the once-over to one of the star bantams of the country in action against Jackie Rodgers in the main bout of 10 rounds in the Moose Temple ring. The man who will engage the Negro flash, of the North Side, is Tommy Milton, of New York, who started out as a flyweight and has met the leaders in the flyweight and bantamweight classes in the eight years he has been battling. He blew into Pittsburgh more than a week ago looking for work and got it immediately from Promoter Francis Flynn.

Vandergrift Bowlers Lead in Tourney

In the opening matches of the Market Square Recreation duckpin tourney, the Vandergrift entry, under the leadership of the veteran Lee Hamilton, stepped into the lead in the five men event with a total of 2,352. Hamilton accounting for 586 pins. Altoona with 2,184 and Morgantown, W. Va., with 2,092, placed second and third respectively.

In the doubles, Boldt and Beers, of Altoona, with 1,014 took the lead, while Dughi and McGarvey of the same team shared honors for second place with Lee Hamilton and C. Mohney, of Vandergrift, both netting 937 for their three games. In the singles, Dughi gathered in 539 pins topping his fellow-townsmans from Altoona, F. Boldt, by 32 pins, who took the lead in all events with a 1,502 total.

PYLE ONLY ONE SURE TO WIN IN RACE

By JESS CARVER

Charley Pyle is the king of painless extractors. Call him a nut; jeer his runners and his actors; laugh at his caravan of gaudy motor cars and queer looking followers, but doff your derby to his ability to induce the yokelry and others of this country to throw sweet-blooming dollar bills in his path. He took a goodly sum out of this state in the two days he visited it this week, and, as his second annual transcontinental New York-to-Los Angeles footrace traipses across the country, other localities are going to be shortened up.

C. C. Pyle.

I can't tell you who is going to win this race, but I can tell you right now who isn't going to lose. Charley Pyle's the guy, and he's on the up and up, too. Stop that laughing in the rear seats!

RACE IS JOKE

The race itself, with its foot-sore and weary runners who, if they weren't a bit balmy before they started out, certainly must be by now, is more or less of a joke. The boys straggle in to the finishing point anywhere from 2 to 10 and 11 hours apart. They poke along the road, jogging once in a while perhaps, just to keep within long-distance phoning range of each other, and woe unto the field if the route passes through the home town of an entrant.

I never saw a more hit-and-miss conglomeration of uniforms. The boys wear anything from a mere pair of trunks in hot weather to slickers and boots when the rain is falling and the going is muddy. For cold days, the approved outfit consists (skin outward) of a suit of long underwear, a pair of trunks, two or three sleeveless running shirts and a sweat-jersey. Ankles are wrapped in everything from bicycle tape to sections of inner tubes. As for shoes, they wear anything and everything.

But if the field is crazy-quilted, the organization of Cash and Carry's caravan is not. Everything runs like clockwork. Hotel reservations are made one day ahead by an advance man. Theaters are leased for the show. Parking space for the 80-odd machines is rented and garages are tipped off to take care of the overhauling of the motors in Pyle's big buses and crimson-painted patrol car. These cars are inspected nightly.

SHOW NOT BAD

The show itself, the Cross Country Follies, never will play to $8.80 houses, but it is not as bad as you might imagine. There is no hoochy-koochy. The chorus girlies are a pretty fair lot, the comedians get a laugh or two during the performance and Miss Claire Stone can sing well enough to keep the boys in the gallery from throwing things.

And maybe you think the folks aren't going for the entire show. They lay two-bits on the line for the programs. They spend a buck to see the Follies, which is given thrice daily, one matinee and two evening performances being the schedule and besiege the runners, especially the better known ones, for autographs. Andy Payne, winner of the 1928 race, is chief of the patrol, and collects a goodly crowd when he makes his appearance on the street—that is, after the folks get to know who he is.

You almost have to buy a program if you wish to identify runners. Their cars, with the names of the contestants placarded over them, are kept out of town until the

PIE TRAYNOR HAS BEST DAY OF TRAINING

By Staff Correspondent.

MEMPHIS, April 12.—Pie Traynor yesterday played like one possessed. Both of his doubles would have made large dents in the left field fence of the Oakland Orchard and Pie fielded and ran as of yore. It was by far his best day since he left for training camp almost two months ago.

After the battle was over, Pie admitted he felt a little peculiar in the region of the sore spot, but he hastily added that he would be O. K. for the opener. Well, everybody hopes so, for the Pirates will need every star on the roster to compete against McCarthy's Thundering Cubs.

GRIMES UNIMPRESSIVE

Perhaps the Duke of Burleigh was saving himself for the big event, yet he was far from impressive against the Chicks. As a rule Grimes has fine control and he may have had it in his Memphis showing, but it may be that his accuracy was like that of the pitcher who had such good control he could always hit the enemy bats.

The Chicks gave Lloyd Waner a merry time. Nichaus and Hamilton hammering smashing drives out over the youngster's head, and Sprout can get over the ground like a greyhound.

Somebody ought to tell Doc Prothro and his Nervy Chicks that the Pirates defeated the Tigers and Yanks six times without tasting defeat. The Memphis boys generally make things very tough for the Freebooters. The first thing they know, the Pittsburghers will pull a "Harvard" and drop them from their schedule.

AMBRIDGE BACKS STEVE

It isn't right to print anybody's personal mail, and I hope Steve Swetonic will forgive me for tipping off the folks back home that Steve is in receipt of a letter from Pittsburgh to the effect that the good folks of Ambridge would take a block of 100 seats if they thought the smart North Sider would be on the mound in the home opener.

Swetonic, by the way, is the smartest recruit pitcher who has come to the Pirates in many a long day.

"That guy is a peach," said one of the Buccos, in discussing the native son. "Why, he is even trying to outsmart you in the batting sessions. If you get hold of one while he is throwing to the batters, you won't see the same kind of a pitch again for a long time. He goes all around the dial in search of your weakness and if you have any he certainly tunes in."

"I'm not timing the ball just right," said P. Waner last night. "I feel good every way, but my swing is off a bit, but it may return any day now." It would be quite a thing for the Pirates if Paul would hit his stride about 3 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon. As a matter of fact, the little slugger generally messes things up for the classy Cub right-handers. And Brother Lloyd is a pest to the Bruins, too.

HARGREAVES OR HEMSLEY TO CATCH

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 12.—Burleigh Grimes, spitball star of the mound, will face the Cubs Tuesday in the opening game of the season. Announcement to this effect was made this morning by Manager Donie Bush.

The other end of the Pittsburgh battery is not known at this time. Pilot Donie is not sure as between Charley Hargreaves and Rolly Hemsley and he may wait until the last day to decide on his receiver.

One of the outstanding hurlers in the sport last season, Grimes won 25 games for the Pirate cause, but his performances of last year did not win him the honor assignment for this season, although his 1928 brilliance, of course, was considered in the choice.

BURLEIGH BEST FOR JOB

Bush has five or six flingers ready to go to the mound, including Remy Kremer, who is in rare shape, but Donie is playing the percentage in chosing the Duke of Burleigh for the job.

"Indications point to a crowd on the playing field," observed Bush in elaborating on his opening day selection. "Grimes should have the percentage on Kremer under conditions of this kind," continued the manager. "We figure that there will be tendency to hit Burleigh's spitter into the ground. If Kremer were to pitch in the opener, the field spectators might work to our disadvantage. Ray throws a lot of fast balls that might result in long lofts for ground rule extra base hits, where on ordinary days these balls would be put out."

Any one of Bush's array of left-handers is ready to go to the mound, but Donie will ponder long before he starts a southpaw against the Bruins. Joe McCarthy's battle-front consists of seven or eight righthand batters, thus making a very bad set-up for a lefthander.

MEMPHIS 6-5 VICTOR

Grimes was used against the Memphis Club yesterday with the idea of priming him for the ordeal of Tuesday. The idea was fine, but Burleigh didn't measure up to the task in his seven rounds of flinging. The Chicks gave the veteran quite a pasting as they defeated the Buccos in the first contest of a four-game set. The diamond battle was hard fought, the score being 6 to 5.

Burleigh and his Pittsburgh pals found an earnest bunch of Class A leaguers as they swapped punches with the Chicks. The big leaguers started out as if they would make a walkaway of the thing, but a tall young pitcher named Joe Heving, brother of the catcher of the same name, walked to the hill in the fourth and from that period on the Pirates were just a ball club. He held them to four hits, and in the ninth with the tying and the winning markers on the sacks, and two out, he fanned Earl Sheely.

The contest was marked by the reappearance in the Pittsburgh lineup of Capt. Pie Traynor. Pie was the best looking player in the game, from an all around standpoint. Traynor cracked out a pair of doubles and featured afield; in fact he handled himself like the Pie of the past six or seven years since Swetonic worked the eighth inning against the Chicks and held them runless.

Al Nichaus, who did a short trick for the Buccos a few years back, was a big part of the Memphis attack against the Pirates. Nichaus connected for a double and a single as he shared in the home offensive. Al is slated to play the first bag for the Chicks, he having been purchased recently from Mobile.

Allington and Hamilton, a pair of hefty clouters, worked under the

BANTAMS SET FOR FIGHT

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—Eligio Sardinias and Angelo Geraci—otherwise Kid Chocolate and Bushy Graham—hope to shed a little light on the much-muddled bantamweight situation tonight. They clash at Jess McMahon's New York Coliseum in a 15-round bout which should see one or the other eliminated from the bantamweight picture.

Indications are that neither will attempt to make the class limit of 118 pounds, but there seems little reason to doubt that both could get down to it if necessary.

Chocolate, undefeated in his short career, rules the betting favorite at 7 to 5, but the experts almost to a man, expect the Cuban Negro to find Graham the toughest man he has ever met.

Graham, who hails from Utica, N. Y., has been rated at or near the top of the bantamweight heap for more than two years.

Three Knockouts Feature Shrine Show

126-pound class—Red Hartley, North Side A. C., won from Sylvester Pastorious, Pittsburgh Lyceum, 4 rounds; referee's decision. John Sheplak, Hogan A. C., won from Scott Delo, Verona, 3 rounds; judges' decision.

ST. JOHN'S NINE TO BE FAST TEAM

By TOM BIRKS.

"The pennant of the City League will again fly in the Liberty Avenue district this year"—that was the wise crack of Bill McGrady of the St. John's team, "but instead of flying at Dean Field with the Liberty Milk name printed on it, it will float at Sullivan field."

Bill Mattox

This was McGrady's answer regarding the makeup of the Lawrenceville club for the City League race this summer. A general reorganization has taken place in the makeup of the officials of the St. John's club. Thomas P. Mooney is the new president, and Mooney, collaborating with Ray Kennedy, the secretary, and Manager McGrady have decided that the fans patronizing St. John's club wants a winner, and a winner is going to be had. This fellow Mooney left the impression of being a go-getter, so things are going to move fast around Sullivan field early in May.

NEW TALENT

Much new talent has been gathered together, many of the boys coming with great reputations. Wandrisco and Murphy will take care of the catching duties, with Harabaugh, a promising youngster, kept in reserve. The pitching staff will include Scannell and Rosemyer, holdovers from last season, and when in shape Rosemyer is a tough twirler to beat. In the newcomers, McGrady expects a lot from Max Schell. Other managers were trying to line up the former Millvale star.

Lefty Davidson, of Oakland, Rall and Degio will round out the staff with Earl Fritz trying to stage a comeback.

Much is being written regarding this fellow Schneider, who will play first base. This lad can do everything that a first baseman should do, and do it right. He bats and fields left-handed. Wallace and Mattox will fight it out for the Keystone sack assignment. Both are good fielders, so the hitting ability will carry the job.

The shortstop position will be capably taken care of by Lucky Cuptett, who flashed a lot of stuff with Bill Goehring up at West Newton. Cuptett is some sweet fielder.

Fans out Lawrenceville way feel that the best fielding third baseman in the league is on the St. John's roster. We refer to Boo Keiffer. Quite a number of the leading umpires of the district tell the writer of this boys' scooping up of ticketed extra base hits with the ability of a big leaguer.

Regis Cusiak will be the utility man for McGrady's infield. He can play any place.

OUTFIELD PROBLEM

McGrady's biggest problem will be the outfield. O'Toole and Hibbard from last year can make any sandlot team, and Brown, who last season was the hardest-hitting infielder in the City League, will fight for an outfield berth.

Greisser, a Garfield boy, comes with a good reputation as a flychaser and hitter of no mean ability. Harry Gollicher also played in the infield last season, but wants to go into the outer garden to do his stuff this year.

And that is the present makeup of the St. John's City League title aspirants. Practice sessions will be held Saturday and Sunday afternoons, so there will be no excuse for the men not being in shape when the play ball cry is heard.

Mooney, Kennedy and McGrady say "watch St. John's." The Saints led the loop for many weeks in the first half of the City League fight last season. The Lawrenceville aggregation can be classed as fast starters.

This is the second article on the makeup of City League teams. The next will be Monday.

Memphis banner and enacted some Babe Ruth stuff to give the Chicks their victory. The leftfielder slammed the ball over the distant right field fence for one of the Memphis tallies and Hamilton, facing Grimes in the seventh with the score tied, two on base and two out, drove a smashing three-bagger to the centerfield fence. The two tallies decided the game.

Remy Kremer is slated to face the Chicks this afternoon in the second game of the series.

Billy Wallace Wins Over Tommy Grogan

DETROIT, April 12.—(AP.)—Billy Wallace, Cleveland lightweight, bounded back into the front rank of contenders for a shot at Sammy Mandell's title last night by decisively outpointing Tommy Grogan, the Omaha walloper, in an exciting 10-round battle. Wallace, by superior boxing, earned six of the rounds with three going to Grogan and one even.

program sellers have been given an opportunity to circulate through the crowds.

A bulletin board is stuck up in some prominent spot, and when the runners near town, their numbers, not names, are posted, with their approximate distances from town. You need a program to find out who is who.

According to information I gleaned while spending three days with the outfit, Cash and Carry collected better than $18,000 in entrance fees before the boys shoved off. He gets an average guarantee of $750 from each town he routes his bunioncers through, and, with 66 stops on the list, figures to collect something like $50,000 in that way. The show pays for itself and from the sale of the programs comes enough to pay for the upkeep on the motors, hotel expenses and incidentals.

And to think that some folks take up safe-cracking for a living.

Racer Capable of 400 Mi. per Designed

LONDON, April 12.—(AP.)—C. Amhurst Villiers, young British engineer, is reported to have completed the design of a motor car which he will take to Daytona in 1931 with a guaranteed speed of 300 miles an hour and a theoretically maximum speed of 400 miles.

For the first time wireless will be used for steering, but the details of this were kept secret. The engines will have 3,000 horsepower and the car will be fitted with eight wheels. Prominent British financiers are providing the money.

CHERBOURG, France, April 12.—(AP.)—Maj. H. O. D. Segrave, noted British speed motorist, told the Associated Press on his arrival here today that his announced retirement from racing was only on the condition that no one bettered his record of 231 miles an hour, established at Daytona Beach in March.

he fails to come through. The pitching staff has been the least worry of the club heads this spring, and no other club in the majors can present such a great number of good hurlers.

Even with Meine not reporting and Erickson slated to be dropped the Pirates have the big show's longest list of capable flingers in Kremer, Grimes, Dawson, Petty, Fussell, Hill, French, Brame and Swetonic. It means practically that Manager Bush will be able to use first-string men for relief duty.

Earl Sande

EARL SANDE may not be successful in his present attempted comeback as a jockey, which is confined to riding his own entries, but if he finds that he can't make the weight or get the old results he is likely to admit it and deal fairly with the racing public in a turf detail that has been marred by a lot of poor sportsmanship on the part of other riders. That is the matter of a jockey's being overweight. It often happens that a rider is overweight in a ride, but the public knows nothing about it, with the result that it goes ahead and bets on that rider's mount when the horse's chances have been killed by the extra poundage.

"NEVER wager on a race where the jockey is one ounce over weight" is the advice given by Phocion Howard, veteran race-track man, who is trying to induce the Illinois Turf Association and others to adopt a rule suggested by himself. This rule would put a heavy fine on every jockey appearing on the scales overweight and empower the stewards to put another rider on the horse.

"The greatest menace to the American turf is the overweight blackboard," Howard is quoted. "It is not fair to the racing public to have a boy one or more pounds overweight in a race. This practice should be stopped, and can be, by turf officials who will adopt drastic rules. Few persons at a race track know that a rider carries overweight, and those who wager away from the track are entirely at sea."

THERE is hardly any doubt that the outstanding two bantamweights, unless you move Spider Pladner up to that class, will be in the ring at New York tonight when Kid Chocolate and Bushy Graham meet for 15 rounds, but the New York boxing commission refuses to recognize it as a championship bout. It is hard to understand the reason for such a stand unless the commission is taking it for the unsportsmanlike purpose of trying to keep a Negro boxer out of a championship.

Fandom is unwilling to believe the commission would stoop to such tactics, yet how can the following be explained? On May 23, last year, Corporal Izzy Schwartz, recognized by New York as the flyweight champion, was allowed to challenge Graham for the batamweight title. It was agreed that if Schwartz won he would be the holder of two titles, and the match was advertised as a championship affair and scheduled at the title distance of 15 rounds.

Bushy Graham

IF Graham was bantamweight champion in the eyes of the New York commission at that time, why isn't he champion now in the sight of the same body in meeting Chocolate, and why wouldn't Chocolate be entitled to recognition as champion after making the weight and beating him? And why did the commission let the match be arranged for the title route of 15 rounds and later declare it a non-championship affair? As a result of the new order of things, Graham decided to weigh in today at about 122 pounds and not try to make the bantam limit, but if Chocolate is victorious after making that limit of 118 pounds—and he looks from all angles like the probable winner—how can the commission rate any one else above him in that class? But they won't keep Chocolate out of a title for long provided he takes care of himself. If he isn't allowed to take the banatamweight title it's a good bet that he'll win the featherweight crown from Andre Routis as soon as he is given a chance to fight for it.

COMPARE

WE went to London because it is recognized as the authoritative source of men's style in shoes. And we went to Allen & Bridge because they are recognized as one of the best bespoke bootmakers in England, and we selected this style because it is worn by the best dressed men in London.

"Style Unabridged" means that the Regal Reproduction has every Style detail of the Original English Model—made by hand by Allen & Bridge.

This decorative Model is known in England as a Semi-Brogue. It has a punched and notched toe-cap, and this same decorative treatment runs around the vamp-line, outside counter and top.

The Regal Reproduction is an exact copy of this original style, even to the design of the tip center and the Waukenphast Wheel on the sole. The two models are identical in appearance from the invisible eyelets to the steel slugged heels.

Allen & Bridge describe the sole as an oak bark tan "middling substance", and that is what we use. The upper leather in Allen & Bridge's original is an Imported Calfskin tanned in Oisterwyk, Holland, and in the Regal Reproduction we use the same identical tannage.

But there is a difference. Allen & Bridge's shoe is made and sewn by hand. Our shoes are sewn by the same machine as practically all high-priced American shoes. In Allen & Bridge's shop only 4 men handle the shoe from the time it is cut until it is finished. In our factory, about 150 different persons perform some operation on a Regal shoe.

Our VOLUME makes this VALUE possible. WE MAKE ONE THOUSAND PAIR TO ALLEN & BRIDGE'S ONE PAIR.

STATE S. A. R. TITLE PLAY SEPT. 9

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

The state championship of the Pennsylvania society, Sons of the American Revolution, will be held at the Pittsburgh Field Club on Monday, September 9, it was decided at a meeting of the S. A. R. golf committee in the William Penn Hotel yesterday. Col. Franklin Blackstone, chairman, presided.

Watts Gunn

Meeting in conjunction with the state committee, the Pittsburgh Chapter of the society decided to hold one tournament a month through June, July and August, dates and places to be named later. It is expected, however, tournaments this year will be held at the Chartiers Heights Country Club, Butler Country Club, and either Edgewood or Shannopin by that chapter.

Col. Blackstone also announced that the Ambridge, McKeesport and Washington chapters also planned on staging several tournaments.

Handicap ratings, to be used in accordance with the new Pennsylvania State Golf Association's system, will be in vogue during S. A. R. tournaments this year.

"HERE'S HOW, WATTS"

Buddy Overend, president of the club, happened to be standing alongside of a dark-haired, good-looking boy, waiting for the quartet to tee off.

One of the young men in the clubhouse came rushing out—

"I hear Watts Gunn is going to play here today—" Overend shut him off with—"Oh, yes. Watts is out about the fourth hole now."

In the foursome starting were three Field Club members, and a fourth, introduced as a young banker who hadn't played much golf, but who was eager to learn the game. So he was kindly given two bisques on each nine in order to balance things.

The new man hooked rather badly on the first and second holes—and far worse on the third.

"See here," one of his opponents is reported to have said, "you don't have to hook like that. If you'll take my advice and hold your club this way, and stand a bit around this way, you'll cure it."

And so after the game was over, and the visiting banker had scored his 76, and was 18 up on his opponents, or thereabouts, said young dark-haired chap was properly introduced to his friendly advisor, who did not know he had given advice and four bisques—to Watts Gunn.

Should the handle of the brassie be the same length as that of the driver?

Answered By

JOHNNY FARRELL,

Winner of Eastern, Metropolitan Wheeling, Massachusetts, Philadelphia, Chicago and Pennsylvania Open Championships, 1927; La Gorce Open, 1928; Tied for Bahamas Open, 1928; National Open, 1928.

The brassie and the driver should be of the same length. In fact, they should be as nearly alike as possible, with the exception of the loft of the brassie, which of course is greater.

Some people have an idea that because the ball is teed for the driver and not for the brassie, the length of these two clubs should be different. This, however, is far from correct. The loft of the club and the player's eye, not the length of the club's shaft, takes care of the teeing of the ball.

CIVIC LEADERS MAY FINANCE JOHNNIES

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 12.—Business interests of Johnstown, including the Chamber of Commerce, are considering the advisability of assuming charge of the Johnstown franchise for the coming season in the Middle Atlantic Baseball League. The Johnstown franchise was sold 10 days ago to Victor G. Rost, of this city, by Harry J. Meehan and John C. Cosgrove, local coal operators, and it now develops that while Rost did not pay for the transfer of the franchise, he agreed to assume all outstanding obligations against the club.

A campaign for funds was launched by the new club owner, and this method of procedure failed, whereupon Rost appealed to the business men of the city. They in turn consulted the Chamber of Commerce. The latter organization has appointed a committee of three reputable citizens of this city to investigate the prospects of the baseball club, and to ascertain the amount of outstanding obligations against the local franchise.

TOMMY MILTON, RODGERS BOX

Schwartz, claimant of the world flyweight title, twice, and also holds victories over Henny Catena, Johnny Breslin, Wee Willie Woods, Al Felder and Wilbur Cohen, among others. He is a clever boxer, but not much of a puncher.

The bout will mark Rodgers' first appearance here since he boxed Johnny Dunn in the same ring prior to going to New York to box Sammy Tisch in Madison Square Garden.

Kid Crutchfield, veteran Negro light-heavyweight of the Hill, returns to the ring against Charley Brodd, McKeesport Swede, in the semi-final of the Moose Temple show. Sammy Sunshine, a Negro lightweight, of Annapolis, Md., who also dropped into Pittsburgh seeking action and has been working out with Jack Zivic and others in Flynn's gym, boxes Jess Hoak, of McKeesport, in the second bout, and Sammy Paris, of the Hill, and Young Jacobs, of Canonsburg, will meet in the opener.

CHAMPIONS IN ACTION

Many of the big shots in the fistic ranks are scheduled to do their stuff tonight. Three of them are world titleholders. Joe Dundee, welterweight champion is matched against Al Mello in Boston, Sammy Mandell, the lightweight champion, takes on Benny Duke, a hometown pride, at Grand Rapids, Mich., and Corp. Izzy Schwartz, generally recognized as the flyweight champion, battles Boy Wally, of Manilla, at San Francisco. Bushy Graham and Kid Chocolate mix over the 12-round route in the new Coliseum in New York in a bout that easily might be billed for the vacant bantamweight championship.

Jack Zivic, former local welterweight championship contender, who has been on the sidelines since last June, breaks back into the sport against Dick Ramies, of California, at Canton, O., tonight, and Tug Phillips, formerly of Fayette City, but now of Erie, boxes Johnny O'Keefe, of Columbus, at Erie. Tony DeBolt and Dan Bailey, heavyweights, box in another bout on this card.

Johnny Erickson faces Vidal Gregorio and Lou Moscowitz meets Irish Bobby Brady in 10-round preliminaries to the Chocolate-Graham bout in New York tonight. Chocolate is almost a 2-to-1 favorite to beat the bounding Bushy. The Coliseum seats 18,500, which is more than Madison Square Garden can accommodate, and the prices range from $1 to $5.

One for the book is old Young Montreal's comeback victory over Bud Taylor at Providence Wednesday night. Montreal has been out of the picture completely, but he was spoiling for revenge against Taylor, who stopped him three years ago for the only knockout defeat of his career, and he accomplished his purpose.

CREELEY TO RETURN

Tommy Creeley, former local featherweight, who now makes his headquarters in Cincinnati, will be a visitor in Pittsburgh Sunday with his middleweight boxer, Johnny Mason, of Scranton, with whom he will be en route to Wilkes-Barre, Pa., for a bout with Tiger Jack Payne, Tuesday night. Mason will work out in Flynn's gymnasium in the afternoon while Creeley will visit with relatives. Creeley has not been here since he boxed Young Goldie in the Penn avenue power house 13 years ago.

Jack DeMave, New Jersey's Golden Boy heavyweight, who boxes Ike McFowler, Negro, of Johnstown, in the 10-round main bout in Motor Square Garden Monday night, first attracted attention some five years ago, when he knocked out Bob Lawson, Negro stablemate of the late Tiger Flowers, in the first round of a bout at Coney Island. Since then he has been tossed into the ring with most of the leading heavies, including Jack Sharkey, Tom Heeney, Jim Maloney and Jack Renault, and has given all of them plenty of competition. He recently returned to the ring following a layoff and fought a draw with Bud Gorman and the bout here will be the second of his new campaign. He will arrive Sunday morning and work out in the Motor Square gym that afternoon.

M'TIERNAN OFF CARD

Injuries to two of the principals have caused an almost complete revamping of the Motor Square preliminary card for Monday night. Stanley Simmons, the light-heavyweight, who was to box in the semi-final, has a bad hand and is off the card, a substitute bout between Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, and Phil Scello, of McKeesport being booked to take the place of this event. Buck McTiernan's injured left fist has been respained in training and for the second week he has had to cancel an engagement with Allen Beatty, of McKeesport. Charley Wolff, of Columbus, has been signed to take his place. Tarzan Joe Poole and Bob Krape will meet in a four-round preliminary and there will be one other bout over this route.

Jules Beck denies that he has been signed as matchmaker of the Meyers Bowl, in North Braddock, but says negotiations are under way to have him take the position.

Jim McGirr, McKeesport promoter, has signed Howard Mayberry, of Donora, and Tommy Paul, of Buffalo, to box the 10-round main bout of his show next Thursday night.

ASK COUNTY AID IN RIVER-RAIL TERMINALS

A special committee of City Council and representatives of river navigation interests today are preparing to ask the commissioners of Allegheny County to join Pittsburgh in giving financial support to the proposed river and rail terminal projects.

Pledges of the city's continued support were made by Council yesterday to representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, Pittsburgh Coal Exchange and local rail carriers when they appeared at a hearing to urge a prompt beginning on the river and rail terminal.

Robert Garland, John S. Herron, Harry A. Little, P. J. McArdle and Daniel Winters were appointed by President James F. Malone to represent Council in the negotiations with the county commissioners.

The other principals will name their committee in the near future.

PLAN CELEBRATION

In addition to urging financial cooperation in the terminal project, the two committees also will try to enlist the county's support in a fitting program for the celebration next October of the dedication of the Ohio River for year-around navigation.

W. S. Linderman, who represented the Chamber of Commerce, obtained his colleagues' concurrence in asking Garland, chairman of the meeting, to appoint a committee from the river interests. Garland demurred by explaining he believed the various groups should select their own emissaries.

Besides Linderman, the speakers included Alex W. Dann, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange; Capt. W. B. Rodgers and C. C. Bunton, representing river navigation interests; John F. Casey, of the Chamber of Commerce; J. B. Nessle, of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Company, and E. K. Morse, consulting engineer.

PREFER POINT SITE

A site near the headwaters of the Ohio River in the vicinity of Manchester Bridge seemed preferred by practically all interested parties for the first unit in the terminal program. The minimum cost of the unit was estimated at $500,000.

That site, it was pointed out, would be accessible to most of the railroads entering Pittsburgh and, in addition, would have features especially adapted to trucking activities.

Garland explained that the city has prepared tentative drawings for the first unit and has appropriated $250,000 toward the cost of the terminal. He said Council was ready to increase the appropriation within the limits of the city's legal borrowing margin.

The Department of Public Works, Garland said, is negotiating for land at the Manchester Bridge site, either by purchase or by long term leases.

WOULD MAKE SHOWING

Garland urged the Council committee and the other principals to speed negotiations with the county commissioners so that substantial progress in the construction program would be evident to visitors here during the celebration next October of the dedication of the Ohio River as a year-round navigable stream.

Dann said this community was far behind in opportunities for taking advantage of year-round navigation. He declared the local rivers were the greatest natural resources the community enjoyed and that if the terminal were built it would be liberally patronized, to the distinct advantage of rail and truck carriers as well as to river craft. The public would be benefited in reduced hauling costs, he said.

Linderman reviewed a trip made by members of the Chamber of Commerce to Cincinnati, Louisville, Memphis, St. Louis and New Orleans, and told of the river terminal activities in those cities.

He implied that the proposed terminals here would parallel the activities in those other cities and would be a fitting contribution to the proposed celebration.

Linderman said the event would be the biggest opportunity ever afforded Pittsburgh and that the benefits would be experienced in territory within a radius of 150 miles of Pittsburgh, due to the enormous increase in freight tonnage.

Bunton spoke in favor of a terminal site on the Monongahela River at Hays Station, but Capt. Rodgers thought it less desirable because boats would have to pass through locks that now are used to capacity.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Climb — Local Stock Quotations

STOCKS CLIMB DESPITE SALES FOR PROFIT

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—Definite signs of easing credit conditions, coupled with a continuance of favorable trade news, furnished the background for a broad advance in prices in today's stock market. Despite rather heavy week-end heavy profit taking and sporadic bear selling of some of the speculative issues, prices of a long list of stocks were pushed up 1 to nearly 9 points, with at least a dozen moving into new high ground for the year.

Call money renewed at 9 per cent and then dropped to 8 as banks, which have been accumulating funds in anticipation of the heavy mid-month payments next Monday, seized an opportunity to employ these funds at highly profitable rates over the week-end. Time money, which has been on a flat 9 per cent basis for about two weeks, also eased, the long maturities being offered at 8½ per cent. While this is still a stiff charge to pay on speculative commitments, Wall Street seemed more interested in the trend than in the rate itself.

LOAN DECLINE BIG

The decline of $135,000,000 in brokers' loans, bringing the total down $386,000,000 below the record high established a few weeks ago, and the increase from $1 to $1.9 per cent in the New York Federal Reserve Bank ratio, and from 71.5 to 73.8 per cent for the system as a whole, also helped to revive bullish confidence.

Directors of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank, meeting today, followed the action of the New York directors yesterday in making no change in the 5 per cent rediscount rate.

Rails were among the few important groups which failed to participate extensively in the upturn. Recent sluggishness of these issues is attributed to the growing speculative belief that the forthcoming O'Fallon case decision by the United States Supreme Court might not definitely settle the troublesome valuation and rate problem.

OILS IN DEMAND

Extension of gasoline price advances brought fresh buying into the oil shares, but the early gains were held to a point or two. U. S. Steel common was again in the fore front of the advance, touching a new high on the current upswing. Radio Corporation common again sold close to par after dropping sharply when weakness cropped out in some of the other Radio issues earlier in the week.

New high records for the year were established by a variety of issues, including American Can, Burroughs Adding Machine, Glidden Company, Stromberg Carburetor, Texas Gulf Sulphur, United Aircraft, and Yellow Truck & Coach.

Speculative orders increased when call money went down to 7 per cent in the afternoon, the oils reaping considerable benefit from the new buying. The Standard Oil group anad the Pan-Americans made the best showing. Specialties like Du Pont, Real Silk Hosiery, International Comobustion Engineering, Allied Chemical and Hershey Chocolate were up 3 to 5 points. United Aircraft rose 8 points. The closing was strong. Sales approximated 4,600,000 shares.

CHICAGO BOARD

HICAGO, April 12—Active buy- that was associated with apnt likelihood of prompt action at Washington regarding farm relief gave a decided lift to grain values late today. Buying was ascribed largely to houses with Eastern connections. Offerings of wheat future deliveries were quickly absorbed and previous sellers turned to the buying side of the market. A sudden late advance of wheat forced into execution a number of standing orders which bears had placed to stop losses at various fixed limits.

Wheat closed firm, 1¼ to 1⅝c net higher; corn unchanged to 1½ to 1⅝c up; oats ⅜ to ⅝c advanced, and provisions varying from 20c decline to a rise of 10c.

For a while today, wheat traders here practically ignored the fact that Liverpool wheat quotations showed a setback, whereas an advance had been looked for. One reason was an authorative forecast circulated that world import requirements of wheat for the next four months were 249,000,000 bushels, and would require shipments averaging hereafter 14,500,000 bushels a week. There were also Canadian advices at hand that one of the largest grain fleets ever known was waiting to convey Canadian wheat to the seaboard.

Selling of wheat future deliveries in Chicago enlarged noticeably today, however, after the Liverpool market had closed, with no upturn noted in prices abroad. Instead, reports were being circulated that southern hemisphere countries could be counted upon to supply 9,000,000 bushels weekly, a total of considerably more than half of estimated world needs. Under such circumstances, and with a pause apparent in export demand for wheat from North America, prices here underwent setbacks.

FOLLANSBEE'S EARNINGS GROW

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE first quarter of 1928 was exceptionally prosperous for the Follansbee Brothers Company. After operating close to capacity for virtually all of 1928, the company has continued this high rate through the new year.

January and February were among the best months in the company's history and March, with final figures still incomplete, showed profits fully as good or better. No signs of any let-down in volume are apparent this month and orders on the books indicate that the second quarter will also be highly satisfactory.

Almost uninterrupted growth in earnings has been shown over the last five years. Net profit after all charges in 1928 was $1,535,732, or $7.53 a share on the 180,000 shares of common stock after deducting dividends on the $3,000,000 of 6 per cent preferred. This compared with $3.81 a share in 1927, $4.27 in 1926, $3.90 in 1925 and $2.45 in 1924.

IMPROVEMENTS made to plants in recent years have enabled the company to make good progress in decreasing costs. This, together with exceptional demand, contributed to the remarkable showing in 1928.

Additional plant improvements may be expected to contribute further to growth in earnings in the future. About May 1 a new mill at the Toronto (O.) plant will be placed in operation, which will make possible the rolling of sheets up to 66 inches in width. Plans are now being made for other improvements, chief of which will be the electrification of some of the mills, which will further increase efficiency.

FOLLANSBEE'S tonnage does not bulk large in comparison with the leading companies in the steel industry, but its position is unique, due to the exceptional quality of its products. Through a process by which ingots are broken down by forging instead of rolling, exceptional properties are obtained in the finished sheets and tin plate. These products are in demand by the automobile makers and other industries which require sheets able to stand exceptionally deep drawing.

The company fabricates a large part of its production of sheets and tin plate into milk cans, stove pipe, elbows, and other articles. A remarkably strong cash position is enjoyed. Current assets on December 31, 1928, were six times current liabilities.

Against working capital of $5,272,013, physical properties valued at $9,003,955 after depreciation and total assets of $15,047,544, the funded debt totaled only $3,250,000. Surplus amounted to $3,748,193.

THE Koppers Company completely dominated the by-product coke oven construction field last year. Although it has always been the largest builder of equipment of this kind, during 1928 all of the new installations placed in operation or under construction were of Koppers design.

The year did not come up to the volume of some of the previous years since there were few large steel mill installations, but it was fairly satisfactory when the fact that the steel industry has been well supplied is taken into consideration. A total of 671 ovens with an aggregate annual capacity for coking over 5,600,000 tons of coal were placed in operation or under construction.

BY FAR the greatest number of installations were for plants designed to supply gas to public utilities and to sell the coke on the open market. The largest installation was 90 ovens for the Brooklyn Union Gas Company. The Philadelphia Coke Company was supplied with the second largest plant consisting of 74 ovens.

The biggest steel mill installation was 70 ovens for the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company at South Chicago. No plants were under construction in the vicinity of Pittsburgh last year, but work is now going on at the Neville Island plant of the Davison Coke and Iron Company.

At present the Koppers Company has one of the largest order books in its history. The number of by-product coke plant installations in the present year will exceed those built in 1928 by a very large margin.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—The curb market moved irregularly higher today, with some of the volatile issues displaying considerable buoyancy, and utilities reflecting continued accumulation.

Promise of some improvement in the credit situation, as seen in the shading of the time money rate for longer maturities after a fortnight of extreme stringency, strengthened market sentiment. Call money again renewed at 9 per cent, but as yesterday, was available in the outside market at 8 by midday.

The Ford of Canada issues rallied in their spectacular manner, the new "B" stock soaring 16 points to 133 by early afternoon, and the old stock mounting 50 points to 1110. Arcturus Tube continued its upward climb, selling at a record price of 48, up 8 points. Deere & Co. mounted 5 points, and a number of other specialties chalked up gains of 2 to 5 points. Aviation stocks were strong, with the new Wright stock gaining a couple of points.

Utilities continued to gain ground, accompanied by reports that a number of large holding companies were rounding up their investments. American Gas and Electric gained 3 points and Electric Bond and Share, Electric Investors and United Gas Improvement were bought at higher levels. Oil stocks reflected hardening gasoline prices, Humble, Gulf and Imperial mounting 2 points or so. In the mines, Newmont advanced over 3 points, and Noranda sought higher levels.

The upturn was by no means uniform, as bulges tended to bring out profit taking, and some of the recent favorites were under the pressure of realizing, such as American Rolling Mill, which sold off about 3 points during the morning.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

TWO LINE UP 25 IN BANK; FLEE WITH $10,000

CHICAGO, April 12.—(AP.)—Lining up 25 customers and employes, two bandits today forced the cashier of the Lansing State Bank to carry out two bags of money to a waiting automobile and accompany them a short distance.

Officials of the bank, which is on the outskirts of Chicago near the Indiana state line, said first estimates put the loss at $10,000.

Without masks the men entered the bank about 9:30 a. m.

"Where's the boss," one asked E. J. Frank, an employe.

Frank pointed to the directors' room where Henry F. W. Schultz, president, and Walter J. Winterness, cashier, were in conference. The man entered the room and told the officers they would be killed if they came out.

In the meantime his accomplice herded every one into a far corner. Winterness was called out, told to put the money in the cages into sacks and accompany the robbers. After several blocks, seeing no one was following them, the bandits released the cashier and headed west toward Homewood.

The robbers were armed with sawed off shotguns and revolvers.

RUM SCANDALS ROCK BORDER

DETROIT, April 12.—(AP.)—Accused of having utilized his position as harbormaster and head of the police staff on Belle Isle to aid rum runners in transportation of liquor from Canada to the United States, Capt. Joseph A. Burkheiser was suspended yesterday. Police Commissioner William P. Rutledge, declaring "this will prove to be the worst scandal in the history of the department," added that "the liquor affair is only a small part of what has been going on" on Belle Isle and the river.

As head of the police staff on Belle Isle, Burkheiser occupied free living quarters there. It is alleged that he stored for his own use on the island and later transported to Detroit in department automobiles part of a seized liquor cargo. Another of the charges relates that late in 1927 Burkheiser assigned two patrolmen of the harbormaster's division to convoy a load of liquor from the Canadian to the American shore and that the officers were ordered to stand by the boatload of liquor to prevent its seizure by state or Federal officers. Six other charges were substantially the same and dated back to 1925.

The Detroit News yesterday published a description and a picture of the landing of liquor by rum runners at a dock in the downtown district only four blocks from headquarters of the United States customs border patrol. The picture was taken by a camera man hidden in the tower of a building nearby. It showed men unloading a speedboat and placing the cargo in waiting automobiles.

The rummers, the paper asserted, even have gone to the extent of employing their own "traffic officer" to insure a clear right of way for their liquor-laden automobiles.

U. S. TO PROBE FRAT DRINKING

RICHMOND, Va., April 12.—(INS.)—Attorney General John R. Saunders, state director of prohibition, today dispatched E. H. Gibson, one of his assistants, to Charlottesville to investigate reports of fraternity house drinking at the University of Virginia.

Col. Saunders cited newspaper stories quoting C. E. Cuddy, president of the Delta Tau Delta chapter, as admitting that liquor was openly drunk in the Delt House, and said this would constitute grounds for criminal action unless it could be shown that the liquor was bought before the state went dry.

"It is hardly conceivable," said the attorney general, "that liquor could be kept that long in a college fraternity house."

Gen. Primo de Rivera Plans American Visit

MADRID, April 12.—Gen. Primo de Rivera, president of the Council of Ministers, hopes to visit the United States when he is released from the cares of government in Spain. Spain's benevolent dictator gave this information to International News Service today in an exclusive interview at the presidential palace.

Gen. Primo de Rivera is tremendously interested in America. But his contemplated visit is not only for study and sight seeing. He believes that many of the difficulties now hampering trade relations between the two counrites can be removed if he could meet American leaders and officials and explain personally the conditions in Spain.

HIJACKER KILLS 2 RACKETEERS

DETROIT, April 12.—(AP.)—Two Detroit racketeers started out, apparently unarmed, to "get" the man who hijacked their blind pig at 4 a. m. today, and were slain by the hijacker two hours later.

The dead men are Earl Remington, 35, and Gordon Teter, 30. Both have criminal records. Teter was free on $7,500 bond from Chicago where he was indicted several months ago on a charge of counterfeiting, and Remington has a Detroit police record.

Remington and Teter found the gunman, whom they apparently accused of hijacking their blind pig of $400, in a cabaret at 5:30 a. m. An argument followed and finally one of the men suggested that they "settle it in the street."

'WHITE HOUSE' BILL MOVES

HARRISBURG, April 12.—(AP.)—The movement to have the summer White House for the President of the United States established in Pennsylvania was further advanced yesterday when the House approved the Shelley bill, providing for a grant of 1,000 acres to the federal government for this purpose. The bill now goes to the senate for its approval.

Early in the session, Representative Witherspoon fathered a resolution inviting Congress to consider the Blue Ridge mountains in Franklin county as a possible site. Since then several citizens' committees have been at work in an effort to induce selection of a Pennsylvania site.

Smooth sailing for the amended voting machine was forecast by administration forces last night after Senator William H. Clark of Chester, denied that he was leading a movement for rejection of the instruction amendment inserted at the suggestion of the governor in the House. The amendment requires the curtain of the machine to be open while instruction in its use is being given. The bill has been set for final vote in the House on Monday night.

Why a Banking Revolution Is Under Way in America.

By B. C. FORBES

"A P. GIANNINI was ahead of us all," confessed a New York banker this week. "There is not enough profit in commercial banking. The money is in the other end of the business—in financing, in distributing securities, in handling investments. Mr. Giannini once observed to me, 'The bank of tomorrow is going to be a sort of department store, giving the people anything and everything they may want in the way of banking, investment and trust service.'

"Giannini was the first to do on a striking scale what we have since seen all over the country. He reached out for many branches and acquired an interest in other important banks. He had the investment trust idea when he organized his huge Bancitaly Corporation. He saw the advantage of controlling two great financial institutions, one in New York and the other in California, and of having other feeder institutions.

"Instead of going through the necessarily long process of building up a huge investment-distributing organization of his own, he made his alliance with Blair & Co., giving him a ready made machine of vast ramifications."

THEN he added:

"Al Wiggin's acquisition of the American Express Company is very much along the lines of Giannini's ideas. This gives the Chase Bank a tremendous network of offices and outlets here and abroad. It will add greatly to the importance—and profits—of the Chase Securities Company. Wiggin now will have a department store bank."

TURNING to the National City Bank's recent coup, this banker observed:

"Charlie Mitchell was smart enough to foresee the banking revolution now under way. In fact, the National City was the first bank to build up its own investment-distributing machine on a colossal scale. No other bank even today has an adjunct of comparable magnitude to the National City Company; it retails more securities than any other concern of the kind in the world. The City Bank, too, has been covering the world—as well as Brooklyn and New York—with branches. There is money in handling trusts; so Mitchell has acquired the fine old Farmers Loan and Trust Company.

"Bonds having become difficult to sell since stocks jumped into such favor, the National City Company promptly took to handling stock issues.

"In all this you see the department store idea of banking."

IN almost every important city leading bankers are making their activities conform to the revolution now swiftly under way. Two developments are most common. The organization of a security company by banks; and the merging of banks with trust companies.

The National Bank of Commerce has been taken over by the Guaranty Trust Company, of New York—the most conspicuous example of all. Chicago's Continental National Bank has taken over the Illinois Merchants Trust. What was formerly the Irving National Bank, after various mergers, is now the Irving Trust Company with assets approaching a billion. The Hanover National Bank of New York has just been absorbed by the Central Union Trust. Chicago's First National has annexed the Union Trust Company. Los Angeles has had a $600,000,000 National Bank and Trust Company consolidation. Only the other day the staunch century-old Chemical National Bank of New York acquired the United States Mortgage and Trust Company.

Similar developments have occurred recently in Philadelphia, Cleveland, St. Louis, San Francisco, Boston, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, San Antonio, Seattle, Detroit—virtually everywhere.

THERE are two fundamental reasons for this banking revolution, one generally recognized, the other not generally recognized.

First, the creation of enormous industrial and other business organizations call for the creation of correspondingly enormous banking institutions.

But much of what has now occurred is really due to America's transition from a borrowing to a lending nation. Before the war American industry and commerce depended upon banks for funds. Now they go direct to industries for money instead of being borrowers, and a great many business organizations are lenders. In fact, non-banking lenders are today supplying Wall street with more billions of call loans than are New York and all other banks combined.

Not only so, but the rank and file of Americans have become investors. Hence the decline of commercial borrowing and commercial banking, and the readjustment of our progressive banking institutions so as to enter the lucrative investment-selling field. Our unparalleled increase in wealth also explains the rapid expansion of the trust end of the banking business.

SUCCESS in modern banking, or in any line of endeavor, is not won by standing still.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Lower Money Spurs Market

Call money dropped back to 7 per cent from a 9 per cent renewal rate today and stimulated a general advance in which the oils and many of the key industrials participated prominently. The opening was strong this morning, but it was apparent the trading element was a little chary of credit conditions and did not want to be caught napping on the long side. Shorts have been getting out for two days, but those favoring the upside have been somewhat hesitant in taking a definite stand. Some of the more aggressive bulls, those handling the big lines of the high priced stocks, are said to have been re-purchasing since yesterday morning, but the public following has not yet been stimulated to the point where anything like the previous bullish demonstrations are possible. Some pool operations have been resumed and it is reported that a strong clique has started quiet r-accumulation of Anaconda. The motors have been well supported the past few days, on expectation of expanded foreign business making up for any let-down in the domestic market. The retail auto field is a little nervous over "sales resistance" noted recently, but some observers believe this is merely a hesitancy on the part of buyers similar in character to the hesitancy noted among the bull traders in the stock market. A clearing up of the credit situation will probably restore the confidence of the auto sales departments just as traders who have been able to weather the stock market storm will doubtless develop more courage when they feel sure the sand-bagging campaign of the Federal Reserve has ended.

Gold Dust-Loose Wiles.

Gold Dust reached the best levels of the current recovery on buying based on the expectation of additional acquisitions that would expand the company's lines with material addition to overhead. Reports were current of a merger between Loose Wiles and Postum, but interests in touch with the situation felt that Loose Wiles was more likely to make an arrangement with Gold Dust. Both Loose Wiles and Gold Dust are benefitting from favorable conditions in the merchandising line, and quiet accumulation of both stocks recently has been actuated on belief that the reaction from their year's highs has made them attractive from an earning standpoint.

Union Oil Earning Dividend.

It is probable that first quarter results for most oil units exceeded the same quarter of last year. Union Oil Company of California the only major oil company so far to report first quarter earnings, showed 67 cents a share on 3,880,500 average number of shares outstanding during the quarter, against 66 cents on 3,791,924 shares in the same period of 1928, being affected by the severe cutting of gasoline prices in California. Despite this disruption of the price situation, the company more than earned its dividend of 50 cents for the quarter.

Liberty Statue Has One Night Of Darkness

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP.)—The torch of Miss Liberty, famous goddess on Bendoes Island, shone again last night after being unlighted all Wednesday night.

A schooner's dragging anchor cut the electric power cable stretching across the harbor bottom from the New Jersey shore. The damage was discovered at dusk Wednesday when the 150 dwellers on the island found themselves with no illumination except candle light.

The cable was repaired yesterday and Bartholdt's statue resumed her task of casting symbolic rays of enlightenment upon the world.

COMMON COLDS ARE DANGEROUS

Many Serious Ailments Get Their Start from Little Colds

Some day people will learn to appreciate the serious dangers of ordinary colds and how they weaken general health. Every day some one reports a long period of illness following a cold. Colds weaken people so that one is hardly over until another one starts. They set up an inflammation of the membranes that line the nose and throat, and these in turn extend the inflammation to the stomach and bowels. After a few weeks of this the entire mucous membrane is likely to be quite catarrhal.

When it is remembered that practically everything we need to sustain life—the air we breathe, the food we eat and the water we drink—must be absorbed through these membranes, the importance of keeping them free from catarrh will be understood. Many a person suffers agonies from a catarrhal stomach, and many can trace their decline in health back to this condition in stomach, bowels or nose and throat.

That is why prompt treatment of a catarrhal condition, however slight it may appear, is of real importance. World's Tonic should be taken whenever the system fails to function properly, whenever the slightest stomach or bowel trouble manifests itself, for the leading doctors of the world have agreed that everyone's bowels should move freely three times every day. In that way the ravages of catarrh may be checked and much suffering avoided.

A great host of people have used World's Tonic for catarrh. In many cases it has been used to relieve stomach trouble of long standing that was evidently catarrhal in its origin. Wherever there is stagnation of blood in the membranes there usually is catarrh. Prevent it from disabling you by this valuable new World's Tonic, which can be obtained of all Dow Stores (formerly McCulloch), or any other first-class drug store. (A-63)

COLISEUM SUES DEMPSEY

CHICAGO, April 12.—(INS.)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, yesterday accepted services in a downtown hotel here for a damage suit for $500,000 brought against him by the Chicago Coliseum Club.

Attorney Ralph Rosen of the club declared the suit was for breach of contract on Dempsey's part of an agreement to fight Harry Wills, in the Chicago Coliseum under auspices of the Coliseum Club.

The contract later made by Dempsey for the Tunney fight here, Rosen declared, and the subsequent abrogation of the Wills fight by Dempsey cost the Coliseum $250,000 in actual expenses and lost the club, too, an additional quarter of a million dollars in estimated profits.

Rosen also said the club holds a judgement against Dempsey in the state of Indiana for $250,000, but the club has been unable to serve Dempsey with the necessary papers in Indiana to hold him for contempt of court on that judgment.

Deputy Sheriff Louis R. Peske served notice of the suit on Dempsey and he, in turn, accepted the notice without comment. The bill of particulars, Rosen said, will be filed within 24 hours and trial, if Dempsey is ready at that time, will be within two weeks. The case is assigned to Judge Craig Hood.

DIXIE RELAYS BEGIN

ATLANTA, Ga., April 12.—(AP.)—Southern Athletic records will be sought by more than 500 college and high school athletes in the seventh annual Georgia Tech relays here today and tomorrow.

High school events will be run off on the first day with the colleges and grammer schools holding forth Saturday.

Twenty-two colleges have entered. All except two—Indiana and Michigan normal—are from the South. Head Coach W. A. Alexander of Georgia Tech, in charge of the relays, believes that five Dixie records are in danger of being shattered in the college events tomoddow.

One of these is the 100-yard dash mark of 10 seconds, now held jointly by Berryman of Centre; Chandler of Clemson and Cumming of Virginia. Coach Alexander believes at least six men, Brown of Louisiana State; Winfrey of Tennessee, Hogrefe of Presbyterian College; Currie of Davidson; Zobel of South Carolina and McCrary of Georgia, are capable of bettering that mark.

Another record that seems likely to be bettered is the high jump. This is held by Eubanks of Oglethrope, who set a mark of 5.11 5-8. But Eubanks has done as good as six feet, three inches, as has Sanford of Georgia, another entry.

Emanuel May Ask To Postpone Fight

LOS ANGELES, APRIL 12.—(AP.)—A sore right hand today threatened to interfere with the scheduled Wrigley Field battle here Monday night between Armand Emanuel, San Francisco heavyweight and Ace Hudkins, Nebraska "wildcat."

Emanuel's right hand, bruised in training, may cause either postponement or the calling off of the catchweight struggle. He has been unable to punch squarely with the hand, and his father-manager, Charles Emanuel, declared that if it was no better after today's workout he would ask for a postponement.

Meanwhile, the Hudkins training establishment was aglow with optimism and confidence. The "Wildcat" believes he will finish Emanuel before the tenth round bell.

Allegheny Ikes Hosts at Dinner

Members of the Allegheny Chapter of the Izaak Walton League will be hosts at a fish dinner in the Elks' Temple, North Side, at 6:30 o'clock this evening. The fish to be served at the feast were transported alive from the Great Lakes today.

The showing of Art Young's Alaskan Adventures is to feature the entertainment program. Ralph Reichbold, the cartoonist, will be one of the other entertainers. Officials of state and county game commissions, sports writers, representatives of other chapters of the Izaak Walton League and officials and members of the Pittsburgh Aquarium Club are to be among the guests.

BUGS BAER Says

REPARATIONS, WHERE IS THY STINGER?

"Bugs" Baer

WHILE the rest of the world is twisting dexteriously on notary itinerary, the reparation fiends have been simmering gently in Paris.

This peace carnival is taking place in the Hotel King George the Fifth who is still a couple of jumps ahead of Uncle Sam the Seventh.

We now know why this Congress of Babel was not held in the Hall of Mirrors.

The diplomats have seen enough of each other.

Reports indicate that the same tincture of friendship permeates the convention.

The only flaw in the ointment is that the agreements are too hostile.

France is willing to square the circle and circle the egg. Germany is anxious to pay the piper provided that somebody takes care of the rest of the orchestra.

England, Austria and other pink spots on the map are desirous of a bigger and bitter understanding between the world powers.

Everybody is anxious to pay anything but money.

The big argument over there now is whether the minimum is healthier than the maximum.

America is willing to lose the interest on the principal. Europe wants to make it unanimous.

And the way it looks now, the interest and the principal are both orphans in the storm.

Well, we are not getting anywhere. But no man can say that our diplomats are not enjoying the boatrides.

So far as reparations are concerned we seem to have lost our foreign business.

Europe has the right idea of success. It borrows like a whale and pays back like a minnow.

Andy Mellon probably thought that the name of J. P. Morgan would scatter terror in the hearts of European diplomats. Even if J. P. speaks 11 or 12 languages it is not enough.

What we should send over there is a tough chiropractic who can make them nod, "Yes."

We thought the armistice was military and not financial.

Still, we are holding our own.

There have been 17 peace embassies and we have not yet lost a man.

PARENTS MUST CO-OPERATE!

OUR Vocational Guidance Department, efficient as it is, can do nothing if parents refuse to take the right attitude.

A case in point is that of the child above. In good faith we tested his capabilities. After no little trouble we found he was absolutely deaf.

After that there was no doubt in our mind that he would become a musician. So we purchased the necessary equipment and sent him home, where he belongs.

But the ungrateful parents, with never a thought for the child's future, made him stop training—and what is worse—refused to pay us our customary fee. We try to be patient—but if there is any more unreasonable opposition we will find it impossible to continue our helpful service, and no amount of teasing will do any good.

McGovern-Babcock Affair Is Deplored by Public

Belligerency in the office of the County Commissioners, which has been in evidence since the advent of the present board, has reached a stage at which the public is undecided whether to be shocked, horrified or merely amused. Perhaps those having the latter reaction are the more numerous.

Messrs. McGovern and Babcock have had many wordy tilts from which the former may have received more public sympathy than the latter because he has appeared to be the "under dog," receiving scant attention from the majority members of the board, Messrs. Armstrong and Babcock. Likely McGovern's friends still will sympathize with him even though they cannot justify his fistic attack on Commissioner Babcock, no matter what the provocation.

Mr. McGovern, very soon after striking Mr. Babcock, expressed his sorrow for having permitted his anger to get the better of him. Today he publicly apologized to the victim of his ire, promising a personal apology at the first opportunity. That certainly is manly and should be the salve that will heal wounded feelings.

The public deplores such incidents. Furthermore, it is tired of bickerings in the Board of County Commissioners, for which Mr. Babcock has not been altogether blameless. At no time has he attempted to be conciliatory or tolerant of the views of McGovern.

A little more teamwork, please, gentlemen.

Big Prosperity Signs Appear Down River

Down on Neville Island the Davison Coke and Iron Company is engaged in a construction program that will cause an expenditure in excess of $12,000,000, according to an announcement by the company. Its blast furnace there is to be expanded and modernized. It will receive its coke from a by-product plant of 70 ovens, now being constructed.

The coal gas arising from the coking process will be used at the ovens and also in the manufacture of cement from slag, for which a modern plant also is being erected. Coal gas will be sold. Blast furnace gas will be used to make steam for the operation of the several plants, and the surplus of that also will be sold. The entire operation of all plants, it is announced, will be smokeless, fumeless, dustless.

Besides being an application of the highest efficiency in the use of coal and iron, this development will be a notable addition to the industries which make Pittsburgh prosperous. It virtually lets nothing escape from either coal or iron ore. The latter will be transformed into the basic iron, the waste incident to the process becoming cement. The coal, in being transformed into furnace fuel, will be entrapped into yielding up its chemical by-products also for the use of mankind. Railroad and wharves will add to the completeness of the plant.

Readers have frequently been advised not to sell America short. The same advice goes for the Pittsburgh district.

Voyage Up the Allegheny Valuable River Survey

Another step in the development of river transportation, experimental but significant, is the completion of a trip by the federal speedboat Monongahela to the headwaters of the Allegheny and return to Pittsburgh. Col. Jarvis J. Bain, United States Army engineer, in charge of government river activities in Pittsburgh, under whose direction the trip was made, stated that residents along the river manifested much interest in the Monongahela's voyage, which extended as far as Salamanca, N. Y., 240 miles by river.

This, of course, does not prove the upper Allegheny is commercially navigable, but it shows what the possibilities are of making it so through dam construction, which is expected eventually to be part of the government program for waterway development. The trip was a difficult one, the progress of the boat at times being guided by soundings to locate a channel, it is reported, but that experience, too, is of value in the data covering the results of the survey.

Naturally the earliest future development of the Allegheny will be in the vicinity of Pittsburgh, but the northern districts are interested, too, and agitation had been going on for many years for deepening the channel to permit navigation. Eventually that will come, they expect. A waterway, 240 miles of which could be made navigable, perhaps more, is too valuable an asset of the people to permit it to lay unused.

Smiling Through

Good Nature Important Asset in Business.

In Revere, Mass., the mayor has appointed a girl of 19 years to be official complaint clerk because she possesses a charming voice and a persuasive smile. The mayor showed sound judgment.

Good nature is as important as good judgment in all persons dealing with complaints in public or private offices. There is nothing more discouraging to public and private business than grouchy, supercilious, condescending or patronizing persons in positions of public relationship.

Such slogans as "The Voice With the Smile Wins," "The Public Be Pleased," "The Customer Is Always Right," "Courtesy Pays" are sound psychologically and practically.

Success has been founded on politeness in business and a face may be worth a fortune literally, if it is wreathed in a smile.

Tales That Are Told

Too Much to Swallow

THE lady of the house had just returned.

"Did anyone call while I was out, Violet?" she asked the new maid.

Violet nodded.

"Yes, ma'am. Some ladies belonging to the church came to see you—and I gave it to them good and proper."

Her mistress frowned.

"Gracious me! What did you say to them?"

"Well, ma'am," said Violet, "they said they'd called to collect some money to get coal for the church, and I told them that you may look simple, but you're no fool, for you know quite well that the church is heated by steam."

Outrageous

SHE came to her husband in tears.

"I've been insulted!" she spluttered. "You mother has insulted me."

"My mother?" he exclaimed. "But, Alice, she's miles away."

"I know. But a letter came for you this morning addressed in your mother's handwriting—and I opened it."

He looked stern.

"I see. But where does the insult come in?"

Alice wept all the more.

"In the—the postscript," she answered. "It said: 'Dear Alice, don't forget to give this letter to George.'"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

FRED'S been telling me about himself and his brother.

Fred, according to his own admission, is a Smart Guy.

No one puts anything over on him.

You know how it is in offices—somebody always trying to wish a little extra work on you?

Well, they don t wish it on Fred.

"Not on your life!" says Fred, grinning. "Nobody's going to make me do anything I ain't paid to do. All this talk about getting ahead fast by working overtime and taking extra responsibility is the bunk. A fellow who does that is a sap. IF YOU'RE SMART YOU PROVE IT BY GETTING OUT OF WORK—NOT GETTING INTO IT. But you can't make my brother Bill see that."

Bill, according to Fred, is a hound for punishment.

He's always doing work he could just as easy skin out of.

Actually seems to look around for things to do—

There isn't a job in the shop he hasn't tackled—

Why, he knows more about running the place than the boss himself.

"But what does he get for it?" asks Fred.

"Just the chance to do more work—that's all. He hasn't had a raise in four years. Yet, the poor boob's as happy as if he had good sense. Nothing like that for me! Believe me, if they want me to do something, they gotta show me the pay check first."

And with that, Fred proceeds to tell you how many fancy ways he has of eluding labor—how often he manages to get an hour or even a half day off "without the boss getting wise."

As he talks he chuckles and slaps his knee. It is evident Fred is mightily proud of his smartness.

But Fred isn't really smart at all.

He's being gypped—double-crossed—short-changed and cheated every day of his life, and he doesn't know it.

Who's gypping Fred?

Fred himself.

HE'S CHEATING HIMSELF BY MAKING HIS OWN TIME VALUELESS.

The richest treasure a man can have is his own pride—his own sense of power and importance.

The man who masters many branches of work and makes himself greatly needed, ministers to that hunger within himself. He makes a creator of himself. He takes his place beside the gods. He does not shirk responsibility. Rather he thrills to it. The eight or nine hours he spends at his work are not irksome or meaningless to him. They are shot through with the excitement of opportunity.

He may not receive thanks for his extra labors. He may not get a raise in four or 40 years, but he gets something that is more valuable to him than food. HE GETS LIFE. HE GETS A SENSE OF POWERFUL, ABUNDANT LIFE. He doesn't sell his "time" to the boss or try to trick the boss in the bargain. He uses all his time and enjoys all of it. Out of its joyful, generous use come great adventures.

But neither the boss nor Fred get anything out of Fred's time.

Shirkers aren't really smart. They think they are.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

IT'S hard for a business man to be rough with the ladies, even if they feel like they ought to. Sometimes a lady will make a mistake, just like a man does, but when it's a man the floorwalker can kick him out.

Anyhow, this lady was good looking, and she was trying to cash a check at a bank in New York.

Now, you know, it's mighty hard to cash a check in a New York bank, even if you know everybody there. They still think maybe you're just disguised as yourself, and probably are somebody else.

So the bank teller says, "I can't cash this here check unless you're identified."

"Why, sure," she says. "You want some responsible person to say who I am?"

"Yes."

"Oh, all right, my friend here is responsible, and she'll identify me."

"But I don't know your friend either."

"Pardon me, I forgot to introduce her, because I thought it was all kind of business around here. This is Miss Sarah Whoseis—and may I have your name, please, Mr. Teller?"

WEATHER PUZZLES

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE recent extraordinary cold in Europe has revived the old speculations about the oncoming of another glacial epoch. But a puzzling circumstance is that while Europe was frozen America was enjoying unusually warm weather for the season. This looks as though the cold weather on the eastern side of the Atlantic must be ascribed to local conditions rather than to common world-wide defect of heat, such as would be caused by a diminution of the sun's radiation.

But what could such conditions be? It might seem a natural reply that there must have been a change in the prevailing winds and ocean currents, causing a decrease in the influx of warm water and warm air into western and northwestern Europe. But then it would be necessary to account in turn for this alteration of the winds and currents. As far as we can see, the only general cause would be a change in the air temperature resulting either from variation of the solar radiation, or from some uncommon state of the atmosphere itself. It would require very careful observation and discussion to establish either of these assumptions.

The meteorologists have an elaborate theory of "hyperbars" and "infrabars," which may be likened to serial mountains and valleys, where cold air flows down and out from the hyperbars while cyclones circle around the deeps of the infrabars. The hyperbars are areas of high pressure, and the infrabars of low pressure. The primary cause of the existence of these contrasted atmospherica area is the radiation of the sun. But it appears that there are certain hyperbars where the state of high pressure is more or less permanent during entire seasons, and this exercises a control over the weather of large areas, enduring almost unchanged, sometimes for months.

Then again abrupt changes occur, completely altering the relations of the high and low pressure areas, and bringing on startling weather conditions. Over all reign other causes, but guessed at or little understood, which act periodically through long cycles of time. Everybody must have noticed that when extraordinary weather, like that which surprised Europe, comes on, people do not say that such a thing never happened before, but only that it has not occurred since the time of their fathers or grandfathers, perhaps a century ago.

And, in fact, there is reason for affirming that there has been no essential new climate in any part of the inhabited world since recorded history began. A change that seems new is a recurrence of something forgotten, that came about so long ago that it has passed into the realm of tradition.

The glacial epoch itself now appears to have been only one of these recurrent stages in climatic history. At least four successive stages of alternate cold and warmth can be traced in the latest ice age, which seems to have covered the days of the earliest types of mankind. But it is still an unsettled question whether these recurrences can be traced to systematic changes in the relations of the earth to the sun, arising either from alterations in the obliquity of the ecliptic, or of the eccentricity of the earth's orbit, or from fluctuations in the radiative energy of the sun, which would occur if the sun were a variable star of very long or very irregular periodicity. One noteworthy conclusion to which investigators have been led is that the chief factor in bringing on the glacial stages was a lowering of temperature rather than an increase of atmospheric precipitation.

Hateful Things

(Proverbs 6: 1-19)

MY son, if thou be surety for thy friend, if thou hast stricken thy hand with a stranger,

Thou are snared with the words of thy mouth, thou are taken with the words of thy mouth.

Do this now, my son, and deliver thyself, when thou art come into the hand of thy friend: go, humble thyself, and make sure thy friend.

Give not sleep to thine eyes, nor slumber to thine eyelids.

Deliver thyself as a roe from the hand of the hunter, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler.

Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise:

Which having no guide, overseer, or ruler,

Provideth her meat in the summer, and gathereth her food in the harvest.

How long wilt thou sleep, O sluggard? when wilt thou arise out of thy sleep?

Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep:

So shall thy poverty come as one that travelleth, and thy want as an armed man.

A naughty person, a wicked man, walketh with a froward mouth.

He winketh with his eyes, he speaketh with his feet, he teacheth with his fingers;

Frowardness is in his heart, he deviseth mischief continually; he soweth discord.

Therefore shall his calamity come suddenly; suddenly shall he be broken without remedy.

These six things doth the Lord hate: yea, seven are an abomination unto him:

A proud look, a lying tongue, and hands that shed innocent blood,

An heart that deviseth wicked imaginations, feet that be swift in running to mischief,

A false witness that speaketh lies, and he that soweth discord among brethren.

The Rhyming Optimist

First Love

IT was long, ah, long ago
That we saw this blossom grow,
Flower of youth's most sun-sweet years,
Shadowed by no cares or fears,
First love, touched with all delight,
Bird with plumage rainbow-bright,
Fire whose flame was ever white!
It was long, ah, long ago
That we saw this wonder go.

Many years have come and gone,
Still, a breath may come at dawn
Making all the day more fair
For the memory drifting there,
First love . . . dream beyond all dreams,
Lighting with its radiant gleams
Life's dim valleys, somber streams.
It was long, ah, long ago,
But the glory does not go!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 12.—Thoughts while strolling: Those smartly dressed women who dine alone. And drive off in horse-drawn carriages. A bank gives a safety razor to each new depositor. Soapstone doo-dads sold as jade. Sign: "Mourning costumes in 12 hours." Arthur William Brown, the illustrator.

Fannie Hurst, a Hamilton (O.), girl, who made good in the city. (I know. Most everybody thinks it is St. Louis.) Flappers who lower their lids. And those who twitter. Four street clocks in a block. All telling different time. Those charging police dogs on foot-long leashes. And dragging their owners.

A house number studded in glass lights in the sidewalk flagstone. They say the old boys with face lifts wear sideburns. Spenders from the one-horse boom towns. Who visit Tex Guinan's. And are called by first names right out loud. Clair Maxwell, of the celebrated Maxwell brothers.

Many new German restaurants. Sour rye bread sandwiches with thick cream cheese. And schnittlauch. Yum, yum! Also country sausages, fried apple rings, baking powder biscuits and fried mush. And waiters with a Jack Pearl dialect. Central Park protecting trees like Paris—with iron gratings.

The blind newswoman who knits all day. And the dignified fellow in a frock coat who leads a stage donkey to the theater nightly. That pleasant calm at dusk before the office buildings pop into a million lights. Sol Bloom and his pince nez. In Congress or something.

The Wall street plunger who had a ticker installed at his tableside in a luncheon place. There should be another book about India about now. Lynn Fontaine and Alfred What's-his-name. The jazz trombonist who looks like Coolidge. A jewelry auctioneer hurling his insults.

A tipsy cop. Queer crowds around the broadcasting stations. The Santa Claus fellows who work in the watch repairing shops. Vincent Lopez's buttoned shoes. Earl Benham's wide bottomed trousers. That haunting waltz from "Floretta." Silly work this. Wish I could land a job icing cookies!

The show boat craze hit New York with a bang. Most metropolites acquired the show boat "atmosphere" from Edna Ferber's "Show Boat" and its musical comedy glorification. A theater was turned into a showboat idea for several weeks this winter. The Hudson River is to have, for the first time, a smart show boat presenting well-known "names."

But away from the river landing the show boat performance is a dismal affair. It requires the background of the small town levee, the open air concert, banjo torch lights and picturesque characters of the water front to give it proper color. Even one so careful of details as Ziegfeld overlooked the best-known feature of a show boat—the calliope. A show boat without a calliope is like New York without a Broadway. Only those who have rushed to the levee to watch French's Floating Opera turn the bend and heard the calliope burst forth with its steaming rendition of "In the Good Old Summer Time" have a true appreciation of the show boat. It was the big yearly event in hum drum lives at the crossroads. Every player had the glamour of the adventurous life of the trouper and seasonal returns were awaited with far more eagerness than any theatrical offering in New York during a season.

H. T. Webster, the cartoonist, was upset at an afternoon tea recently when a waiter slumped to the floor in a dead white faint at his feet. "All I asked for," said the bewildered Mr. Webster, "was a cup of tea." Mr. Webster, it might be explained, hails from Tomahawk, Wis., where they cling to the chaste custom of serving tea at afternoon teas.

Writes J. M. F.: We were looking at some hideous ancestral chromos in a private gallery. With the owner out of earshot somebody cracked: "They look like Odd McIntyre's folks out in Missouri!"

All right, all right! But we'll bet not one had the masterful McIntyre chin?

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

HE WAS a man of middle age living in a small city, who said: "I don't know whether I have many friends here or not, but I feel so friendly to so many people that I am happy."

Here's the real philosophy of happiness.

When your attitude is right toward a large number of persons you will get much enjoyment out of life.

It is the little annoying characteristics like envy and selfishness that make for unhappiness.

But if you meet the world in the right spirit you should be happy.

Naturally, situations arise more or less often that have a tendency to arouse anger, to make for spitefulness and revenge.

But if these emotions are not fostered and encouraged they die out.

On the other hand, it does not take much to keep the fires of meanness burning.

If you retain ugly feelings they grow rapidly.

Plenty of allowance should be made for the frailties of mankind.

When you can begin to overlook disagreeable things about those you know and enjoy their good qualities you are on the way to a greater degree of happiness.

And isn't it worth while to do so?
